Beeler Authors Music Books

A series of four instruction books on brass instrument methods for beginners, written by a faculty member of the Ithaca College school of Music, has been published and is available locally at Hickey's Music Store.

The author, Professor Walter Beeler, has been a faculty member here since 1959.

Prof. Beeler, conductor of the College concert and marching bands, is widely known as a guest conductor and judge of bands. His demonstrated methods in band directing at the 27th annual conference of the Pennsylvania MEA in Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 1

Prof. Beeler received his B.E. M.S., and bachelor of music from Ithaca College.

The series of instruction books is entitled "Play Away!" It was published last month by the G. Schirmer Publishing Co. of New York City.

Day evening there will be a formal dance at which the coronation of the King and Queen and the presentation of the court will take place.

Brunch Slated

Brunch will be served Sunday morning, and in the afternoon there will be a picnic, Greek games, and a jam session.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the talent show, float parade, and Greek games.

This year, as in the past, a contest will be held for the naming of the Weekend. The winner will receive: a ticket to the Weekend from the Junior class, two mugs donated by Delta Kappa, flowers, and a jam session.

Event Scheduled In College Music Hall

The Ithaca College Choir and Chorus directed by Don Craig will present the annual Christmas-Guaradahk Concert tonight in the Music Hall at 8:15.

Drive Safely

In a few days, our highways will again be crowded with travelers anxious for the holiday season. Each year holiday traffic accidents claim the lives of thousands of Americans, many college students included.

Students driving home this weekend are urged to use the roads safely. Avoid drunk driving. So that this holiday season will not be marred by tragedy. Take a little extra time and arrive home safely.

The editors and staff of the ITHACAN would like to extend to our readers a wish for a joyful Christmas and a most rewarding New Year.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

There seems to be some lack of understanding of the rules which govern the use of rooms and apartments outside the college dormitories.

The college has long had agreements with landlords in Ithaca that students who rent a room or apartment and move into it must continue in that room or apartment until the end of the semester. If less than that time period, there is a permission from the Dean of Students to move that permission. That permission being given only when evidence is presented that the living conditions are unsatisfactory.

According to the governing rules all male students in that they may not play cards or motley in the living quarters, or bring into those quarters any alcoholic beverages or persons of the opposite sex. Permission to entertain young women in living quarters may be given by the Dean of Students under certain conditions which are approved by the rules. These rules are explained in the student handbook.

In addition to the above regulations, each landlord will have different rules and regulations. These tenants are expected to live. Those rules should be understood by both parties and should move the living quarters.

Sincerely yours,

[Name]

Dean of Students

Dear Editor,

The back alleys are not yet covered with a deep snow, but make no mistake. Children are not yet wearing suits of plum and snow to play in. A world-wide snow seems to be lost in a hinterland, which means that in the next few weeks, the entire campus will be covered with snow.

Many students enjoy the weather as it is, but others cannot stand it. The snow is a never-ending problem for the students.

The little children dream of a visit from Santa Claus—-that fat little fellow with the beard. But there are many students who don’t really seem to know what this Christmas will bring, besides bills. There are many people in homes that don’t have any hope of recreation and happiness, and are being addressed even more. Christmas ‘tis the season to be jolly which is the birth of Christ, to the world, has become a degenerate expression of the world by the “ho-ho’s” of the season. Buy your kids dolls that have real hair and real clothes. Will also give you five cents off the spirit water without having to be reeled; buy them “adolescent powered” rocket guns that shoot ice cream pails that melt in the mouth. Where is the spirit of warmth and love that in days past, pervaded the world on December 25.

"Murder In The Cathedral"
Next Drama Production
By R. AHRENS

The Drama department will present its third show of the year, F. S. Elliot's "Murder In The Cathedral," January 11 through 14. It will be directed by Roger Bardwell, drama instructor.

If you've last seen "Two On An Island," will play the central figure, Thomas Becket. Three parts of "The Inoccentes," in the Green Room last Friday. Four Templers and Four Knights will be directed by Roger and Bradwell.

Ahrens, who played the theatrical producer Lawrence Ormston in "Two On An Island," Al Rosenberg, who portrayed Otto Frank in "The Diary of Anne Frank" last year, Mike Halpern, and Jay Tarr.

A chorus of twelve women take stage for a greater part of the play.

The feud between King Henry II and Thomas Becket has been material for many dramatists and poets, perhaps the most recent being Jean Anouilh's "Becket," which opened in New York a few weeks ago.

Mr. Elliot concerns himself not so much with the direct feud, for King Henry II never appears on stage, but rather with the internal feelings of Becket and his struggles. The background, Becket, close friend of Henry II, is made Archbishop of Canterbury. He is expected to be a religious and political puppet in the hands of the King. But, unlike most clerical figures of his day, Becket becomes aware of and involved in his duties. He rejects the King's political aspirations for him. His friendship severed. Becket is left alone to battle with his conscience. It is at this point that Mr. Elliot begins his drama.

Debate Team Organized; Has Full Winter Schedule

"Although our won-loss record has been anything but exceptional, we are rapidly overcoming our handicap of inexperience and should do much better once we do," this was the feeling of Professor J. C. Raiton, faculty advisor to the Ithaca College Forensic Association and its debating team.

This fall, the team, competing against major colleges for the first time, attended the Central New York Forensic League, compiled a 1-5 won-loss record and showed steady improvement against its non-league opponents.

Recently, 15 debaters participated in the Pittsburgh Cross-Examination Debate Tournament in which fifty-eight colleges and universities from eighteen states, Canada, and Jamaica were represented.

The team has a full winter schedule of competition planned that will get underway in January. The ICPA conducts a forty-five minute radio program, "Public Speaking," which can be heard every Wednesday evening at 6:15 over WICB.

The association was organized last year and is open to all Ithaca College students.

Rafferty, Ziobro Receive Phi E.K. MVP Football, Soccer Awards

Jim Rafferty and John Ziobro were the recipients of Phi Epsilon Kappa's annual "Most Valuable Player" awards presented last Wednesday.

Rafferty was presented a trophy for his outstanding play on the gridiron this past season while Ziobro was selected as the most valuable player on the soccer team.

The trophies were presented by Ray Bolduc, Chairman of the Awards Committee, at half time ceremonies of I.C.'s first home basketball game last weekend.

Basketball Game To Be Televised

Tomorrow night Ithaca College TV, WICB, will originate live telecasts of Ithaca College home basketball games. The Bombers second local game, against Clarkson, will be broadcast on cable channel 2, and will be the first Ithaca College cage game ever televised. The contest will be aired from the new Ithaca High School gym starting at 8:15. The game will also be broadcast on WICB radio by Pete Peterson and Ron Martello.

Ithaca College radio, WICB-AM-FM, will present a special lineup of holiday programs Friday night high lighted by an hour long version of Charles Dickens' immortal "Christmas Carol." The all student cast features George Bear as Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Billings in the role of Tiny Tim, with Kathy Rooting, Jay Jayson, and Mary Coleman as three children. Ford, Dave Williams, Calvin Branche, Tony Collins, have other male leads. The program will be narrated by Jim Everets, Ken Dodd and Jack Miller, who adapted this version from the stage play, are producers and directors. A second program produced and directed by Jay Wayne will be broadcast preceding the "Christmas Carol."

It's getting so a person can run up a pretty good gas bill just following the Bomber athletic squads when they're at home. This fall it was trips up South Hill for football or down to Titus Flats to watch the soccer team. Now they've put Carp Wood's and Joe Hamilton's roundballers in the new spot on Cayuga street. Well, if the new Ithaca High gym isn't a better spot for basketball than the Boynton Sports Arenas, but it is somewhat of a lengthy (and chilly at times) walk, sure, a suggestion to the powers that be at I.C., it might be appreciated by the student body if one of the Small College All-America teams, the Associated Press All-America teams, or the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference as the fullback on its team. Joe Hamilton's Freshman basketballers are now in the works for the season. The Bombers are the leaders in the eastern conference, and the Bombers are to meet the Cornell Frosh 69-63 on Tuesday, in the Cornell Frosh 69-63 last Tuesday, but were defeated in a return match, 72-55, at Burton Hall last Wednesday afternoon.

Game time for the Varsity contest is 8:15. Clarkson was defeated Saturday evening, 59 to 71, by Hartwick, a further Bomber opponent.

Coach Joe Hamilton's Freshmen will oppose Auburn Community College in the 6:30 p.m. game, after the Cornell Frosh game.

Coach John O'Brien's Bombers face Clarkson this coming Saturday, winning their only home game. They defeated the Cornell Frosh 69-63 last Tuesday, but were defeated in a return match, 72-55, at Burton Hall last Wednesday afternoon.

Game time for the Varsity contest is 8:15. Clarkson was defeated Saturday evening, 59 to 71, by Hartwick, a further Bomber opponent.
