The Ithacan
Dear Editor,

I am writing this in regard to the Student Council's regulations concerning beanies. The Council has taken upon itself to compel the freshman to wear these caps. This rule, the Council adds, is not for the good of the student nor for the benefit of the freshman. Why should the freshman be notified, especially if he doesn't want it, and why obtain such recognition by asking him to perch a silly little cap on his head. A colored cap would be sufficient and improve more dignity while the advantage of the armband is its cheapness. The Student Council added that tradition has been for the freshman to wear the beanies. There has been a tradition of segregation in the south.

An unattended question mentioned to me by a freshman two weeks ago was that the money gained from the sale of beanies was used for what? The Council is then perhaps rationalizing a mercenary motive when it talks vaguely about tradition and recognition. If the money is needed, why not make a paper drive rather than take advantage of the student during fall registration? Why ask the freshman to bear the cost of the hat?

My strange informant predicted that this would be the last year for beanies. However, this argument has been advanced by some: that if the first scarecrow does not burn, then a second scarecrow will be forced to replace or repair the damaged equipment around the freshman dorms. It also has been said to save the school money. The school has also added some new seats to some of its classes. How much money would sit down and think which system is the better? Of course, the first scarecrow system would be better but the second scarecrow system would save money.

Perhaps this article is a waste of space? Perhaps it is too much to ask for a little common decency from the student body?

Sincerely,

Vandalism Continues

Her important role consisted predominantly in chasing her roommate around the Annex. It is sincerely hoped that this will not recur this year.

VANDALISM

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Boss,

Welcome back to the city of “cloudless climes and starry fires,” hope that your vacation was as interesting as many of the stories I have heard of Insecta College. My interest in your other character jobs. At least, one first glance they seem that way. They really reveal a lot about personabilties.

Roman, acting finally, is a very much a long one that, and now metal belt. He spent part of his vacation riding on a bike, and another part acting in the non-musical version of Shakespeare's Othello. My Fair Lady. Perhaps after too much time on the rodeo ranch Romeo feels that his real calling is not the stationary posts, but the swinging kind with fry-bee-streaks breathing heavily as they race across the plains.

Cesar, the earthworm who was once believed to have been killed under similar circumstances when reached to the roof of the Cornell Public Library, is back again. It now seems that he fell from the barren stage of the rocket when he reached out to catch a falling copy of Jane Eyre, instead of being crushed on the pavement, he fell on a small lodge of the library near a second story window. There, with a bruised leg which still seems to bother him a little, he read and re-read his one book. It wasn't as dull as it sounds because, for the cover had been glued over an unobtrusive copy of the Marquis de Sade. This summer, Cesar passed away his time crawling around various foreign ports . . . From what I hear, boss, they're not much different from the Hammondsport wineries right near Insecta—the same ones that Caesar enjoyed so very, very much last spring.

One of Insecta's most illustrious actresses, who is currently remaining for the coming major production of The Wife, Sunnyskatey, or Bet for short, a new mouse with a pretty little tail, did an out-standing job in an Off-Street Broadway production of Vermit, here in Insecta. Her important role consisted predominately in chasing her roommate around the Annex.

The school has also added some new seats to some of its classes. How much money would sit down and think which system is the better? Of course, the first scarecrow system would be better but the second scarecrow system would save money.

Perhaps this article is a waste of space? Perhaps it is too much to ask for a little common decency from the student body?

Sincerely,

What makes a winning football team? That's a pretty interesting question. Finding an answer to it is somewhat akin to finding out how the winning formula is. Even the winning formula has its own teacher.

There was plenty of celebrating in Ithaca last Saturday when one of I.C.'s 19-0 victory over Brockport overtook a 31-21 deficit that had been seen in the first half of the game. The second quarter of the game was largely dominated by the Bombers, who have won their first three games of the season. The victory is notable for the Bombers, who have been outscored by their opponents in recent years. The Bombers have scored a total of 71 points in their first three games, while their opponents have scored a total of 61 points. The Bombers' defense has been particularly strong, as they have only allowed 14 points in their first three games. This is in contrast to their opponents, who have scored a total of 31 points in their first three games.

The Bombers' defense is led by senior linebacker Ben Smith, who has recorded 23 tackles in his first three games. Smith is joined by sophomore linebacker Austin Johnson, who has recorded 14 tackles in his first three games. The Bombers' offense is led by junior quarterback Nick Jones, who has passed for 421 yards and three touchdowns in his first three games. Jones is joined by senior running back Jack Davis, who has rushed for 311 yards and three touchdowns in his first three games.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is significant for several reasons. First, it is the Bombers' first victory of the season. Second, it is the Bombers' first victory against a ranked opponent. Third, it is the Bombers' first victory since last year's game against Alfred.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is also significant for the Bombers' fans. The Bombers' fans have been eagerly awaiting the Bombers' first victory of the season. They have been supportive of the Bombers throughout the season, and their support has been key to the Bombers' success.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is also significant for the Bombers' coaching staff. The Bombers' coaching staff has been working hard to prepare the Bombers for their first victory of the season. They have been working with the Bombers throughout the season, and their hard work has paid off.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is also significant for the Bombers' athletic department. The Bombers' athletic department has been working hard to support the Bombers throughout the season. They have been providing the Bombers with the resources they need to succeed, and their support has been key to the Bombers' success.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is significant for the Bombers' community. The Bombers are a community team, and their victory is significant for the Bombers' community. The Bombers' victory is a source of pride for the Bombers' community, and it will be celebrated throughout the community.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is significant for the Bombers' opponents. The Bombers' opponents will need to regroup and prepare for their next game. Their next game is against Alfred, and they will need to be at their best to have a chance against the Bombers.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is significant for college football in general. The Bombers' victory is a testament to the skill and hard work of college football players and coaches. It is a reminder of the importance of teamwork and dedication, and it is a source of inspiration for college football players and coaches everywhere.

The Bombers' victory over Brockport is significant for the Bombers' fans, coaches, athletic department, community, opponents, and college football in general. It is a victory that will be remembered for many years to come.
COUNCIL LISTS BEANY RULES

These regulations have been set up by ALL FREEMEN of the Student Council. Any Council member has the authority to enforce these regulations. FREEMEN WHO DO NOT WEAR BEANIES WILL BE ASKED TO APPEAR BEFORE THE STUDENT COUNCIL FOR AN EXPLANATION. PLEASE Cooperate by Wearing Your Beanie.

Why Beanie are Worn

The wearing of Freshman caps or "beanies" is traditional at colleges and universities across the nation. The reason for the wearing of beanies is merely to serve as Identification of freshmen to upperclassmen, members of the faculty and administration, Ithaca presidents and storekeepers. This enables these people to welcome the freshmen to Ithaca and help them with any problems they may have.

Why Beanie are NOT Worn

Some CASES are beanies worn to facilitate basking of freshmen by upperclassmen. WASHING IN ANY FORM IS STRICTLY PROHIBITED IN ITHACA COLLEGE. Baring has almost completely disappeared from our college since the beanies have been used instead to introduce freshmen to college.

When Beanie are Worn

Beanie are worn from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. every day. Monday through Saturday.

Where Beanie are Worn

Beannie are worn everywhere outside of the dormitories or rooms of the freshman students.

How Long are Beanie Worn

Beannie will be worn by all freshmen until the Freshman Frolics, which occur this year on Tuesday, Oct. 23. They may then be removed, unless otherwise specified by the Wemen's Student Government.

"Snoodier "02

Any upperclassman (junior or senior) may ask any freshman to "sound 02." This is accomplished by the freshman by giving his or her name, home town, department, and dormitory. If any other question is asked, the freshman should use his or her own judgment about answering. You are NOT REQUIRED to answer anything else except the four things previously mentioned.
