Griffis Hall Girls Lament

It's a long way to Griffis Hall,
 On the hill we always stall;
 This BIGGEST LITTLE CITY
 Is replete with about fifty
 Of the biggest hills we ever saw.

We reach the half way point,
 We mean the PHY EDS joint.
 Here to catch a breath
 For we are near to death
 On the biggest hill we ever saw.

When we have a twelve o'clock
 Just to think about the rock
 That we must climb,—
 We don't fee so fine
 About the biggest hill we ever saw.

Coming down it is alright,
 It's going up that is the fight,
 In another year
 We'll have no fear
 About the biggest hill we ever saw.

Who Pays?

The Amard Fraternity thinks, with the rest of the world, that someone always does pay. If that be true, who is going to be responsible for the keg of cider which was stolen from the gym on the night of the masque ball?

Have the students who stole the cider, and who must now think of themselves as crooks, ask themselves the question—who pays?

Somebody will.

The theft will cost the Amards some money, true. But, have you noticed that the Amards have not even tried to punish you? We feel that you will punish yourselves. If fact, you have already punished yourselves in the ruining of that priceless jewel—your reputation.

Important If True

DEPLETED FINANCES

"Well, Ruthie, I'll go in with you but I really don't care for a thing." "Oh, I adore Rudolph Valentino, but you know I haven't got a date and my next month's allowance hasn't come yet." "A dope please. Yes, John, I'd love a hot fudge, but—"

Such remarks as these can already be heard all over the "Con". Only one month of school gone and yet we're broke—dead broke! Where does the money go any-way? Surely we don't spend it all for sodas and movies, and yet there's nothing else to show for it.

The worst part of it is the way we have to haunt the mail boxes and the post-man in the vain hope of a check from home. Oh, to think of our families having wonderful things to eat while we are going hungry! Oh, yes we get well balanced meals but it just seems that three a day are not enough.

Well, let's stop talking about it and write home again. Maybe if we send it special delivery there will be some response. Let's hope so, anyway, I'm starving!

FROM THE ITHACA JOURNAL NEWS:

The advance students of the Ithaca Conservatory gave a fine recital. Monday night, Nov. 15, in the Little Theatre before a large audience. The program was very well arranged and played with artistry. Elizabeth Newhard opened the program with a group of two piano numbers, which she played with distinct tone and excellent interpretation.

Donald Chartier, a violinist, followed with the Adagio from Symphonie Espagnol which he performed with poise and splendid tonal quality. Margaret Daum was thoroughly enjoyed in her vocal number "In quelle trine Morbide" by Puccini, as were also Mrs. Florence Allen Wilcox, whose lovely vocal quality was very effective in her group of songs, and Knox Dunlop, whose rich, powerful voice and attractive personality have made him a favorite here, was at his best last night.

Anthony Bek was the second violinist to appear giving an effective performance of the Sarasate Introduction and Tarentelle. Dorothy Wagner made a hit with her two piano selections, giving a dashing performance and showing unusual talent and musical understanding.

One of the most effective and unusual features of the program was the Bach Sonata in G for Cello which was played without accompaniment by Roland Cresswell.

HEARD AT THE PLEDGEE MINSTREL SHOW

Thelma Hingre: "Say, you know the new signals they have on State Street now? Well, what does that green light mean?"

Elsie Waters: "That green light? Why that means 'Go'"

Thelma: "Well, then what does the red one mean?"

Elsie: "The red one—? Why that one means 'Stop'"

Thelma: "Well, if the green one means 'Go', and the red one means 'Stop', what does the yellow one mean?"

Elsie: "The yellow one? Why that means—'Go like the devil before the red one comes on.'"

Thanksgiving Epitaph

Upon our largest platter he doth rest,
This proud and ponderous fowl we stuffed so well,—
Though, all the world his virtues do attest,—
Alas, his cold remains will go to—jell!

Prof. to Cornell Student: When is Thanksgiving Day?

C. S.: Any day after the Dartmouth game.

Good ole football! Not all the foreign queens, murder mysteries, channel swimmers, society scandal, floods, fires, and earthquakes, can rob you of your prestige, or oust you from your kingly throne,—the Great American Newspapers. Nor can political glories approach the eminence, the lustre, the significance, the power of the dusty pigskin! Which reminds us of a story:

Heaven

Susie: "Where do you s'pose good pigs go when they die?"

Johnny (aged 7): "Into footballs. Don't you know nuthin?"

(We actually heard this story. Otherwise we would doubt such theological precociousness).

Speaking of theology, we wonder, seeing as we are going to be pretty busy next week, if it will be all right to retire extra early some night this week, and say our prayers for a week in advance. It may save us the risky business of falling asleep in the middle of a sentence some night after a particularly strenuous party.

PRESBYTERIAN ROMANCE

(A non-theological cantus)

A young lady sings in our choir
Whose hair is the color of phoir
But her charm is unique;
She has such a fair chique,
It is really a joy to be nohir

Whenever she looks down the aisle,
She gives me a beautiful smaisle,
And of all of her beaux,
I am certain she sheaux
She likes me the best all the whaisle.

Someday, 'ere she grow too antique,
In marriage her hand I shall sique,
If she's not a coquette,
Which I'd greatly regret
She shall share my $6 a wique.

(N. B. Maybe it was the Methodist choir, though. There are so many Titian-haired warblers.)

But enough of theology. We don't want people writing and asking us if we are pagan. They might be disappointed at our reply.

FAMOUS THOUGHTS. SERIES NO. 3

Thoughts of a football star, as he makes a brilliant hit of sport history—"Gosh, hope my girl is looking."

Thoughts of a great actor making an impassioned proposal—"Ye gods! if that dame sneezes again, I'm killed."

Thoughts of a famous teacher giving a music lesson—"Thank Heaven the composer can never hear her play that."

Thought of a well-known Con. student taking a lesson—"Four whole days vacation! Hot digitty!"

Athletics in the Kitchen

R. M. sends us the story of a young bride who asked her husband to copy a radio recipe she wanted. He did his best, but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting the morning exercises and the other the recipe. This is what he took down:

Hands on hips, place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knees and depress toes and mix thoroughly in one-half cup of milk. Repeat six times. Inhale quickly one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, lower the legs, and mash two hard-boiled eggs in a sieve. Exhale, breathe naturally and sift into a bowl.

Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg backward and forward until it comes to a boil. In ten minutes remove and rub smartly with rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels and serve with fish soup.

Phi Delta Pi.

Mu Phi Epsilon

Ooh, did we have a good time? You bet! Where? Why at the "Eve" luncheon that the Mu Phi girls gave on Nov. 13 which is the date of the founding of the sorority.

The tables were very attractively decorated with place cards and favors for all. And what good things to eat! Olives 'neverything.

A very fine program was given by the pledges and one of the interesting features of the morning was a dialogue in Pennsylvania dutch between "Adam and Eve."

We all had a wonderful time and we wish Founder's day came more often than just once a year.

Sigma Sidelights

On Saturday afternoon, Nov. 20, the Sigma girls held a benefit bridge party. The proceeds are to go toward the Endowment Fund.

The following were week-end guests at the S. A. I. house for the Cornell-Dartmouth game:

Verna Baxter—Student at Elmira College.
 Madeline Blackburn—Southampton, L. I.
 Ruth Flory—Teaching at Ephrata, Pa.
 Mrs. David Edgerton—Formerly Blanch Berger.
 Mrs. Lincoln—Formerly Mildred Boyd.
 Mrs. Springsted—Formerly Katherine Weeting.
 Evelyn Hoyke—Hanover, Pa.

Nov. 15, 16, and 17, the S. A. I. girls held a rummage sale at the West Side Tire Shop on W. State St. It was most successful so we feel we are now qualified to go in the business of "Rags, Bones, Gumboats!"

Last Tuesday evening the girls at the S. A. I. house were the guests of Miss Leona Beutelle, leading lady, at the play "Not Herbert." After the play the girls had the pleasure of entertaining the entire cast. A light lunch and dancing completed the evenings' entertainment.

Sigma Alpha Iota has organized a Choir Club under the direction of Miss Josephine Lauren. Work on the new music is to begin immediately.

Wouldn't It Be Funny—

If no one screamed when taking a cold bath in the mornings?
If Marjorie Tompkins curled her hair?
If we ever had enough cream for breakfast?
If we ever had a holiday?

One: "Do you think the climate up here agrees with Dottie Hunter?"

Two: "It wouldn't dare do otherwise."

Kitty Miller: "What'll we give Mary Lou for Christmas?"
Kitty Hill: "She's so musical let's give her a piece of music."
Kitty Miller: "No, she's got one already."

Kitten Evans: "I wouldn't take anything for my voice."
Doris Wilhelm: "I would if I were you."
Kitten: "What would you take?"
Doris: "Lessons."

Knox Dunlap: "So this is absolute pitch"—as he stumbled into a bucket of tar.

Sampson had the right idea of advertising. He took two columns and brought down the house.
