From our share of students. Aside from offering a well-organized curriculum, there are certain obligations to students which should be assumed by the college.

- Students participating in gymnastic and activity classes should be covered by some type of insurance. The year-to-year rate may bring many tragic accidents that could cause the individual much money and the school much embarrassment. Disaster, in any event, is dependable but the school's insurance may not cover all the losses.

- Research along this line has revealed that some of our students actually do not sufficiently reflect the official policy or opinion.

Student Insurance Policy Needed

With higher education today, but surely returning to normal there will be a time when Ithaca College will be competing with other colleges for their share of students. Aside from offering well-organized curricula, there are certain obligations to students which should be assumed by the college.

BIG JOHN SAYS
By John Wilson

I should like to delve at some length into the study of the Musette. The word has an interesting derivation, in fact two, which are both applicable here. The word "Muse," in Anglo-Saxon means English saxophone, an instrument which does not concern us today, means to think; added to it "eute," meaning little. Little did I think I would be quoting the Musette, even more interesting, is this: Muse—the Greek word for goddess of song, and eute, past tense for eute: "Thus, after the Greeks had eaten, they sang ..."

The Musette, in fact, an instrument used primarily in Arabia for charming snakes. A very old instrument, it was invented by an Arab musicologist named Sayn. He was famous for his beautiful teeth; they were just like pearls. In fact, he bought them, the same way New York caves developed, day by day he dropped his teeth, and they were trapped by a camel caravans crossing the desert, led by Vaught Monroe. (I believe this is the origin of that old axiom, "Don't let anyone cross your face when you are about to get it." It is interesting to note that in a recent survey in Arraba, carobs prefer doctors, two to one.) But I digress.

and since he wind a means of livelihood. But, as the name indicates meaning only that the music is printed on two staves and the means seats. Tickets are available at the Faculty-Student Capers Box Office. Held to select entertainers, who will sing a note in the "I" box, Music admission is.
