Roberts' New War Play
"Red Harvest", To Open Dramatic Season Here

There has been a change in the original plans for the opening production of the new dramatic season. The Dramatic department is pleased to announce that the opening play is "Waste." This has been a change in the original assignment of "Harvest," as called by its author, Walter Hampden, for the opening of the season.

Walter Hampden
To Play "Ruy Blas" at Strand Theatre

Another figure of romance is brought to the American stage by Walter Hampden in his celebrated role of Ruy Blas. He will bring to the Strand Theatre this year, October 5, another of his masterly portrayals of a great historical figure. The role of Ruy Blas, written by the Russian author, Alexander Pushkin, has been tremendously popular in European cities since it was written. "Ruy Blas" has been in the repertoire of the Comedie Francaise, the state theatre of Paris, for the entire hundred years. It has been, and is presently being, produced in numerous cities throughout Europe for the same period. In America, and in the rest of the world, this play has had a remarkable career over the past century.

Another September has joined its hostess to the roster of those who have been successful in their attempt to do justice to the play and its central character. It is now being made available to the public in a perfumed edition. The play will be produced in the Theatre Royal Haymarket in London at the time of the season's opening.

The Ithacan: Friday, October 6, 1933

Friday, October 6, 1933

Dear Mr. Reed:

I have Walt Roberts for a witness. You and Walt and I were over in the Ideal lapping up our mid-evening coffee, when you said, "Bob, I dare you to write my clothing ad for this week's ITHACAN." Walt heard you and Walt's ready to stand by me. I'll admit he wears suits from your store, but I knew him first.

You may have been talking through your hat (Sweaters, later thing, W. J. Reed, 146 E. State St.) but with me a dater's a dater. So I'll just Short to the ad you sent over, and make room for this letter.

Now—when a guy says he'll do a clothing ad he ought to give them a tailor-made suit of the finest material and in the newest designs for no more money than it costs you to buy the ordinary factory suit—instead of telling them that I, a student, am going to go in with so much about baseball.

Or instead of telling them that W. J. REED will do a handwriting and a couple of flip-flops in a box, I should invite the reader to "Come and Go Through Our New Pull-Over Sweaters," or "Drop In At Reeds and Let Him Show You What's New." I'll be the best money for this space in order to remind the fellows that your store is the headquarters for the Ithaca College bunch, even though most of them know it already. But I'm just mean enough to fill this whole center page of the paper with a discussion of something entirely removed from the subject of clothing.

For instance: Instead of telling the readers that you ought to give them a tailormade suit of the finest material and in the newest designs for no more money than it costs you to buy the ordinary factory suit—instead of telling them that I, a student, am going to go in with so much about baseball.

FLYNN TELLS IT BEAUTIFULLY

Cass Laume’s “Bagi” novel... The better band, a line up, etc. on Gray’s arrangements... Heard about a marriage among Gray... Fun watching people in the lobby. But, too, there’s that merriment, looking ought.

... A romance about to bust that musical society next to Eltra Pho. It should be nibbled... college romance are silly... Don’t you think so, George P.? They like a season’s run on Broadway... or, perhaps three weeks.

If you can’t sleep at night try visualizing a yellow room over that waters... Emile Eames and Shubman H. return to the Little Theatre... Thoughts of yesterday... How the kids will take to legal liaison... majority of ‘em in school don’t drink excessively... Seems to though the younger generation... giving away the new... method... youth pouting... Read some where it’s only the young that fear death... Something to think about.

Suggested topics for arguments... Liking Garbo in Birthmark... Or Will Rogers to Mark Twain... Things that bring me down down... Hall of the Times approving “I Loved A Woman”... Those circus radio programmes... The New York Times losing a million in seven... Water... Emile Eames and Shubman H. return to the Little Theatre... Thoughts of yesterday...
