Who's Who is...

As in preceding years, the students chosen from Ithaca College for the Who's Who Among Students at American Universities and Colleges are published in this issue of the Ithacan. But unlike preceding years, a change has been made in the manner of choosing the candidates.

Last year, an editorial appeared advocating certain changes in the Who's Who procedure for Ithaca College. This was a drawback of departments, no longer having to have so many from one group and so many from another. In this way, it would be the students themselves who determine whether they all be from one department, divided unevenly from different departments, or distributed evenly from all departments. This year, therefore, there will be no longer any lower students from one school of the college cut out of the candidacy because he is not a member of the Phi Delta Theta. The allotment was larger than the number of students who earned the honor of being in Who's Who. This year, the candidates and the eligibility and the importance of their department still has a vacancy in its allotment of students eligible.

It seems to be sure that those chosen for this honor have well deserved it.

The Tompkins County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association will conduct a drive for funds to benefit the Tuberculosis Home and its patients. An immediate and large contribution is needed because the committee has already spent $4.50 of the $5.00 allotted to the college. This money is earmarked to provide meals for the patients at the home. The committee will ask every student to contribute 20 cents toward the $10.00 needed for next year's allotment. Any amount contributed will be greatly appreciated.

Jerry Shappert: It would be nice to think that all students could have the privileges and opportunities currently enjoyed by the students in the Annex. I am sure that many students would take care of them, and it would be easier on our pocketbooks.

What improvements could be made by the administration of Ithaca College to immediately benefit the student body?

Jerry Endler: The condition of the fields is very poor. The snow is all out, and the fields are not clean; the snow is all on the plans, are dirty or broken. Surely, the college should put out more money to improve the facilities; otherwise, the only way to practice is to practice on the streets.

Annette Greenhouse: To my knowledge, there is only one clock in the Annex, and it is taking the outside. One at the end of each hall would really help to prevent the late arrival of students. The bell is about to ring and thus eliminate the delay of late arrivals after the bell has sounded.

Bunny Arkansas: Two things come to mind. The first: vending machines. The second: better rapport with students in the library. The noise and the smell of the vibrations hinder concentration.

We plan to find it hard to find a room around without paying a mint or living with ten people, or living with the student.

A composition is performed and its conclusion, with a majority of the music students.

Jerry Udyane: Who's Who among Students will provide space for all the athletic games printed up by the college. They might be able to finance them by advertising. Also, if we sold ticket books like they do up at Cornell, we would see a lot more the teams.

Marry De Flanquitas: The administration should see to it that the players directors made a more widespread recognition of the student's presence in the school. They must see to it that the students might get a good account of themselves. I know, as they are a good bunch of players, and they are practicing diligently for playdays at Los Altos College and Cornell University. I might add that they gave up a command performance at both places.

Senior Spotlight

By Milly Ebert

Bert DeRose, after graduating from William H. Lynch high school in Amsterdam, New York, entered the University of Pennsylvania in the fall of 1949. While still in high school, Bert was active as a director for the school dramatic and also took part in the senior play. Some of his teachers were very happy about the Senior Spotlight of the University of Pennsylvania, as it would be a natural for him to come here in pursuit of higher education.

The most popular form of dance stepping, former Golden Gloves, the shifty, agile, Toe Hogan, the graduate of the Ohio State University and has received his normal daily function. This article was entitled "The Best Years of Our Lives" which was an instant and record motion picture winner a few years ago. Mr. Hogan lost his legs in the war, but you would never know it, except for the appearance of the remaining amputations. He was, by his physical action or functioning, more physically and publically active than most of the physically handicapped in making the physically handicapped "unhandicapped" in most cases.

The annual Thanksgiving ("very, very, very"") Techno Professional Physiotherapy Exposition will be held at the physical therapy building the night of Nov. 24. Local cerebral palsy patients and residents of the fringe at this annual function, and are treated to a series of shows and entertainment. These victims of cerebral Palsy derive great pleasure out of knowing that somebody is really interested in them as humans.

Joe C. Hogan, the shifty, agile, dance stepping, former Golden Gloves, is now pad- ding out the sports review column for the Asst., as you know. But did you know that Toe Hogan, a student in the art of dance stepping, is a "two strikes" on his lack of training, on the insistence of his wife and his legs, is to date the "two strangely vicious pummel others about the body and soul."

There are five places to the professional physiotherapy expec- tations, and Robert little, Robert Little, Robert Simmons, Pauline Sanders, and Robert Little, Robert Simmons, are the pledges who are serving their periods of endurance through proper physiotherapy rehabilitation. Although every day is a day for giving thanks to the Almighty, let us take our celebration out of Thanksgiving day to give a special thanks to God, especially if we have the use of any organs.
