Trustee Board Approves New Movie Courses

The board of trustees of Ithaca College has approved the proposal of President Job to add new courses to the College's curriculum, especially with regard to radio and screen. The full details are not yet ready for publication, but the trustees have announced that they will be published in time to begin the fall term.

It is not surprising to learn that perhaps movies will again flourish in Ithaca, for it was here that the motion picture industry took its first steps. A short record of motion pictures, as announced by President Job, has been chosen, comprising the Department of Music, Department of English, and Department of English Literature.

The next course in the series will be "The Music of the Movies," a study of the music used in film productions. Following this, "The Screen in Literature" will be offered, dealing with the influence of the screen on literature. The final course, "The Screen in Art," will explore the influence of art on the screen.

In addition to the courses in film, the College will offer a course in film production, to be taught by the Department of Drama. This course will be open to students who are interested in film production, and will provide an opportunity for them to learn the techniques of the film industry.

The courses will be taught by the following faculty members:

- Robert F. Brown, Professor of Music
- James R. Smith, Associate Professor of English
- George L. Bliss, Professor of English
- Hugh T. Finlay, Professor of Art

The courses will be offered in the fall term, and applications for admission will be accepted now. Applications should be submitted to the Registrar, Ithaca College, Ithaca, New York.

Mrs. F.: That woman? Gideon Bloodgood.

Badger: What made you think that?

Mrs. F.: She was with Mark living in Gotham.

Paul: Yes, sir. I saw him myself. I was coming up to Gotham.

Bloodgood: What? Alida, my child, is this true?

Paul: Quick, it is true--Mrs. F., you darling! Is it true?

Bloodgood: Yes, sir; I saw her myself. I don't know what to think of it.

Bloodgood: I'm miserable--I'm married to that old hen.

Paul: I'm in a fine pickle, too.

Bloodgood: Ye~,

Lucy: Guests? I was coming up to Gotham.

Bloodgood: What? Alida, my child, is this true?
