NEW Teaching Plan Introduced

Because of the overcrowded concentrations which prevail in practice teaching facilities, cadet music teachers from Ithaca College are for the first time, unable to be accommodated in the local schools and must be sent out to neighbor-towns for their experience. Three plans have been devised to meet the situation:

Under Plan A, the student will spend two full days each week at nearby schools, returning to teach classes on all remaining school days.

Plan B provides one four week period in which the cadet resides in the town where he is teaching.

Plan C is the standard plan which has always been in operation. Cadets teach or observe for one hour each day for four weeks in Ithaca or schools, twice a week in adjacent towns.

890 G.I. Students Enrolled At I.C.

890 student veterans enrolled at Ithaca College have applied for educational benefits under the G.I. Bill, according to John H. Kelly, U. S.

Veterans Administration.

Mr. Kelly reports that the necessary certification has been completed for all pre-registered veterans to insure that they receive during the week of November 1st, subsequent checks for the period from opening of the Fall Term through October 31st. He called special attention to the fact that excepting those who have been in continuous training status since the summer returns will not receive any substantial payment at the end of September. Barren any unusual complication, such as delay in transfer of records from another schools who applied for benefits upon their return upon the campus will be received checks in the week of November 1st. Mr. Kelly stated subsequent checks will be delivered monthly at the end of each month.

Strand Theater Hosts to First Mass Meeting In Several Years

BY DAVID BROWN, JR.

The entire student body of Ithaca College jammed the Strand Theater at 10 A.M. on Tuesday, October 5, to participate in a mass meeting highlighted by an address from Dr. Charles E. Haines, new college vice-president. The program, the first of its kind sponsored by the college in several years, was opened by Dr. Leonard B. Job, IC president. Dr. Job extended a warm greeting to all students and expressed his pleasure at the reinstatement of the old college tradition which was made possible through the courtesy of Julian Bernstein, owner of the theater.

Following Dr. Job's greeting, the assembly was set into motion by Dawson Allson, who pinch-hit for Sidney (Lucky) Norval, originally scheduled as song leader, and the whole group joined in some old favors, accompanied by Joseph Barns on the accordion. Mr. Craig McMahon then conducted his band through "Old Reliable" and "Greenwich Village," sung with great enthusiasm.

Under introducing Dr. Haines, Dr. Job, indicated that the new vice-president would serve the college in a planning and promotion capacity. Dr. Haines chose as the subject of his address, "Reflections of a Freshman" and discussed that he considered himself as such in his new position with Ithaca College.
He recommended the recent Freshmen assembly for its hearty welcome and emphasized that students should participate in the college's purposes. In return for this acceptance this college-wide invitation for students to visit him in his office, located in the administrative building.

In continuing his address, interpreted with humorous comment, Dr. Haines approached the more serious aspects of democracy, and developed the premise that "Education must be adapted to the purpose it is to serve," to associate democracy with the learning process. Democracy cannot exist unless social responsibility be deeloped," stressed Dr. Haines. He demonstrated the necessity of reserving individual "free" or individual in order to promote the general welfare in the promotion to a higher form of democracy, and consequently clarified the position of faculty and students in the administration.

Dr. Haines observed that Ithaca College has grown despite physical limitations and emphasized that this was due to the high moral and faculty and students. This morale is carried over to the alumni whose loyalty is high as a result of experi-experiences at Ithaca College where they were impressed by faculty members' unusual interest in the individual student.

Dr. Haines declared that "Ithaca College provides an ideal situation for the development of the principles of democracy," and noted that democracy cannot be imposed on the people, that the institu-

(Sentiments expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect the opinion of anyone other than the writer.)

Greetings! The above is just another way of saying that I may, at times, take a wild guess about some issue of the day through the medium of this column. When such occasions arise, and if they don’t, I manufacture a few, I don’t want anyone other than myself to be held responsible. To those of you who are of the limits of good taste and good judgment, I intend to include material on just about everything, with the hope that you will be interested enough to read it and express an opinion. Complain if you have a legitimate gripe, but, do your work, find some congenial friends, enter as many extra-curricular activities as you have time for. I guarantee a rapid and enjoyable college career.

For the last several years, your Ithacan has been carrying on a campaign editorially and otherwise, to improve the school spirit so sadly neglected here. The campaign seems to have fruit but in a somewhat unexpected way. It is to the freshman we look, that what they learn out of the classroom will be of benefit to themselves and the student body of the college. It is to the freshman we look, that what they learn out of the classroom will carry them through the year to weave the pattern that will carry them through years of work for it and out of that work discover never-ending roads to travel. We realize that with the appearance of thousands of freshmen are finding a footing in their brand new alma mater. The confusions of a freshman mind are great for an entirely new life of experience has been imbibed. New acquaintances, new homes, books, and a new schedule of living confront the new students whose adjustment to these conditions must be made. The freshmen have that job in dig in while the upclassmen, to whom the routine of college life is familiar are merely picking up the threads of the previous year to weave the pattern that will carry them through life. And so it is to the freshmen we must come. Let us see the freshmen learn and help them to learn.

U.B. Before 11,000 Fans

Playing hands up football all afternoon, the University of Rochester Yellowjackets spoiled "Doe" Yavits' inaugural in this, his twentieth year of coaching soccer as they downed his game for punchless IC eleven by a 2-0 count on the victors home grounds last Saturday.

The Blue and Gold faced off on a determined Rochester scoring drive throughout the opening minutes of the game and even countered with an attack of their own that carried into the second period. Then midway through the period Ithaca's goalie Fred Streeter bumped into his own goal line and lost possession of the ball as he attempted to clear it from in front of his own goal. In the ensuing melee Bob Ellsworth of the U. R. R. drove the ball past the desperately lunging Streeter to give Rochester a 1 point lead.

Rochester continued to pound the field with few gains. So in addition to all the fond words handed Dupuis and DerCola, are overlooked as they pave the way for those who turned in a creditable performance. The Ithaca squad seems to lack one of those intangibles. Could it be that Dick Malmey made that much difference? ... LOCAL COLOR: The music season at I.C. gets off to an early start with a recital of vocal music by Mr. Donald Bauke, instructor of voice and conducting, on Sunday evening, October 24 at 8:15 p.m. in the Little Theater. Although the program is a music department, having joined the faculty this fall. The first student recital of the fall semester is tentatively set for this December. A special arrangement with the Berkshire Symphony Orchestra, the Robert Shaw Collegiate Choir, and Whittemore and Lowe, quintuplets, is now in the planning stage. A radio recital by John Kirkpatrick on March 1. There may be some tickets left for this recital. Those interested may contact the Cornell Music Department, 320 Walt Avenue for applications...Ithaca College Chorus and Symphony Orchestra preparing for the oratorio "Judas Maccabaeus" by Handel. The date set for the performance is January 16, 1949. The auditorium to be used for the performance hasn’t been announced as yet. Keep your eyes on Kappa Gamma’s Fraternity this year. They’re going to pull a couple of rabbits out of the hat...both in the drama and music lines.

DOWN NEW YORK WAY: The New York Philharmonic back at Carnegie after leaving its tour with Dimitri Mitropoulos for the last five weeks. It’s not too bad attendance at these recitals will be as excellent as that of last spring. The students put in a lot of hard work preparing for these recitals, and fellow students and faculty have an attendance by the handful. A Bailey Hall with a considerably good line-up for this year. Artists include: C. P. E. Bach, Mendelssohn, Prokofiev, Bartok, the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, Erico Morini, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, the Robert Shaw Collegiate Choir, and Whittemore and Lowe, quintuplets. Two students have been selected to play in a piano recital by John Kirkpatrick on March 1. There may be some tickets left for this recital. NEW YORK'S ANNUAL RECORDING: One of the best releases is the Columbia re-recording of Verdi’s "Falstaff" for this year. It has considerably improved the first attempt. The opera was performed in New York than they did on tour. Reports reached us that there was a very large, enthusiastic audience that responded with vitality. The exact figures were not obtainable. The proportions of fresh women in the Business School is much noted for its originality, also, being approx. 25% of total enrollments. Two students whose homes are in New York are students with the School of Business this semester.
