Strange Bedfellows Treads The Boards

"Strange Bedfellows" will be the first major production on the I.C. Drama Department. The play, a farcical comedy, will be presented in the Little Theatre October 10-14, under the direction of Charles Randall of the Drama Department. The action takes place in San Francisco during the 1890’s. War between the sexes breaks out in the fashionable Croswell family over suffrage issues. Congressman Matthew Croswell disrupts the entire household when he brings home his bride Clarissa, a militant suffragist leader. Soon the whole family is split on the suffrage issue, and some hilarious scenes result.

Jonathan Farwell plays the leading role of Matthew Croswell, with Marlene Shanak as Clarissa. Bill Elliott and Judy Foster portray the elder Senator and Mrs. Croswell, while Lynn Morre and M. K.’s sidekicks play the daughter and son-in-law. Other supporting roles are filled by Carolyn Stilson, Larry Roy, Sally Midda, David Moholt, Cliff Marsh, Judy Swain, Joelle Farwell, Barbara Zahr, Patrick Schwartz, Karen Marzeti, Gayle Coffin and Ann Lee.

Settings have been designed by George Mosier and executed by Gerald Cowan.

Brooks Atkinson of the “New York Times” says “Mr. and Mrs. Clements’ Cartoons have artfully put together, popular comedy about a family that is split straight down the middle on the political question of vote for women — the audience laughed uproariously.”

Irving W. Cohn of “New York Theatre” says: “... Not in a long time has a play been more enjoyed than this gay satire Battle of the Sexes... It stars hilariously, with a cast that is a company of creased, sustained the pace until the final curtain.”

Parlez Vons Francizes?

Recently, it came to the attention of this reporter that something new has been added to Room 10 of the Annex. Eager to find out just what excitement this building held, I went to Room 10. However, once there and peeping at the door, I did not observe anything peculiar or out of the ordinary. I knocked, but there was no answer. All the lights were cut, and the door was locked. Intent on getting a look at the inside of the room, I went outside to gaze through the windows. All the shades were down. I said to myself, "Something spectacular must be sheltered in that room." Now I was really determined to see inside Room 10. So, the next time I came back, only to find the door closed. Yet, I was in luck; the light was on, and that sound was emanating from within. I put my ear to the door, and to my surprise, I heard a female voice speaking in a foreign language. Just at that moment, as a bell rang, the doors opened. I practically fell into a seemingly normal classroom.
Democrats and Republicans

View Civil Rights

One of the greatest responsibilities we have today is in a progressing America to do something about the minority groups. Both major political parties can take credit for some of the progress which has been made in recent years. However, today we must admit that the needs of these people are far from being met.

In April of this year, President Eisenhower signed a bipartisan commission which would be created by Congress and strengthen previous civil rights remedies and investigations alleging violations of civil rights laws. On the Southern Democrat side of the fence, the Democratic Congress which refused to permit any civil rights legislation to get to the floor for discussion. The only alternative would have been for the President to send in troops if the rioting didn't stop. He was at all interested in a better way of life for minority groups should put forth maximum effort to elect a Republican Congress.

No one can deny President Eisenhower's sincere, determined desire to guard equal rights and to support in 1956. The Republican Party prides itself on being the party of principle. Since the historic Supreme Court decision of 1954 on segregation in the public schools was announced, President Eisenhower and his Republican colleagues have proved to the people of this nation that the issue of civil rights is purely a matter of politics and not a matter for discussion. For instance, the Republicans say one thing on civil rights in the North and the opposite in the South.

In New York City on Feb. 11, President Eisenhower, speaking for a unanimous Supreme Court, a great Republican Chief Justice, Earl Warren, has ordered an end to racial segregation in the nation's schools.

On May 25, 1956, this item appeared in the Jackson (Miss.) State Times and is attributed to Young Republican Chairman Charles McWhorter: "(McWhorter) opened the Republican's record as a conservative party, moderate on civil rights', best suits the inter­

The presented no civil rights program until April of this election year. Then he grabbed the Democratic bills which he failed to support in 1956.

The 1956 GOP platform favored federal action toward elimination of lynching and poll taxes and in favor of collective bargaining (collective Employee practices) legislation. Since then, Eisenhower and Nixon, by their deeds and words have repudiated that same platform.

The Ithaca College soccer team, looking forward to a fine season, opened with an impressive win over Army at West Point. The team traveled to play at Rochester today. They took the game to the visitors at E. Stroudsburg and won 3-1 at home against Hamilton for their first game. It was a good win for the Orange and Blue.

Dave Yost's men will see Hobart at home. George Maness led the Bombers' attack, scoring three goals against Army. Jim Zonneveld's pass to Tim McEvoy set the stage for a goal against I.C.'s defense. The Bombers' second goal was set up by a pass from Bob Hoyt and knocked in by his hand. Hamilton knocked the score in the next quarter when Colonials tallied.

Neither team was able to strike at any time in the next period. Ithaca now holds a 1-1-1 record. It was the first of three games this season for the Colonials and the second consecutive two-touchdown defeat for Ithaca. The Bombers first got into trouble late in the third quarter. After stopping a threatening Wilkes drive deep in Ithaca territory with a pass interception, they were unable to gain a first down. Quarterback Chris Wade kicked it but it was a bad boot and went out on the 19th. Backs Art Tambur then, on their first play of the fourth period, Ressinger swept out of the one-yard line for the touchdown. Tambur's kick was good for extra point, 20-12.

A pass interception set up the second Wilkes TD with 5 minutes remaining. Wingate at Manarski crashed an aerial from Bomber quarterback Perry Nunn and ran it to the 12. Following an exchange of fumbles, back Ray Yanchus hit Manarski with a pass on the two. The attempted kick failed again.

Ressinger and Tambur bore the brunt of the Wilkes running attack but fumbles and penalties played an almost equally-important part in setting up the Wilkes win. On several occasions the Bombers moved within the opposition 20 with a promising drive only to see it bog down because of penalties or fumbled by a fumble.

Ithaca coach Arthur Orlovee puts much of the blame for the defeat on psychological factors. "There seems to be a certain laxness or complacency among the boys," he says. "When they are playing against the spark seems to go out of them."

As a consequence of his displeasure with their performance Saturday, he scheduled a psychological psychological practice Monday. The next chance for the Bombers to break their losing streak will be against Cortland. Always great, tough too for the locals, in a game there on Saturday afternoon.

Booters Tie

Ichabod College and Hamilton College tied 1-1 in a soccer game at Titan Field Saturday afternoon. Center forward George Murphy drew first blood for Ichabods in the opening period. Neither team was able to strike at any time in the next period. Ichabods hold a 1-1-1 record.}

WILKES WINS, 12-0, OVER I. C. ELEVEN

Wilkes College scored twice in the fourth period to beat Ithaca College, 12-0, in a football game at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Saturday night. The two teams opened through a downpour for three quarters, most of it played in Ithaca territory, before the Colonels broke loose in the final quarter.

It was the first win in three games this season for the Colonels and the second successive two-touchdown defeat for Ithaca. The Bombers first got into trouble late in the third quarter. After stopping a threatening Wilkes drive deep in Ithaca territory with a pass interception, they were unable to gain a first down. Bombers Drop Opener To Stroudsburg, 13-0

Behind the outstanding ball-carrying of senior halfback Dick Merring, the Ithaca College Bombers defeated the East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College 13-0. The Bombers ground out a 1-10 decision over the Ithaca College Bombers on Friday evening, September 28, at Percy Field. The Bombers, playing their first game of the infant season under coach Art Orloske, fought valiantly and hung on all the way, but just seemed to be unable to capitalize on any opportunity. The loss was the second in a row for the Pennsylvania teachers.

I.C. went into the fray a 20-point underdog and when the first few plays of the game had been ruled off, it appeared as if this margin was a cause for optimism. However, as the first quarter progressed, the Bombers' defense began to jell, and neither team was able to score, although the Ithacans penetrated at one point to the Stroudsburg 27. The second quarter was more or less a repetition of the first, with neither squad successful in driving deep into the other's territory. When the half ended with the two teams locked in a scoreless tie, it became apparent that the 1,500 faithful who crowded into the Little Theatre, the Bombers were without the services of their starting quarterback, John Finster, were out a 1,500 faithful who packed the Little Theatre, and the first pep rally which preceded the East Stroudsburg game on September 28 plans were underway for more rallies for the remaining home games.

At the rally held in the Little Theatre, the I.C. team was introduced by Sal Mugavero, MC, and the cheerleading squad led the student body in songs and cheers. Dr. Dillingham, vice-president of Ithaca College, Coach Arthur Orloske and his new assistant, Hal Stidem, spoke on their high hopes of I.C.'s team winning many games this season.

Don Brown and Don Cardia, the two to whom the credit for organizing the rally goes, plan an all-new pep rally for the Full Week game with Lockhaven on November 2, 1956. The success of this pep rally and home at Percy Field depends on the co-operation of the student body.

More Pep Rallies Planned At I.C.

Because of the success of the first pep rally which preceded the East Stroudsburg game on September 28, plans are underway for more rallies for the remaining home games.

Pep Rally You Francese (Continued from pp. 8, col. 5) with travel posters pinned on the walls.

I approached a young woman, whose name I learned was Mrs. Francese Gebhardt. She greeted me with a French accent, and told me that the new sensation was the presentation for the room of twenty-four individual sound proof tape recorders in the school. This equipment was contributed to Ithaca College by the French government. It is to be used for first and second year language classes in French, German, and Spanish.

I left understanding at least a little bit more why there had been so much excitement concerning pit in Room 10.
