Convenes In Palmer House
Following Meeting Of Music Educators

On December 30 and 31, 1936, at the Palmer House, Chicago, Illinois, the National Convention of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia was convened by the National Secretary. A prominent feature of the convention was the presentation by the Student Prince at the Saturday evening program of the Saturday Night Music of the Nation's Capital. The convention was attended by a large number of students who were welcomed by the Student Prince as members of the national organization. Beeler To Direct Program On

The Ithaca College Concert Band, under the direction of Walter Beeler, is presenting a program of music for its concert scheduled for January 20. The program will be held in the Carnegie Hall of New York City. The band will perform a selection of music from the Student Prince, including the famous march, "The Student Prince." The concert will be conducted by Mr. Beeler, who has been associated with the band for many years. The program will also feature several works by contemporary composers and arrangers, representing the current styles of music in the United States, Canada, and Europe. The concert will be held at 8:00 p.m., and admission is free to the public. Visitors are encouraged to attend and support the band's performance.

Popular Wodehouse Comedy Promises High Entertainment

"Candle-Light" is scheduled for January 29, 20, and 30, promises an evening of clever, light, amusing entertainment. P. G. Wodehouse has written this comedy for the German in his incomparable, mobile manner. The story skits along in an airy fashion providing a flood of hilarious laughter with a touch of sophistication. Occasionally, audiences attempt to improvise for a time as simply as "a card out of the sleeves" trick, but the authors' skillful writing in the general radio-literature produces music in use with a desire to continue and stinging. It is expected that at "A Dull's House," the atmosphere of "Candle-Light" will be as definitely charming and professional. Mr. Dean has surrendered a capable cast especially recruited from comedy and dramatic parties.

Students To Vote For Athletic Teams Name On January 12

From the list of submitted names for a suitable title to denote the Ithaca College Collegiate Athletics, the Broadcasting Company broadcast a short session of the convention under the direction of Peter F. McKerr, the National Honor Member. Those of the three summits which were confirmed through the fine inspirational and constructive features included, as well as the renewal of old friendships. Hermans was for the conclusion to be held in Los Angeles in 1939.

Handel's "Messiah"
Beautifully Sung By College Choir

The First Methodist Church was the scene Dec. 17 to hander's "Messiah", given by the Iliaca College Ghoer and Otharna. It was given a most commendable interpretation by Dr. L. E. Reinhart, Dean of the Music Department.

The musical sections included the familiar and well known portions of the various choirs, especially the tenors, a unique and outstanding feature of the concert. The bass section was also an altogether a notable and strengthening feature.

In view of the length and the difficulties of "Messiah", its most noted renaissance in recent memory, the performance could have been, with the amount of time available, a most serious undertaking. The performances of the various choirs, both high and low, were characteristic of the fine work of the Oratorio Society. The orchestra played the chorus in a most learned and complete manner.

Tickets for the series of five lectures can be purchased for one dollar at the Center Bookstore.

As a departure indicative of progress, Ithaca College will present Simpson Romberg's "The Student Prince," instead of the previously forgotten "Cinderella." Their "In- lasthe," for the annual operetta, on April 20, 21, 22, and 23, 1937. The Student Prince has been remembered in the show which was on the boards at the same time as "Rose Marie," and selling out for better that show. It is based on a musical revue based on the play by Bertrand, the popular French play, and is produced by the director of the School of Music and Drama, Professor Romberg. This presentation requires twenty-three principal singing and dramatic roles, male and female chorus, with conductors, court ballets, and corps of dancers.

A certain discussion ended after a formal party in a well-known city during the holidays, which centered around little courtesies, considerations, and the attitude of young men today towards what was once known as the weaker sex. How surprising were some of the revealed facts; some young women do not recognize courtesies as such when they are evidenced and many young men would be somewhat taken aback if they were to learn what the courteous thing to do in certain instances was.

Miss Emily Post, the accepted authority on etiquette and the niceties of social life, has expressed her own consideration over the trend of some of the supposedly better bred young men and women as regards this case. The situation may point to rather Amazonian tendencies on the part of some of our young ladies, and it may further indicate a definite thoughtlessness on the part of our young men.

All things—nations, governments, commerce, civilization, science—practically anything one can name change as time advances. These changes should be, and as a rule are, for the better. Just as those changes take place, so may we expect to find what is the "proper thing to do" changing slightly under conditions which did not exist a decade or even a century ago. But can little courtesies, niceties of manner, and general regard towards women in her respected place in the world be forgotten entirely? Surely, such a situation does not indicate an advancement of society.

Someone once said that the little things in life are those from which we derive the most pleasure. If this is so, then it seems that these little courtesies whether they are evidenced in everyday life or at some formal function should add to the pleasure of the one offering them as well as the one who is shown them. The age of chivalry is dead—or is it? Perhaps it is merely waiting to be revived, not in the sense of Sir Lancelot and Sir Galahad but in the sense of common courtesy. The female of the species is at fault in not acknowledging enormonous favors, or maybe the male is growing lazy and inconsiderate. Common courtesy costs nothing, but an individual's social stock rises a few points with each courtesies shown.

WOMEN YOUTH TODAY DISREGARD COURTESIES

YOUNG PEOPLE TODAY, according to Miss Post, show little regard for proper courtesies. Miss Post urges the student to remember the adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and another "weak-sister" who "can't take it." The world still holds true. But the student felt by the would-be "social lion." That time-worn survival of the fittest. Many fall up and going back to the home town. He is just one of the leeches, their burden cannot be lessened. In most cases the aid was gratefully accepted and respected. But there are some people who grew indolent, and decided that since it was possible to have a beard and be considered a "man," pack up and go home.

One must remember that individual can receive aid or any part of it that you have gone down without at least giving a good battle; the world and everyone in it hate a quitter.

Christmas vacation brought Dan (who is a Santa Claus?) to the door of our Ithaca College dorm. Ted Brown called on Terry Oil and presented Dan with the usual divinity insignia of material tokens... Mr. Upperman of Cornell University presented Lillian Rose with the same token... An appetizer of the Baldwin variety hit Bertha Peace during a visit to the Lee Roy. Funny how many like events mirror their inception in the Jell-o natio... And who collected some clippings from the "Cornell Daily Sun" to give Helen O'Keefe, secretaries of the fact that a "Sun" papers on the Daily Sun... Steve Settine presented a beagle doll to this same Mr. O'Keefe for her "Your Daily Sun..."

Sir Oscar observed what may be considered a new fashion note for men's evening dress: New Year's Eve... for an accordian, a top cap, and a dinner jacket... and was apparently enjoying himself while oblivious to those surrounding him... (Encore please note.)

Betsy Wilson did some "plugging" for Ithaca College via WSEG while becoming the "night-squirrel..." Philino ran on a street corner invigorated for the "smile" and asked
