Once again winter and Christmas come to the IC Campus. The Ithaca, its staff and editors, take this opportunity to wish its readers a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Merry Xmas Sandor...

by DAX BEARY

It is December 24. A young boy rushes down the cold, bleak streets of Budapest. His name is Sandor. He is different from other boys. He is not expecting Santa Clause tonight. You see he was a freedom fighter; one of many that risked everything to break away from communism. He must have been told they are being shot by the authorities today. Sandor rushes into an alley and then into a doorway of a house. It is his aunt's house. "Merry Christmas. Christmas to him will be just another day. His aunt will go to work; he will go to school. There will be no toys or Santa Clause. No Christmas dinner will be celebrated. Just cabbage soup, bread, and milk.

Sandor has never known a free Christmas. He is 13 years old. Christmas 1951 has been kept from him by his country for 17 years. First the Nazi and now the Communist has oppressed his country and denied it the gift of a holy day. Christmas. Today he will be just another day. His aunt will go to work; he will go to school. Sandor is part of a loan fund to help other children who do not matriculate and are oppressed by his country and its government.

RULES DISCUSSED AT CENTRAL PHYSIO MEETING HELD HERE

A meeting of the Physio-therapists of the Central New York State Group took place in the Green Room Sunday, December 14. Bad roads and poor train connections forced the meeting to be made up by the guest speaker, Jack Applebaum, impossibly. A major portion of the meeting was taken up in a discussion of a new state bill which is in the process of becoming law. Katie Marhe informed the audience that this bill would allow a person to become a therapist without obtaining a college education or license.

Under the law, a person might act as an optometrist to a doctor for the purpose of substituting any number of machines used in treatments. After this apprenticeship, he would be tested on his knowledge and if successful on the test, he would then be allowed to administer physio-therapy. There have been numerous meetings in Albany concerning this law.

The speaker concluded by saying that this bill was of interest to all therapies and that all should be informed of its terms by now. The meeting adjourned.

The play deals with the relationship of man to his estate as typified by this trial of a Nazi (Criminal at Nuernberg) in 1946.

An outstanding feature of this production will be that many of the lines used in the play are taken from the actual trial record.

General Olendorf was in charge of an extermination camp that operated in South Russia. His command was responsible for the slaughter of 90,000 men, women and children.

The role of Olendorf will be taken by Mr. Abend, his first acting assignment. Frank Sprague will be cast as the prosecution attorney. Dennis DoDOCKER is the Judge, and Bea Weaver plays Olendorf's wife.

The production is under the guidance of Ted Kavanau.

WTKO TO OFFER AID TO RADIO-MAJOR

Radio station WTKO, and its General Manager, Mr. Ellis E. Brodsky, are proud to announce a new $100 scholarship to be offered in the Radio-Television Dept. here at Ithaca College.

The WTKO scholarship is designed to emphasize the need in broadcasting of college graduates who have a strong background in communication, who are trained in professional courses, and to encourage high caliber academic work in both areas.

The WTKO scholarship will go to the person in the Radio-TV Dept., attaining the highest scholastic average during the fall term of the academic year. The presentation will occur at the beginning of the spring semester of that year.

Physio-therapy is a Department in the Radio-TV Dept., during the spring semester, and those persons who have previously received the award will not be eligible. If more than one person is awarded, second or third grade awards will be given to persons determined to be a superior professional candidate as the judges of the Radio-TV Dept., college, and WTKO.

In a letter to the school, Mr. Brodsky said, "WTKO is proud to join with the college in this undertaking."

1ST ORIGINAL PLAY TO BE PRODUCED ON WICB-TV THURS.

Tomorrow night at 8:00 p.m., a double variety show will be broadcast of an original drama presented by Ithaca College Television. The drama was chosen and written by Dr. Murray Anderson, professor of Political Science. It is called "Case No. 5, United States vs. Olendorf."

The play deals with the relationship of man to his estate as typified by this trial of a Nazi (Criminal at Nuernberg) in 1946.

Richard Del Russo
by Nick Ippolito

The Ithacan's December personality of the month is Dick Del Russo, a senior in Business Management. Dick is a product of Mynderse Academy in Endicott, where he was a member of Sigma Iota. Dick spent a year at Le Moyne College in Syracuse, where he was also a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Extra-curricular activities have played an interesting part in the formative career of this young man of twenty-three years. Dick has faithfully and ambitiously served an organization, Dick was awarded, on June 5, 1958, the "Honor Key" of the John Henry Newman Honorary Society of the National Newman Club Federation. This is the highest national Newman award possible, being given only to those who are prominent in the furtherance of Newman philosophy.

Being prominent in the furtherance of organizational work is symbolic of Dick. In his sophomore year here at I.C., he was vice president and in his junior year, he was also a member of the Newman Club, serving as its junior president. In this same year, he also was elected as treasurer of the Empire State Province of the National Newman Club Federation. This is the highest New England Newman award possible.

In recognition of his fine work in this organization, Dick was awarded, on May 6, 1958, the "Honor Key" of the John Henry Newman Honorary Society of the National Newman Club Federation. This is the highest national Newman award possible, being given only to those who are prominent in the furtherance of Newman philosophy.

In this, his senior year, Dick is devoting all of his talents to the Cayugan, of which he is the Editor in Chief. Thus far, in the few months that he has been in school, Dick, with the help of all of part of the Cayugan, has succeeded in remodeling the seemingly irreparable Cayugan office in a first rate workshop which is now capable of turning out what promises to be one of the finest Cayugans in years. But working on a yearbook has its drawbacks as Dick will tell anyone. Being a full-time job in itself, he has been forced to slow down in his work in other organizations. This Dick will tell anyone. Being a full-time job in itself, he has been forced to slow down in his work in other organizations. This year Dick is a prominent member of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, and of the Newman Club.

Letters to the Editor

As interested Council members, we are availing ourselves of the opportunity so kindly left open to us by Mr. Wells. We will try to answer his assertions regarding the Council in a logical and intelligent manner.

Firstly, if it is true that the Student Council refuses to take students into its confidence, then we must assume that the many spirited organizations which helped with the preparations of the dance have to close the steel doors to our secret society of "do-nothings." who has sponsored the Weekend each year for the enjoyment of the student body.

Secondly, if it is true that "the student body can only draw the conclusion that there is nothing to do..." then the assertion "we are doing nothing" is not to the fact that our "nothing" so far this year has consisted of sale of Freshmen, presentation of organizations to lagoon Freshmen, illWill Supervision of Freshmen elections, obtaining of a new balance board for the dining hall, and presently a drive which will be explained in a later issue of the Ithacan. It is true that there is not a great deal of business being conducted in Council at the present time, but in equally true that the Student Council does not create business which is brought to our attention by the students or the administration. However, come Spring, our agenda will be concerned with conducting all class elections and setting up the Men's Student Government. Perhaps some of these things will constitute something which the students can be interested in.

Finally, if Council has handled the matter of the proposed men's student government, does Mr. Wells refer to the creation of a Council committee to work with members of other organizations on the problem and the publicity in the Ithacan concerning the proposal? If this is unsatisfactory, where do we go for inspiration? We would welcome any inspiration which Mr. Wells has in this regard. We would like some constructive ideas rather than mere general criticism. Until such time as we receive the aforementioned committee of ideas, we will go on in the best way we know how (whether or not it be "uninspired") to serve the student body on all matters pertaining to it.

Signed

Men's Student Government

Con: J. Schueg

Our opinions

One of the biggest problems that has confronted the Men at Ithaca College in the past few weeks is the question concerning a Men's Student Government. The suggestion was presented by the Student Council on first student Council members and other interested students who met in Dean Clarke's office to discuss the merits of such an organization. The outcome of the meeting was "in favor of" the suggestion. Some students who attended the meeting and students that have felt the need for the men's affairs at the college have carried out in the decorations of authority.

The possibilities have been proposed that there may be a student government for governing over the students and acting as a student police force, and it is felt that such a government will be some form of legislation over the men students.

One of the big problems is in the way of the Student Council and our student. Will there be any measures taken to prevent favoritism in the decisions of members of the M.S.O. Will this committee have a free hand in all of its decisions and must these decisions be supported fully and followed blindly by the men? It is also to be questioned in which there can be some check on the tremendous powers of this committee. It will also be questioned if there will be agreement as to the decisions made by the committee. This committee can be checked so as to avoid things such as favoritisms or group action. As the decision of the committee or any one member of the committee.

In that it is the duty of the administration to protect the interests of the individual student, the committee will be forced to take the position of the higher authority.

If this is the case, one may run so far as to say that there are possibilities and opportunities voicing the views of the student body. This will lead to the creation of an organization which is superior to the proposed committee, possibly even superior to the rights of the individual student.

It is the duty of the administration to protect the interests of the individual students. This committee will be forced to take the position of the higher authority.

If a higher authority has the right to make decisions affecting the college, why then should the students be excluded from the process? Why don't we leave the things the way they now are in the hands of responsible administrators? Let us look at certain facets of this problem. Let us see if there are any opportunities or favorities which might arise from students being tried by students.

Most students enter college in the belief that the administration is the authority for enforcing the rules of the schools regulations of the college. This point is not true. It is the duty of the administration to affect the enforcement of the regulations of the college. Men's Student Government would seem to me to solve many problems that a growing college will eventually be confronted with in regard to student activity and conduct.

Thea Alpha Phi presented its annual bill of one-act plays last Friday and Saturday nights at the Loft Playhouse. The bill was comprised of three plays that are printed below, according to "The Society of the Damned," by Jonathan Farwell (first-year’s first-prize winner in the T.A.P.-One Act Playwriting Con- test), and "The Society of the Damned," which comprises of three psychological dramas: "The Crying," by Josefa Zotter; "Jeo," and "Horse and Hanger." An audience member is perfectly willing to suspend disbelief but it is a bazaaring thing to strain this willingness too far, and that is exactly what this play did. It is a well written in an art gallery, where the pictures in the audience won't lose the meaning. There is an African who continues to speak, everyone else speaks with the (meant) meaning but tasteless.

Warren Hine, the director, did just well with this script as anyone possibly could have. If the production was static and more than a little silly, Mr. Hino cannot be held too much at fault; the unobservant watchman, Carol Ann Hildebrand, as the African, and the very least, as a polished piece of theatre: a well conceived. best outstanding contribution of the evening.

Three leading characters in "Miss Julie" have no particular acting, but little else. Judy Swain, in the role of an actress who was not far behind. If good acting was all that was needed to make a successful play, "Miss Julie" would have been a "way out in front. But the audience demands more, and "Miss Julie" did not supply it. It demands a play that holds their attention by the use of a certain way of delivering, and this last act to the battle for the final ten minutes with 15 markers. George Dohmen.

Some improvement was shown in the last few starts. Chuck Wood was called upon to run the entire range of the dramatic war was lost. The two leading characters in "Julie" featured some very fine performance in the previous games, as Richie Slomkowski, who started out the season with Ithaca trailing by eight points. Mr. Miller can not be held too much at fault; the unobservant watchman, Carol Ann Hildebrand, as the African, and the very least, as a polished piece of theatre: a well conceived. best outstanding contribution of the evening.

It was fittingly ironic that the Farwell scripted "Society of the Damned" should have followed the first act, which was presented by the Theta Alpha Phi one act play roundup. Although I can not be concerned here with a comparison of the two acts, I must comment on what to me appeared as the most outstanding contribution of the evening.

Edward Pilkingston, cast in the role of an Actor addicted to alcohol was nothing short of superb. Words such as "inspiring" and "characterizations. It is only to be lamented that Jonathan Farwell, the author, could not be there to witness their achievement.

"Miss Julie" featured some noticeable acting, but little else. Judy Swain, in the title role, was excellent, and Michael Helfpurn as John was not far behind.
