“Hurricanes” To Play At Junior Dance Saturday

A new phase in Ithaca College student dances was presented Saturday evening, November 11, when the junior class presented the nationally known rock and roll group, “The Hurricanes,” at the Ithaca College Student Union between 8:00 and 11:00 p.m. The cost was $1.25 a couple and $1.25 a single, with tickets on sale at the door.

The dance will utilize the large recreation room on the third floor and will be the first student function to be held in the new room. The evening also provides the first real test of the feasibility of having larger name groups play at the college. If the students show their interest and support, a precedent will be set for future events.

Depending on the success of the dance, the junior class is considering a series of dances of the same nature. Paul Wohhueter, in a planned Spring Weekend of greater magnitude than has ever before been attempted.

Students wishing to purchase blocks of tickets, or by ticketedad, can obtain them from Dave Canteen, Tom Silen and Dave Eberhart, on South Hill; or at Delta Phi Zeta.

National Awards

Offered Girls By Katherine Gibbs

Two national scholarships for college senior girls are offered by the Katherine Gibbs School. These awards were established in 1925 as a memorial to Mrs. Katherine Gibbs, founder and first president of the School.

Each scholarship consists of full tuition ($800) for the secretarial training course, plus an additional cash award of $500, totaling $1,300. The winners may select any one of the four Gibbs schools for their training: Boston, New York, Montreal, or Providence.

Winners are chosen by a Scholarship Committee on the basis of excellent academic record, personal and character qualifications, financial need, and potentialities for success in business.

Each college or university may recommend two candidates, and each candidate must have this official endorsement. Students who may be interested in competing for one of these Katherine Gibbs awards may obtain full information from the college placement bureaus.

Board of Trustees Gives Go-Sign For $4.5 Million Building Phase

The Ithaca College Board of Trustees has authorized President Howard D. L. Dillingham to proceed with plans for the completion of an additional $4.5 million in buildings in the new South Hill campus by the fall of 1962.

The administration has been empowered to make necessary appraisals, and to rely upon the facilities of the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal Housing Administration for the construction of dormitories for men and women, and an infirmary, at the earliest possible date. The Board of Trustees was instructed to go ahead with plans for the construction of a new $1.5 million recreation building.

The Board elected to its membership for a five year term Harold P. Johnson, vice president in charge of management and consultant services, General Electric Co., New York. He was the June 1961 commencement speaker at the College, and was awarded an honorary degree.

The college has opened five new dormitories and a student union, with cafeterias, on its new 286-acre campus. A total of 866 of Ithaca College's 1,039 undergraduate students are housed on the new campus.

An Important Step

Due to the efforts of the Student Council and the co-operation of Mr. Callahan of the Slater System, tonight's Student Council meeting looms as one of the most important causes of the year. The problem of three-way rapport discussed in last week's Ithacan editorial among the Slater System, the administration, and the student body will be brought to light and discussed. Perhaps sensible solutions to difficult problems can, at long last, be reached.

The doors to the meeting will be open and all are invited to attend and to air his or her complaints, offers, and to generally participate in open, intelligent discussion. It would indeed be a great mistake if students came to the meeting with the idea of putting one individual on trial. This is not to be a trial but rather a very important first step toward a more efficient dining system at our college.

Realistically, drastic changes won't be made overnight, but the very fact that the problem will be explored is a step in the proper direction. It is hoped that students attending will behave in a mature manner allowing the meeting to proceed with the interchanging of feasible and creative ideas.

The Ithacan feels that the students have waited a long time for the opportunity to present legitimate, heretofore unattended complaints. We hope the purpose of the meeting will be kept in mind and will not be marred by personal, time consuming tirades.

Controversy

By Jero Douglas

The situation concerning Mr. Callahan is not new. It is similar to the situation of millions of other employees throughout the United States. Billy Buck belongs to a group of employees whose situation in his case is part of the Veteran's Administration program, while the same is true in private industry, Blue Cross or a similar plan. The group of Blue Cross medical plans all members of the worker's family except the employer himself, has never been confronted with a problem against illness and accident. If in a large business one firm has been in business for a number of years, his employee usually continues his insurance after retirement. If, as in some cases, the firm does not continue his insurance after retirement, the worker can obtain it for a normal fee regardless of his age.

As a definite example, let us take the state's Blue Cross and Blue Shield program. First of all, it is non-profit and state regulated. It is open to all people within the state of New York Blue Cross and Blue Shield purely as a result of the state agencies competing against each other. These agencies are being的竞争, Medical care in the United States with medical insurance program. If the plan is brought up again and re-discussed, Council announced that Mr. Light of Ithaca College and cafeteria administrator, and Mr. Callahan, manager of the Ithaca College cafeteria, will present at the next Council meeting and determine a solution to the problem that will be satisfactory to all involved. Plans for this meeting were put into action by Council over two weeks ago, prior to any rumor of student expression on the cafeteria situation.

Ithaca, as a day of vacation, would be lost if classes were held on a long academic day later and re-scheduled one day later at the beginning and end of vacations, Council decided to keep the span as it is for Christmas and Easter. If the subject is brought up again and receives adequate student support, the change still could be made, as the administration has left it up to the students to decide where the vacations fall, as long as the state regulation at the October 5th meeting is met. As it stands now, classes will end at noon December 16 and resume January 2 for Christmas vacation, and will end at noon March 24 and resume at noon March 24 for Easter vacation as was previously planned.

President Harvey Snyder an­ nounced that the Committee appointed by Student Government judge will serve on Student Council. They are: Barbara Graceen, senior judge; Jean Thomas, junior judge; and Amy Stratford, sophomore judge. Student Court held its first session last week for organizational purposes and is now ready to handle cases.

"The Men's Student Government, Women's Student Government, and Inter-Fraternity Council representatives were given voting power on the Council at this meeting as an amendment to the constitution. Presently those representatives merely gave their opinions or specific information when it was called for in the course of Council discussions.

When you find yourself in need of information about an activity or a service consult the "classified" of Ithaca College, the College Union Information Desk.

The Information Desk is the center of information for the college. According to Miss Anita Rue, supervisor of the Information Desk, "All information, concerning student activities on the campus and within the College Union, can be obtained through the information Desk. Places to dine, points of interest within the community can also be obtained from this desk."

The College Union Information Desk is currently doing a marvelous job keeping track of the room changes for the Liberal Arts courses. These same people are in charge of room reservations for groups and organizations. Another job of this Desk is that of security and closing the building each night.

Miss Rue stresses the use of the bulletin board. Individuals and groups may use this board for notices of any activities, lost and found articles, rides offered or wanted, etc. The only ruling involved is that these notices must be checked through the Desk. The reasons for this are that space is valuable and should not be wasted, and the fact that some posters might be in bad taste or offensive to individuals.

This Information Desk is also the Lost and Found department for South Hill students. All articles found in the Union or in the building are distributed through the return to the student. Proper identification and a signature of release are all that is necessary to claim your article. Anything found on the bus or the dorms' campus is taken to the Administration Building.

This Desk is also the mail distribution center for the South Hill students. Mail is sorted and distributed to the dorm advisors for distribution to the students of their respective dorms. All students can be located through this desk and during the hours of 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. this desk serves as the "switchboard of the College." All phone messages to students who cannot be reached immediately are distributed through this desk.

The Information Desk staff is in charge of the Union. There are also student assistants who will eventually be contacted with the student activities within the Union. There are currently job openings for upperclassmen who are interested in these organizations. They shall then be able to work with groups to make their activities more successful.

Information Desk Staff To Serve As Jacks-of-All Trades In Union

Located on the main floor of the College Union, the Information Desk serves as the nerve center of the new campus network. Staffers pictured are Janet Lewis and Wally Hill.

Question: What would be your reaction to immediate but gradual realistic fallout as an individual and as a member of society?

Answer:

LARRY SARGENT '63 L.A.

I'd enlist in some branch of the armed services in order to aid the country plus take whatever precautionary measures are prescribed for Civil Defense to safeguard against fallout. The only thing that you could do is psychologically discipline yourself to prevent yourself from seeing that any people will be crippled. I am not optimistic at all about the future.

LOU DETMER '64 Bus.

The first thing I'd do is start praying. Personally, it wouldn't affect me at all in that I don't think I'm afraid to die. I would try to proceed with a logical basis on which of things I would offer my services to Red Cross or other organizations to try to help the people. In the prayer I mentioned above, it would be for myself and for my friends.

CAROL ROSS '65 B.T.V.

As an individual, I wouldn't be too shocked because I've been expecting it. I feel that it would be a great shame to this world that it should have to come to such decay. It's been known in history that every twenty years or so there is war or plague. Personally, I think that if there must be some kind of disturbance, this would be better than all-out war. I would join any organization sponsoring research or social work. There is no way to alleviate panic but at least it can be cut down by groups which might try to explain the rational approach.

JOHN FELERSKI '65 L.A.

I wouldn't let myself be pulled into mass hysteria. The United States should continue their ban on tests which may eventually prove to Russia, or whatever country spreads this mass contamination, that we aren't going to take this passive, but will do to them what they have been doing to us. We stopped testing in the Pacific because next it might be Russia that aided the victims and face it when it comes. There's no place to run.

CHERYL GIFFIN '65 B.T.V.

There's not much you can do. You have to accept the fact when it comes. If people needed help I'd help them as much as I could because next it might be my turn and I'd want someone to help me. If one had any sort of feeling at all for humanity he'd join any corps that aided the victims of fallout.

KAY DAVIES '65 P.E.

I'd try keep right on living a normal life. It anyone cares about mankind, he'd definitely help out when called upon. What we should prevent most of all should be panic because the people of the U.S. don't realize what is on their own home grounds. More information understanding might prevent hysteria. We have to live with this menace and face it when it comes. There's no place to run.

IC Booters End Season With 1-0 Loss to Brockp.

by Len Cross

Ithaca College finished the varsity soccer season last Wednesday
by losing to Brockport 1-0 at Times Falls.

Defense was the key word of the afternoon. Neither team had a strong scoring threat, but both scored fine defensive plays and

Lady Luck seemed to turn away from the Bombers in the third quarter. Leroy Green, fullback, bounced the ball bound into the Ithaca goal for a first down. The starters will probably be back in uniform the next game.

Harry Nepheltis gave the visitors troubles as he dribbled by severos times. Each time, however, his shots went wide of the nets.

In the second period, the Bombers garnered their two points with a goal by绿
life
Alfred. A ten yard pass from Gary Sol-man converted and the insurance touchdown came in the game on a pass from Jack Yengo for Ithaca.

"HAMLET"

Under the auspices of The New York State Council on the Arts, the City University's Ithaca College Theatre Department is presenting the production of HAMLET to the Statler Auditorium this past Tuesday evening, October 31st.

The touring company, directed by Stuart Vaughan was welcomed by a capacity house, which, upon entering the theatre, found themself present at the 1,274-seat capacity. Designed with two imposing downstage arches, a formal series of shallow platforms, and ringed with black drapes, Peter Wingate's setting remained functional throughout most of the production.

Mr. Vaughan's hand was readily seen throughout the evening in guiding the pace and temper of the show. The transitions between scenes was quick, well-timed, and almost entirely efficient to carry the action into the following scene. It was also apparent that he choose to remain at least one step ahead of the action to keep the intense passions usually associated with the acting of this play.

John Heffernan in the role of Polonius was undoubtedly the most successful actor of the night. His delivery was modern and to the point. This was his part, and coupled with his detached handling of voice and gesture plus a superb sense of timing, proved to be altogether delightful.

The remainder of the cast was generally good, but the famous graveyard scene was thrown away, possibly with Mr. Vaughan's approval. It is an undeniable fact that the graveyard scene seems somehow empty. Gertrude exuded too much of the modern quality was consistently strained and inaudible.

While a student at Ithaca College, Mr. Leach also appeared in BARTHOLOMEW and the Sand-Fiddler. He currently plays Lightening design for the Broadway production of EOWIN. He was a Lunch Club President and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Musicological Society, and the American Academy of Arts and Letters. He resides at 17 West 60th Street, New York, with his wife Muriel Alexander. He was educated in the New York City Public Schools and has edited and arranged various books for band. He has held administrative and teaching posts at Columbia, Julliard, and other schools and served as executive director of the League of Composers, Inc. He served as director of the American Bandmasters Association from 1947 to 1950.

Mr. Goldman served as the associate conductor of the Goldman Band from 1937 to 1956 when he assumed full directorship upon the death of his father, Edwin Franko Goldman. He is also the composer of numerous works for band, orchestra, chamber groups, and so on. Mr. Goldman's talents also extended to the literary field, where his works have been published in various articles in musical periodical and has written and arranged various books for band.

The Ithaca College music faculty is traversing the country on their spring tour. The faculty has been connected with BYE BYE BIRDIE, LA PLUME DE MA TANTE, UNDER THE "Ebony Concerto." Mr. Leach has been active in the diplomatic sphere. He has audited courses in music at the University of Illinois when its present members met as graduate students. After extensive concertizing, the quartet separated in 1959 when Bing Crosby and George Andrix went to London for two years of study at the Trinity College of Music, and Alvesta Busman and Robert Perry were appointed to the Ithaca College faculty.

Music has been an important part of the quality of life at Ithaca College for the past few years. The members of Kappa Gamma Psi have presented a recital on November 17, 11:30 a.m., the Ithaca College chapter of Kappa Gamma Psi will present a recital on November 15, at 8:15 p.m. The group's program includes "Kleine Duette, Opus 28," by F. New Campus Hosts 2nd Parent's Weekend

by Mike Ayers

The second annual Parents Weekend sponsored by Delta Sigma Pi, Pi Theta Phi, and Rho Mu Theta societies began successfully on Friday evening, November 3rd. Their program for the first day of the Weekend included afternoon and evening registration and an evening program which suggested a theme of 'Ithaca College Beyond its Campus.' The evening's entertainment was performed in the main dining room.

Mr. Leonard Aaronoff discussed 'T.V. Highlights' and the innovations in this medium of communication. Parents and students were then told of Ithaca College's TV station and its development.

Second on the agenda was Dr. Frank Coleman speaking about the African student program at Ithaca College. Several students participating in this program, then discussed questions concerning the role of the African woman, education for the African people, feelings about an education in America and the student's plans for the future once his education is completed. The final event in this program was an exhibition by the men and women's gymnastic teams. Under the supervision of Mr. Denencourt, the teams performed in precision gymnastics on the parallel bars and on the mats.

Following this program was an informal dance held in the main dining room. Parents and students danced to a "live" band for two hours.

The Saturday program was considerably accelerated and designed to accommodate some 900 parents or almost twice the number of last year. Parent tours of the campus were offered, and opportunity to interact was taken advantage of by most parents. By lunchtime a buffet had been prepared by the Slater management for the students and their parents.

Inclement weather settled on Ithaca for the Ithaca College-Alfred University football game on South Hill. In between the rising and falling of the fog, spectators were treated to some exciting football.

Saturday evening entertainment included a welcoming address by President Dillingham. In this address Dr. Dillingham explained the future building program at Ithaca College. The Ithaca College Concert Band, Mr. Henry Gass conducting, performed for the enjoyment of the overflow crowd of parents and students. The Ithaca College Drama Department then performed a scene from Sheridan's play, 'The Rivals.'

In conclusion, the Sunday afternoon Professor's Tea enabled parents and students to get together informally to discuss the courses and the College programs. With the final drop of tea devoured, Parent's Weekend 1961 was successfully ended. Sad "good-byes" were said and students and parents were relieved. Once again the atmosphere of college life settled on Ithaca College.

This student organized weekend deserves a pat on the back for a job well done and opens the way for bigger and better weekends of the future.
