"It was pretty quiet around Ithaca College after the class of '55 graduated and most of the students went home, but early in September things started happening again; Freshman Camp brought fresh, new faces into town, and it wasn't long before this one new class made Ithaca as lively as all their upper-classmen combined could've made it. My quiet summer of keeping the school in shape was over; there were more people to get to know and say 'hello' to.

"The upper-classman counsellors got to Ithaca first, and, headed by Jack Holcomb, they got the camp in shape. Seems like they'd just gotten the place ready when a bus in front of the college library began filling up with freshmen who had been waiting to come to the camp at Danby.

"With tired smiles, the counsellors watched 175 freshmen carrying their luggage up the hill to register in the main lodge."

“Shyness soon disappears when people are having fun. The freshmen were hardly registered and settled in their cabins when the counsellors started things happening. During the day there were plenty of outdoor games and hikes. Informal cabin sessions developed in which counsellors answered each freshman’s questions about college. At night there would always be dancing and entertainment in the lodge. It was too cold at night to sit around an outdoor campfire. The joke of the camp was the fellow who brought one blanket.”

Camp's over
"The freshmen seemed most impressed by the way the deans of the college (deans are supposed to be old and stuffy) visited the camp to join in the fun.

"It was a successful camp. Later, back in Ithaca, the counsellors told me, 'It's going to be a great class.' I thought so too."

"The first excitement over sports was stirred up by the soccer team this fall. The boys took on teams like Brockport and Cortland, but they managed to round out the season with a record of four wins, five losses, and two ties. A few outstanding players, like Jim Zonnevyle and Hank Hotaling, backed by good teamwork, led the squad to its victories over Hamilton, Rochester, Syracuse and Hobart."

"The first dance was designed to get freshman (and sophomore and junior and senior) boys acquainted with freshman girls. As usual, it started with boys standing in awkward groups and girls waiting nervously. But, by the end of the evening, the floor was filled with dancers."
The first fraternity to greet the new freshmen was Delta Kappa. The members were right on hand at registration getting each student's name and address for their student directory. Since it contains the phone numbers and addresses of every student in school, this little directory turns out to be one of the most useful reference books at Ithaca College. Each year Delta Kappa compiles, edits, and distributes the directory for students here.

"Delta Kappa, a national honorary fraternity, has been here at Ithaca since 1931, and this year the boys got themselves a new fraternity house."
Inter-Departmental Educational Organization

"People had been talking accreditation around here for a long time, and, last April, it finally happened. The Middle States Association gave us their seal of approval. Accreditation perked up student morale and brought about a fast growth of our liberal arts department. The separate departments began working together making the aims of activities like Co-Recreation and organizations like IDEO a lot easier to realize."

"The boys on the football team managed to stay cheerful this year in spite of a lot of tough luck. After the Wilkes game Jerry Kniffen got hurt in an automobile accident, and the boys seemed to lose their good start on the season. In spite of this loss, they became known for having the best pass defense among small colleges in the country.

"At the end of the season Don Diston was chosen as the most valuable player of the year."

"It didn’t matter what kind of weather we had this fall; if the football team could play, the marching band could march. The band’s director, Tom Pulaski, led them through all kinds of weather in a fine display of music and marching.

“It got so the marching band was a necessary part of every football game. Their brassy chorus inspired the rooters to louder cheering, and they performed some smart marching at half time to entertain the spectators.

Marching Band

Ithaca, thou lovely city

“The marching band's neat performances are no accident, though. Many times during the week I hear the kids in the band complaining about having to go to practice, but, if they don't like rehearsals, the practice still does them a lot of good as anyone can see by their performance.”
"We can't ignore the girls.

The twirlers are always right out in front of the marching band at half time. Our twirling squad consists of three pretty girls and one lucky drum major. This lively team always seems to put on a good show.

The twirlers have the spotlight at half time, but the cheerleaders take over during the game. This cheerleading squad seems tireless, and is always hopping up whenever time is called to lead the rooting section in another cheer. Whether the Bombers are winning or losing, they can be sure of strong moral support, thanks to these active girls."

"Sometimes an encouraging majority of the student body turns out for an event, proving that there is school spirit here. This fall, when the Women's Civic Committee held its carwash for the benefit of Kim, the Korean war orphan Ithaca College had adopted, a surprising number of students turned out to work. Guess when the goal is worthwhile, the student body will give a hand.

"The W.C.C. is made up of girls from all departments of the college working to promote understanding between students and the administration. This aim has been realized in such innovations as later permissions for the girls."
“Early in the year the freshman girls were kept hopping. They were welcomed at the Big Sister Tea, a formal party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Job, where the girls met their 'big sisters'. Shortly after that they were busy preparing this year's production of 'Frosh Frolics,' a show which the girls from each department put together in hopes that their team will take first place.”

"It's quite an honor to belong to Adelphi, the freshman honor society, since a student has to be in the top two percent of his class and show signs of leadership to be considered for membership."

"The Admissions Department tries to find prospective students who are likely to prove their worth as students at Ithaca College."
“Girls can be as active in physical education as boys are. At our college they even have their own fraternity, Phi Delta Pi.

“This honorary fraternity is usually busy with something. One of their more successful activities is organizing and sponsoring square dances. The girls have proved to the rest of us that this old dance is as popular today as it was in the horse and buggy days.”
"That music building's never quiet. A different kind of music comes out of every window and the young musicians, inspired by their professors, can also be heard practicing all around school.

"The music faculty likes their students to keep busy. Things always get lost in the rush. This year I found some of their forgotten music; 'Scampers,' Bach and 'Oklahoma'."

'Billy Budd'

"A sign on the call board always tells us when there's a show coming up in the theatre. Pretty soon the Green Room fills up with hopeful actors trying out for the show. Then the cast list goes up, and only half of the people get cast.

'Rehearsals start, and that means late hours for all of us. The actors get excited as the box office opens and performance night gets close. After weeks of rehearsals, the show is ready for an audience."
‘No need to speak now, Billy.’

“People sometimes say our Student Council isn’t a strong organization, but I’m not so sure. It seems most of their work goes unheralded. Many people don’t know that the council sponsored Freshman Camp and that each year they sponsor Fall Weekend. These activities were both great successes this year, thanks to the work of the Student Council, heralded or unheralded.”

WITJ

Mrs. Taylor honored at Open House

“We have our own radio station, WITJ, which broadcasts regularly from the radio workshop. Under the supervision of Robert Earle and Randolph Gretes, the gang over at the radio shack runs the whole works. They're busy with classes during the day, and they're busy at night when WITJ goes on the air and they get a chance to use what they've learned. The station features disc jockey and dramatic shows and covers all college concerts and ball games.

“People who wanted to see just what the inside of a radio station looked like got their chance this fall when WITJ held its open house. For the station, this was only the first in a number of plans for the year. The plans were big enough this year to take care of the largest enrollment we've ever had in the radio departments.”
Stewart House

Well, we tried.

"The Aurora Gym is lively on playdays as the girls call those days when they meet for competitive sports. Badminton is always popular on these days and I hear our girls' team took the doubles trophy at Cortland this year. The girls also keep in trim by practicing tumbling which is a major part of the regular physical education program."

Well, we tried.

Rock and roll
"And when the unpredictable Ithaca weather allows it, the girls go out to Stewart Park for archery classes. Here they try and try to hit the bull's-eye, and before the semester is over, they're succeeding. The archery class is envied by many of the girls in other departments because it gets away from the gym and is the only class with a view of Lake Cayuga."

"I see a lot of the people in the drama department; they always seem to linger in the theatre for the last possible minute of rehearsal. It's no wonder many of our shows are sell-outs, and our drama department recognized as one of the foremost in the country."

Bert Rogers Lyon House
“People who graduate from our physical education department don’t have to look far to find a job. The college’s graduates seem to be in great demand. Last year the department, under Dean Hill, had no trouble placing all of its graduates in good jobs and finding positions for its returning veterans too.

The five-year plan, which was introduced last year, is being followed by students who want to earn a Master of Education degree. 94 freshmen got started on the course this year.”

Basketball

"After fifteen games and a record of eight victories against seven losses, the basketball team felt a winning streak coming on. At this time the boys on the team were saying that the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau placed Ithaca first among small colleges in foul shooting. Model United Nations

"You hear a lot about the United Nations these days, and some people up at Cornell even organized a Model United Nations. Students from Cornell and Ithaca College attended the convention as delegates from UN member nations. Between meetings the delegates got better acquainted at dinners with foreign students and at a dance given for them on 'All Nations Night.' The highlight of the convention was a talk by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on 'The UN in an Underdeveloped World.'"

Newman Club

"The Newman Club at Ithaca College is a Catholic organization which tries to keep religion in the college life of its members. The club meets twice a month to discuss religious topics, and every month they meet for a communion breakfast.

"They go in for social activities like picnics and their welcome dance for freshmen. They often hold dances jointly with the club members at Cornell."

“It seems like the business department at Ithaca College contains some of our most all-around people. You'll see a business student in dramatic productions, on the basketball team, and participating in just about every activity. They seem able to go into anything with an open mind, and maybe that's why the department turns out so many successful people.

“Each year the department arranges field trips like this year's trip to the National Cash Register Company.”
Music Educators' National Conference

"Those M.E.N.C. people really fill up a meeting place when they get together. Their organization, one of our largest, sponsors the big spring music festival for the New York State School Music Association. High school kids from all over New York State meet here in Ithaca to prepare their all-state concert.

"Every year M.E.N.C. sends representatives to the state convention where they join in meetings, discussions and demonstrations on music education. The organization is not only one of our largest, but also one of our farthest reaching with its national tie-up."

Choir

"Some of the music which you can hear coming from the music building is made by our college choir. We hear them practicing each day, and we probably take them for granted, but when they're all together on stage for their spring and Christmas concerts we can appreciate all their hard work."
Pi Theta Phi

"Pi Theta Phi is our professional physiotherapy fraternity at Ithaca College. They concern themselves with keeping up a spirit of pride and unity within the physiotherapy department, and they practice what they preach. For instance, they publish the 'Fizzio Follies,' a magazine that keeps physio students up to date on the newest methods being used in their field. The magazine is also sent to the alumnæ of the physiotherapy department. Besides publishing the 'Fizzio Follies,' which certainly seems like a full-time job, Pi Theta Phi sponsors quite a few educational programs during the course of the year."

Wrestling

“It's nothing like the kind of wrestling you see on television when our wrestlers get out those mats. Our wrestling squad has built up a name for itself in the past, and this year two of our wrestlers, Dom Vistocco and Dave Whitlock, will compete in the Inter-State Championships at Cleveland.”

Four-legged monster
"After three years at Ithaca, our physiotherapy seniors in New York City find themselves getting right out and collecting practical experience. They say the mornings are spent in classes just like the mornings here, but the afternoons are spent treating actual hospital cases. Those complicated diagrams in textbooks become real machines that have to be operated, and 'case A' is a real person. The seniors feel that working in various hospitals and lending a helping hand in overcrowded clinics is valuable training. By June physiotherapy seniors are back in Ithaca for a well-earned diploma on graduation day."
"The great thing about physiotherapy students is that they're working for a worthwhile goal, the ability to treat and rehabilitate the physically handicapped. After two years of preparation in classes with 'Mr. Bones,' the skeleton in their closet; and judgment day, that test to end all tests; the students are ready for some practical experience. Physio juniors treat patients at the college's own clinic in the physiotherapy building, and they spend their second term working at the Reconstruction Home in Ithaca."

"Students seem to like being given a chance to show just what they can do in the line of showmanship. Every year they give a show called 'Scampers' which is designed to give all students this chance. The students write the show, direct it, act in it, design their own scenery and costumes, arrange their own music and listen to their music played by a student orchestra under a student conductor. This year 'Scampers' initiated its own show curtain which was designed and painted by a student.

'The final performance ends with much noise at the dance studio where everyone goes for the Scampers Party. At this party the stage crew performs a satire of the original show, and dancing to the 'Scampers' music sort of adds to the patriotic feeling students have always had about the show.'
Kappa Gamma Psi

“This was a busy year for the boys in Kappa Gamma Psi, national musical fraternity. They started their year with a decisive victory over all the other male snake walkers during Fall Weekend and continued to include an annual smoker, an open house, their annual recital, the 'Original Compositions recital', and 'Program Notes', their lecture-listening sessions.”
"Our gym team is pretty well known around this section for their demonstrations in the various high schools."

“Kappa Psi Alpha, our business fraternity, has always been noted for its concern with civic welfare. This year the fraternity took over the care of Kim, Ithaca College’s adopted Korean war orphan. They also helped the Blood Bank by encouraging and organizing the contributions of the college’s students and faculty.

“I see the fraternity at its busiest every March when they hold their Career Conference. The conference’s purpose is to lend a helping hand to liberal arts and business students who are planning careers in private industry.”
"With a new staff 'The Ithacan,' our college newspaper, has grown to become one of the biggest influences on student opinion in the college."

W. A. A. Conference

"Every year the Women's Athletic Association sends representatives to the state conference at Cornell where W.A.A. members from all over the state meet to discuss problems in their field."
"I've heard some people say that a speech student is just a drama student looking for security, but I kind of wonder about that. Sure, there probably are some who take speech just for security reasons, but, from what I hear, most of the students in the speech department are there to learn something so they can get somewhere. The speech program is a full-time job, and it's mostly the people who are sincerely interested who come out on top in the department."
"The full program begins with classes in which the new speech student finds himself operating different types of recording machines, becoming familiar with various dialects, learning all of those technical words they use in speech and finding out how to help people who need speech correction. Later on, the speech student disappears from Ithaca for a few weeks while he's practice teaching. Outside the scheduled work there're always radio shows and dramatic productions to make a full program even fuller."
Phi Mu Alpha

"Phi Mu Alpha's tuxedo band lends distinction to the Fall Weekend float parade. After the parade they march into the theatre and fill the balcony. Their music floods the theatre and starts the coronation off with a roar.

"Phi Mu Alpha, a national musical fraternity, always does things in a big way. They begin by holding a freshman smoker, and continue with a noisy house opening, a formal concert in December, informal music reading sessions, and a big spring weekend.

"The girls in the dormitories often wake up late at night to the wavering strains of the Phi Mu German Band saluting them gravely from a street corner."

"When all the departments join in on something big it can really turn into something worthwhile. The cast of last spring's production of 'Oklahoma!' was full of students from each department. With the direction of Mr. Randall and Dr. McHenry, 'Oklahoma!' was the biggest hit of the year and was held over because of the great demand for tickets."

Women's Athletic Association

The Women's Athletic Association is the organization that sponsors all those playdays I told you about. This year they have the largest membership they've ever had and they plan to add a couple of new sports to their activities next year.
"When the Green Room was kept open late on nights in December TAP was working on its one-acts. Each year Theta Alpha Phi, our national honorary dramatics fraternity, sponsors a play-writing contest and produces the prize-winning plays. TAP's success reached a peak this year because it was filled with working members. TAP also sponsored the After-Scampers Party and the Welcome to Freshmen and Salute to Seniors shows."

Griffis Hall
Concert Band

"The kids in concert band are always talking about their band tours. They've performed in Boston, in all the northeastern states, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Long Island. Mr. Beeler, who's spent twenty-one years as their director, guides them skillfully through a year that often includes the testing of new compositions for publishers."
“Our fraternity for female musicians is called Sigma Alpha Iota. The girls at SAI are noted pretty much for their musical abilities, and they often team up with their brother fraternity Phi Mu Alpha, for concerts. The two fraternities also hold their open houses together, and go caroling together after the annual Christmas Concert.”

Their royal majesties
Inter-Fraternity Council

“When there are a number of fraternities and sororities in a school there has to be a council to govern them, and IFC, with a representative from each organization, keeps fraternity life running smoothly.”

Majors Club

“The Majors Club is composed of physical education students. They hold a banquet each year in honor of one of their teachers.”
"The college Hillel organization very often teams up with Cornell Hillel for debates, dances, breakfasts and lectures."

"Oracle is our senior honor society. We hear the most from them when they sponsor 'Scampers' each year. The kids in the organization seem to know brains aren't everything, for they've established a student loan fund with the proceeds from 'Scampers.'"
“The varsity tennis team was suffering from growing pains last year since the team had begun with mostly freshmen, but, with the experience they got from their losses and the addition of Don Carden to the squad, things look brighter for next year.

“The golf team's story is a little different, though. Last year the team won games against Utica, Middletown and Cortland, and our Ithaca golfers finished fourth in the Harpur College Invitational Tournament.”

"At their only triangular meet with Buffalo State and Canisius our track team scored a victory that people were talking about for a long time afterwards. Our Bombers wound up with a score — and they'll never forget it — of 84 points against Buffalo State's 53 1/2 and Canisius's 24 1/2. The Bombers lost to Rochester, Alfred, Hamilton and Cortland but won over Scranton in their last meet.

"Lou Bakos turned out to be the most valuable track man on the team."
"Bucky Freeman has had some great teams in the past, but they all lost chances for the national tournament — and they lost those chances in committee decisions. Last spring was a different story though. Their regular season’s record was thirteen wins against one defeat in inter-collegiate competition. Before losing to Colgate by a score of 10-9 in their regular season play, the Bombers had won 23 successive games in the past two years."
“The boys felt great. With the one-hit pitching of Walt Judd, the Bombers defeated Lafayette, the defending N.C.A.A. district two champions by a score of 5-0 in the semi-finals. Ithaca College had a ball team. They were one pitch away from a trip to Omaha for the N.C.A.A. title when Len Krans connected for Colgate giving them a 7-6 victory.”

"They may have missed their trip to Omaha, but the boys had one of their finest seasons with victories over Villanova, American University, Navy, Fairleigh Dickinson, Upsala, Elmira, Sampson, Wilkes, Canisius, Hamilton, R.P.I., Hobart, St. Lawrence and Griffiss before the Colgate heart-breaker. Inside the team, Bill McFarlane was high batter with a .449 average. Walt Judd tied the all-time college world series pitching record.

"Prospects for 1956 look good with the loss of only two regulars, Boccia to the Marines and Jones to the White Sox."

"Phi Epsilon Kappa is a very active national physical education fraternity. They sponsor the Most Valuable Player Awards, one of the greatest honors a physical education student can obtain. Each winter Phi E.K. sponsors the Sweetheart's Ball and the Sports Circus which this year featured the Ithaca College Gym Team and a basketball game with Delta Kappa."

"There was so much going on all year that you kind of forgot it was ever going to end, but this school year did end, and Ithaca became a kind of ghost town again.

"But things at the college keep going during the summer. Not too long after everyone has gone home, people come here for the graduate school summer session, and they keep the school ticking until September. Like most graduate students, these are a group of serious-minded people who are shooting for something higher than the undergraduate degree. This summer, some of them will have the privilege of studying in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands with Dr. Clarke while others stay here to keep the school alive until next year."
