Y. U. folks at home, or to any

The exquisite voice of Miss Lorraine Johnson was admirably suited to the famous aria, "Purcell Clad," from "The Creation" by Haydn. The selection is one which demands great care in diction as well as in the vocalization. It also requires a suave tone quality and artistic control of the vocal production as well as of the higher registers of the voice. To say that Miss Johnson was at home in the music is sufficient praise of a fine performance.
