Thanksgiving

In the midst of bombs, belligerence and Berlin there blessestly comes Thanksgiving. And the food is still there which to give thanks. The bounty of food set before us, the family once again together, the esprit de corps of Americans celebrating in the sanctuary. This year brings the way the pilgrim celebrated when our country was young—the fruit of the harvest.

Let us all hope that Thanksgiving Day may attain the meaning of old.

Question: Euthanasia, or mercy-killing, has been popularized by an incurable disease, all known tools of medical science are available to comfort him. What good is comfort when a man in this situation al­ready knows that he is going to die of human vegetation? In my estimation it would be a blessing to him as well as to his family to give life uppeacefully. Yes, I feel mercy killing could be justified.

Bill Sleek—'03 B.T.V.

In some cases I don’t think it’s criminally unjustifiable. Incurable diseases can be checked for awhile, but it’s just temporary. It’s a very serious matter for the person in­volved and the person himself should decide. Perhaps the patient would administer poisons to him­self so that no one would actually kill him. A lot of people say that no matter what disease one has, a cure might be discovered. In the case of incurable disease or other killers, this doesn’t seem too likely. I don’t think a doctor should be jailed for something as humane as this if he can see to it that in his alternative he can do no consolation.

Terry Collins—'85 Bus. Ad.

It was the law that forbid mercy killing. If you put yourself in the position of the person with an incurable disease, chances are you’d want to hang on as long as possible, despite the pain. I’ve been in contact with people near death and they are happy just to know that their family is still caring for them. It seems that they want to pull through just to show their gratitude. Although there probably are some people who really would prefer death to agony, I do not see how any human being can de­cide which one to choose and which ones shall die.

Julia Just—’65 Drama

If I’m concerned about a religious point of view, I am definitely against euthanasia. I don’t think anyone has the right to take the life of another human being. God has given them the ability to see what’s the right thing to do. We have the right to take the life of another human being. I think that when the family is still caring for the person. I think that there are a lot of people who say that the person is too much pain for them, but it’s their family that they have to sacrifice.

By P. Orlando

A young but experienced Ithaca College varsity wrestling team led by five returning lettermen, several outstanding transfer students and some promising sophomores started workouts last Monday in preparation for its upcoming match against Clarkson Tech. on Dec. 9.

The weightweights with junior letterman Mike Musillami, the 233 pound and transfer Don Secord, a former Section IV champ from Ihaha High School, at 170, carry the most tradition to the Frosh squad. Varsity and Frosh Runners Better Last Year's Record

Both the varsity and frosh cross country teams have made vast improvements over last year's records. Coach by Robert Douoncourt, the varsity ended its season by winning three of five meets. Last year's record showed one win. The year, also coached by Denoncourt, sported a fine record of four wins and two losses as opposed to last year's one win and two losses.

The varsity team includes in the varsity team, with Larry Grego and Ron Segal being the other leaders in the passing department. Jr., came to the varsity team last year. The frosh placed fourth against the Bombers, 19-6, drubbing Kings 40-13, and clobbering arch rival Cortland 34-0.

Standouts were many throughout the season. They include Harry Bouchier. Valesente totaled 213 yards on 38 tries for a 5.6 average, while Bouchier was ranked sixth in the passing department, snagging 11 and 10 aerials for 197 and 185 yards respectively.

In the quarterback slot, junior Larry Karas hit his targets 40 out of 76 for a 52.3% average, and the backs were good for touchdowns. Sophomore Tom Vogt and John Corlick also made the starting lineup. Corlick led the backs averaging just under 40 yards (87.7) aobot. His longest kick was 65 yards.

Bill was also on the receiving end of passings for touchdowns. Sophomore Tom Vogt and John Corlick also made the starting lineup. Corlick led the backs averaging just under 40 yards (87.7) aobot. His longest kick was 65 yards.

The four middle weight berths from last year are seniors Dave Wilcox, a starter the year before. "We should have a better team than last year. If all the boys who are out now stay out, and if we can keep too many boys from getting hurt, I'm looking forward to a successful season."

IC Cagers To Open Campaign Against Lock Haven State

With the football season over, eyes now return to the winter sports scene and the IC basketball pre-season picture. Twenty games are on tap for the varsity squad this year, thirteen away and seven home. The Bombers inaugurate their campaign the first Saturday after Thanksgiving vacation, December 5, at Lock Haven, Pennsylvania. They then travel to Clarkson and St. Lawrence, December 5 and 6 respectively, before initiating their home schedule on December 9 against Wilkes College of Pennsylvania. Cortland State and Roberts Wesleyan also visit Ithaca before the Christmas recess period, on December 11 and 12 respectively. All home games will be played at the Ithaca high school gymnasium.

Lockman Captain
Coach "Cary" Wood, in his tenth year at Ithaca College, has five lettermen returning from last year's team, who posted a 10-4 record. Included in the returns is this year's captain Jim Lockman. The 6'5" senior, who plays in the pivot, was the leading rebounder last year and averaged 14 points a game.

Return
The only other senior on this year's unit is Bill Veep who has just returned from practice teaching. After playing ball in his freshman year, Bill was unable to play at all last year, due to an automobile accident, but returned to the club last season and saw considerable action.

The three other returning let-tterms are juniors John Mancini, Mike Lillie, and Gary Grebka. Mancini, who was second in rebounding last year and averaged 13 points a game, is the tallest member of the squad at 6'5", Grebka, 6'4", is the third leading rebounder and Lillie averaged ten points in the guard position.

Competing for this year's starting positions and club captains are four other juniors and nine sophomores. Several of the sophomores are players from last year's winning freshman team that ended up with a 15-5 mark. They include Bill Schott (6'4"-10 point ave.), Carl Colgan (6'4"), Tom Vogt (6'2"), Don Faris (5'8"-11 point ave.), Jack Martin (5'8"-13 point ave.), Bob Porter (6'1"-11 point ave.) and Gene Monje.

Marauders' Play Important Role On IC Gridiron
by Mike Ayers
We have reached the end of another football season. For eight teams have confidently and relentlessly practiced for each week's opponent. The record of these teams seems rather mediocre and to some a total of 246. Early in the first period a punt from Karus to halfback Gene Monje put the ball on the Eagle 5-yard line. From here halfback Ron Bouchuck bucked the middle of the line and opened the scoring. Vogt converted the first half performance as they completed seven for ten and three for seven, respectively, for a total of 246. The Bombers were ahead 27-0. A 25 yard aerial from Vogt to Jack Yingko was tapped by Brockport's Pete Logan but completed for the second score, and Vogt's kick was good.

Bill Odell had his next on a 2 yard plunge after another IC touchdown. For Karus to Iron Segal helped set up the scoring play. Vogt's boot was wide this time and Ithaca led 30-0. Shortly later, Bouchuck bucked the middle again, this time three yards for the six points. Vogt's kick was on the money again and the Bombers were ahead 37-0. Brockport's lone touchdown followed. From the 20 yard line, Quarterback Tom Wolfe tossed it to the eight. Vogt then raced around right end for the fifth TD of the day. The final score came on an interception by Paul Wilson who scammed 42 yards. Vogt's extra point kick ended the scoring parade at 49-0. Ithaca also had three touch downs called back for penalties as well as three long pass plays (21, 38 and 64 yards) and five field goals from 25 yards, dash by Monje.

Although there was an IC standard, the EACK "black, linemen and sophomores of the game" went to Beegal, Segal and Vogt, respectively.

by Bruce Theobald
A second quarter four touchdown rampage by IC last Saturday paved the way for the Bombers as they easily rolled to a 49-0 rout of Brockport State, at Brockport, in the season's finale for both teams.

The victory brought IC's record for the season to an even 5-0 with four victories and four losses. It was the 15th straight loss for the Golden Eagles, who complicated their slim chances of dropping the Bombers. In winning the Bombers completed a total of 466 yards offensively, more than four times as much as Brockport's total yards.

Quarterbacks Larry Karus and Tom Vogt featured in the first half performance as they completed seven for ten and three for seven, respectively, for a total of 246.
