Ed Bazinet Tells Why
On Housing

A new housing director, Ed Bazinet, is being appointed by the Board of Trustees for a three-year term. Bazinet is a 1965 Albany graduate and is currently employed in the housing area at State University of New York at Albany. During his undergraduate years he was a staff writer and associate editor in the Student Newspaper.

Bazinet, who received his bachelor's degree from State University of New York at Albany on August 18, also served as a student advisor at Michigan
State University, where he was a residence hall
director and graduate student advisor at Michigan State.

New Art Department To Be House In Field Garage Bays

Tallman and Tallman, IC's architects, are on campus again, this time by the football field. The company is working to complete the new art studios for the infant art department. Construction of the art studios, according to Provost Robert Davies, should be finished by October 15. In the meantime, the Art Department, which is celebrating its second year of a full majors program, is continuing its work in three locations, including the fourteenth floor of West Tower, the PA building, and a warehouse on Danby Road.

Nicknamed the "garage boys," the new studios, which actually look like a group of garages, are located adjacent to the football field. Provost Davies says, however, that the new $100,000 structure is still only temporary. He said, "The college has talked about building a Fine Arts Building in the future, perhaps in four or five years." In that event, the facilities now being prepared will be used to store college equipment.

Original plans for the new structure were made during last May's board of trustee's meeting, and the builders at that time expected to have the "garage boys" ready for entrance September first. Contractors, delays however, have pushed the grand opening up two months.

In addition, it seems that rumors that the art department will interfere with football games. According to the Provost, however, the structure is more likely to disturb any attempts at baseball. He says plans are being made to adjust the baseball diamond.

The college has three full-time faculty members in the art department, and three additional part-time faculty members. Enrollment in the program is forty-five students.

FRESHMEN WELCOME

Wilhelm, Sprague Named To New Posts

by Phil Langan

Two Associate Deans have been named for the School of Health and Physical Education at Ithaca College.

Arnold Wilhelm, formerly director of the School of Health and Physical Education, has been named Associate Dean of the School with responsibility for the division of physical education.

Robert Sprague, formerly director of the division of physical therapy, has been named Associate Dean with responsibility for physical therapy and allied health services.

Ithaca, a former associate professor of physical education, has been named director of the division of physical education.

The changes were announced August 31 before the first session of the all-college faculty for the 1969 Fall term.

Wilhelm holds the B.S. degree from Wisconsin State University, and earned his Doctor of Physical Education degree from Indiana University. He has been with Ithaca College since 1961 and was appointed director of the division of physical education in 1966.

Sprague was appointed director of the division of physical therapy in the fall of 1965. He holds a B.S. degree in Physical Education from Cortland State College, and the certificate in physical therapy from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University. He earned his Ph.D. in Physical Education with specialization in Adapted Physical Education and Rehabilitation from the University of Iowa.

DeLucca, a former associate professor of physical education, has been named director of the division of physical education. The changes were announced August 31 before the first session of the all-college faculty for the 1969 Fall term.
The Housing Squeeze

Once again, Ithaca College is in over its head. The housing situation that has beset downtown Ithaca and Collegetown in the past four or five years, causing rents to zoom all the way into downtown Ithaca and Collegetown for years, causing rents to zoom again, has now beset Ithaca College.Ads for housing have been jammed into every available nook and cranny, and our students have been notified that they are expected to move into the Terrace, must now watch as the housing situation that has beset downtown Ithaca and Collegetown in the past four or five years, causing rents to zoom again, has now beset Ithaca College. Ads for housing have been jammed into every available nook and cranny, and our students have been notified that they are expected to move into the Terrace, must now watch as their coveted carpeted rooms are turned into zoos. Bodies, ski poles, record players and suitcases have been jammed three-in-a-room.

The best, and maybe only, way to get through registration is to stay at it. Well, just bear it anyway. We can't help wondering where the blame belongs. The resident assistants and student advisors were told during orientation that the admissions department stopped accepting applications when the situation became evident.

The only exception they made were transfer and readmit applications, which they felt they had no choice about. We wonder if they really did have a duty to process transfer applications. When it became apparent that there was just no more room, why didn't they stop?

Everyone is looking for a scapegoat now. But, as the saying goes, the harm is already done. This year, as unhappy as the situation seems to be for the freshmen and the problems with housing and readmission, the brunt of the freshman onslaught has been borne by the upperclassmen, finally qualified by rank as transfer students. They ranged from sex to drugs to the student's role on campus—topics that a jaded upperclassman might be bored with, but which provided a new context for freshmen.

The content of the orientation program was matched only by the organization of the program. The programs were prepared well in advance, and the orientation committee managed to keep its cool even during the hectic hours of registration on Saturday and Sunday.

Kudos go to Tom Capraro, the steering committee chair and the rest of the orientation counselors for their outstanding job. With all the hassles of the past week, it's nice to know something was done right.

Among the plans revealed was a special chartered boat ride around Lake Cayuga, including a moonlight cruise and special tea luncheons. Also scheduled is the showing of "Wait Until Dark." Details for both of these programs are expected to be announced within the next few days.

Other activities slated are High Holiday and Sabbath services, social events, delisessen-style suppers, guest speakers, and a state-wide Hillel convention to be held at IC in the spring.

It was also revealed that a new membership plan will be instituted, enabling students to pay less by affiliating for more than one year. Details on this plan and all activities were announced at an Interfaith Reception held on Thursday, September 4, in the Kephart Union Lounge. A special Hillel table will be set up at the Organizations and Activities Fair tomorrow, in the Union Recreation Room.

Further information on all activities may be obtained by calling Mike Stetin on extension 3004.

Come browse around.
Sure, you're excited about all the new fashion ideas. But you like to take your time strolling through the new scene, don't you. You want to browse, try things on. Change your mind. Decide, after all, you didn't want green. We understand; that's half the fun. And our sales people understand. You'll find them helpful, always on hand, but never overly aggressive. You see, we love to shop too.
