College Announces Plans For New Gym Construction

by Bruce Theobald

The College Administration recently announced that the basic unit of the new gymnasium on the South Hill campus will be begun in the spring. It is estimated that it will be ready for use in September of 1963.

The construction of the first unit of the gymnasium together with the development of additional outdoor facilities will mean all Ithaca College students can benefit from expanded physical education programs. This can take place much sooner than anticipated. At present there is no adequate program for non-physical education majors. Such a program is part of a complete educational experience at all school levels from elementary through college.

Recently there has been an increased national interest and emphasis on physical fitness. This interest has been sparked by President Kennedy's statement, "The strength of our democracy is not greater than the collective well-being of our people. The vigor of our country is no stronger than the vitality and will of our countrymen. The level of physical, mental, moral and spiritual fitness of every American citizen must be our constant concern."

With the addition of both indoor and outdoor facilities on the new campus, Ithaca College can provide a more complete physical education program for all students. I.C. will then have taken one more step toward the program of excellence facilities.

Three IC Men Will Serve With US Marine Corps

Two recent Ithaca College graduates have been commissioned, and another has been accepted as an officer candidate in the United States Marine Corps, according to information received from the Marine Information Section, Syracuse, New York.

Francis E. Visconti, PE '61, and Bruce A. Garnish, PE '61 recently completed a ten-week basic officer training course and have been commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve at Quantico, Virginia.

James A. Nicholson, a member of the Department of Physical Education and Health at IC, was recently accepted as an officer candidate and will begin his officer candidate course at Quantico on March 19th. He will graduate from IC at the end of the current semester.

All three of the men will serve with the U.S. Marine Corps for the next three years. Six months of this time will be spent in advanced officer training school at Quantico. They will then be transferred to one of the many Marine Corps bases or stations throughout the world.

More Thievery

Ithaca College has one show place-one spot of completion in a universe of growth. The Student Lounge in the Union Building gives students a peek into the future, a future of many similar, new, beautiful well-equipped buildings and rooms.

The Lounge has been furnished to provide students with a centralized meeting place.

This objective, however, is in danger of never being consummated because the Lounge has become subject to erosion. Not the usual kind of erosion produced by the wear and tear of natural use but by the erosion of disappearance, better known as theft.

Heretofore, college students were usually assumed past the adolescent stages of petty theft. A reevaluation of that assumption is now necessary. Several expensive ash trays and large chair cushions have, by some way or another, found their way into various dorm rooms.

The fact of the matter is the lounge equipment is not placed there for stealing but for the enjoyment of all. Should every student decide to use a certain lounge implement in his room, the Student Center would soon be barren.

We of the Ithacan are truly sorry that Ithaca College students need another chiding about theft. Any kind of thievery is a criminal offense and there isn't an ashtray in the world worth a ruined reputation.

The College has suggested that the Lounge be closed until the "hot" goods are returned while the Student Union mentors want to secure the Lounge furniture to the floor.

We feel neither solution will solve the problem. To close the room would drive the honest student into another meeting spot, while the thieves would just go some where else to steal. To fasten the furniture insults most of the students who have never entertained the possibility of furniture theft.

Now that the problem has been brought to attention, let's have a force of student opinion condemn the guilty parties into returning the missing articles. We of the Ithacan also feel that no punishment should be necessary if the stolen pieces are restored to the room. We also realize the challenge of theft is a great one to many "bold adventures"—let's keep it under control without needless regulations.

Rock Salt - Please

To pick man's greatest scientific invention in the last 300 years would indeed be difficult. Would it be the automobile, plane, atomic power plant or one of the many other implements common to all civilized society? We suspect that in choosing this innovation no one would ever think of bestowing the honor upon a little thought-upon, much depended-upon product—"rock salt." Obviously, none of the South Hill Campus keepers have ever thought of it either.

The new campus, with its rocky hills and wooded plains, is subjected to an extra amount of water seepage. With the on-again-off-again winter, the sidewalks have been either flooded or frozen. Nothing can be done about the flooding, but the freezing presents a danger easily solved by rock salt.

We of the Ithacan suggest that, before a student tumbles into an expensive lawsuit, the school should purchase this boon for all walkers.

Ithaca College will sponsor 1962 summer travel-study tours to Europe and Puerto Rico-Virgin Islands in the Caribbean.

The sixth annual nine-week "Music in Europe" tour to nine countries will begin June 26 when the S. S. Rijndam of the Holland-America Line sails from Montreal. The group will visit music and art centers and festivals in Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Germany, England, and Scotland. For eight days the students will be enrolled in the Mozareum Academy in Salzburg, Austria.

The group will be led for the third time by Prof. Joseph Tague of Ithaca College. The cost of the tour is $1,515.

The seventh annual Caribbean tour to study "The Culture of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands" will be of six weeks duration. It will begin July 1 when the group flies from New York to Puerto Rico, and will end Aug. 11.

Study will be supplemented by visits to educational, industrial, civic, and social service centers on the island. At the end of the course members will visit the islands of St. Croix and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

For the second year the tour will be directed by Prof. Judson W. Hill. The cost of the tour is $585.

The tours are being sponsored by the Office of Graduate Studies at Ithaca College. Dr. William M. Grimshaw, director of graduate studies, is in charge of registration.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor:

In a recent editorial where you were discussing fallout shelters, you advocated the building of such shelters. You said that they "provide a great deterrent to any enemy planning aggressive foreign policy". I do not believe that this is so. I think rather, that such shelters create in the minds of Americans, as well as in the minds of all the people of the world, that war is inevitable. But, the most disturbing aspect of the shelter push is the potential use of shelters as part of the whole process of justifying war. In the building of shelters, people are turning their backs on the only realistic road to survival—the road of peace.

You also mentioned that shelters, "are designed to shield against the deadly radioactive fallout that filters through the atmosphere following nuclear explosion", rather than as protection against the blast itself. Aside from the fires of the blast which would cause suffocation if you were in a shelter, after the initial radiation (about 50% of the total amount), rains would bring down another 30 to 40%. Those who escaped the first dose would almost certainly be destroyed by the second, unless extraordinary preparations had been made to live underground for an indefinite period of time. In addition, for months after such a blast all milk and food supplies, as well as agricultural lands, would be contaminated. There would also be problems of clothing, heat and housing, waste disposals, and communicable diseases.

Shelters are built on the assumption that an enemy attack would be a relatively puny one, and one would have to be highly optimistic to assume that any nuclear attack would be anything short of a total one.

You said you felt it was "ethically proper to build shelters" and that it was the "moral responsibility of every American to protect himself and his family". I feel that it is not realistic to build shelters, and that every American should realize that fallout shelters are useless, except perhaps to delay death. Indeed, if we are to survive, we must forget about fallout shelters. The only answer, the only permanent shelter, is to work, in every way possible, for peace, not to rationalize war.

Dear Editor:

I have heard several rumors concerning the possibility of a speedy new campus completion. One bothers me very much—that is the story that the college plans to partially complete all of the buildings before finishing any one completely.

This is one of the worst plans that could be used I feel. Even in speedy complete construction quality is sacrificed, but in half done jobs the buildings will be deteriorating before they are finished.

I too want to see a new and complete Ithaca College. But I do not want half done buildings and half finished rooms.

Yours truly
Mike Sinclair

Dear Editor:

I feel that Ithaca College should have a student fund, that could be used to present concerts of well known musical groups, bring in lecturers, and in general contribute to student activities. Perhaps we could have a small fee assessed at registration that would go directly to this fund.

Sincerely
Greg Wooster

D. C. Music

By Lois Chaber

Four or five years ago, when Walter Beeler was asked to stage a program with his Ithaca College Concert Band for a N.Y.S.S.M.A. Conference, he probably did not fully realize the extent of the enterprise that his novel demonstration would develop into. Rather than falling back on the ordinary concert, Mr. Beeler devised a lecture-demonstration in which he would utilize the band to demonstrate the do's and don'ts of band performance. The program was received with an enthusiasm that soon put Walter Beeler's demonstration in demand all over the country. In 1959 Professor Beeler was asked to present his clinic with the Concert Band at the All-Eastern Seaboard Conference at Atlantic City. This past December the band members again embarked upon their unique program at the N.Y.S.S.M.A. Conference at Buffalo.

As a result of the clinic's success, Mr. Beeler has been called all over the country to conduct the clinic with other bands. He has appeared at the Pennsylvania Music Educators Meeting, the Minnesota Music Educators Meeting, and Dedication Day at Westchester State Teachers College. He has traveled to such places as San Marino, California and North Carolina to conduct band clinics. For the most part, Mr. Beeler's clinics are requested by state band directors associations, which furnish a select high school band to be utilized in the demonstration.

A program of such calibre will have naturally created a demand for another mode of communication other than just that of live performance. In order to expand this new educational device, a series of recordings by Walter Beeler and the Ithaca College Concert Band has been planned. Although two sets of recordings have already been made at the conferences previously mentioned, this month will mark the beginning of the first official recording sessions. The session will be held on the 30 or 31 of January in the college Music Hall and will utilize the full membership of the official Ithaca College Concert Band. Professor Beeler and the band will be required to work for a six-hour session in order to record the equivalent of a half hour of music. Mr. Beeler hopes to be able to fit in two of these six-hour sessions at the present time. The series, which will eventually consist of three records, will be entitled Band Rehearsal Technics and will go under the Crest Records label.

The entire series will function through an analytical approach, using the discussion-demonstration method. The first record will deal with problems of tone and intonation. Mr. Beeler will cite the wrong condition, having the band perform in the incorrect manner mentioned, and then will explain what is done to correct these factors, this time using the band to demonstrate the proper condition. One of the broad topics will be that of timbre. A demonstration of about twenty-five little solos will serve to illustrate the possible range of color. The students themselves have worked with Mr. Beeler in pinpointing these various tone and intonation problems—such items as unsupported tones, loose embouchures, and vibrato bugaboos in the flute section.

The second record may or may not be recorded at this time, but will deal with rhythm problems in any case. The main goals in this clinical recording will be to attempt to define "rhythm", to analyze different rhythm figures, and to seek out the pitfalls and trouble spots that are the bane of every band.

Walter Beeler's band clinic has indeed become a valuable asset to Ithaca College, tremendously increasing the prestige of the band and simultaneously that of the entire School of Music. The whole basis of the clinic's functioning as an educational device lies in the assumption that the Ithaca College Concert Band's standards are those of excellence. In this way, the band's various techniques have actually become a set of criteria for many other bands.

IC Overwhelms Utica 96-69 As Sophomores Star In Romp

It was the sophomores again as Bill Schutz, Tom Vogt, and Don Fazio paced Ithaca to its fifth win of the campaign, 96-69, over Utica College last Saturday, in the UFA gym at Utica.

Schutz, who led the team in rebounds with 11, tallied 12 of his points, eight for nine from the foul line, in the first twenty minutes of play that put the Bombers ahead 45-38 going into the last half.

Pressing tactics by Vogt and Fazio at the outset of the second stanza broke the contest wide open as the Blue and Gold raced to 59-45 and 71-48 leads.

Vogt, high man in the game with 22 points, sank seven of his 11 baskets in this half. Fazio tallied ten of his total 17 points and John Hewes, who maintained his 15 point average, added nine more in the 51 point scoring spree.

Between Vogt and Fazio only five shots missed their target in 23 attempts. Vogt missed four shots as he scored the most goals in a single game thus far this season. Fazio tossed in seven out of eight from the floor.

Captain Jim Lockman saw limited action due to fouls. After scoring the first IC basket, three fouls sidelined him for more than ten minutes of the first half. He started the second half, but after four and a half minutes had elapsed, he was out of the game with five personal fouls.

Utica was out in front for about the first ten minutes. Larry Calabrese dumped in 16 counters during the first half in leading his teammates to a 19-16 advantage. The visitors soon caught up and went ahead on Gary Gregorka's driving lay up. With only a minute remaining in the half, and the score 41-38, Vogt dropped in a 20 foot jumper and Gregorka pumped one on another drive to give Coach Wood's unit a seven point spread at intermission.

Calabrese was high for the losers, collecting 20 points. Ed Martin added 19 in the losing cause.

Utica has yet to win a game this season, having lost seven straight.

IC Hockey Team Turns Tables On Northwood Prep

Smarting from a one-sided 13-2 defeat to the Northwood Prep school on December 15, the Ithaca College Hockey Club executed an about face the following evening and squeezed out a 5-4 decision on Tim Regan's goal in the final seconds of the game.

No one person could be cited for his outstanding play, for it was a strong team effort by the whole Blue and Gold team, which won its first game of the year. The scoring was by five different players.

Northwood tied the count at 4-4 with less than a minute remaining in the contest, but the Bombers struck back to win it on Ragan's shot.

Ithaca will play its first home match next Wednesday at Cornell's Lynah Rink, at 10:30 p.m., against Syracuse.

Frosh Cagers Oust OCCC; Extend Win Skein to Four

Bob Jantosick's two free throws with about ten seconds left in the game gave the freshmen basketball squad its fourth straight victory of the season, as the yearlings edged out Orange County Community College 71-70, in a contest played last Friday night in the Boynton gym.

Chuck Holtz was at his best as he pulled down 35 rebounds and rolled up 20 points in leading the attack. Howard Sanford was high for Ithaca with 21 points. Jim Streeter also hit double figures for 13 counters.

Holtz had much to contend with too, as 6'8" Dick Schuma for the visitors tallied 13 points in the opening half and 19 in the last twenty minutes for a total of 32 points. Teammate Fred Itzla added 19 points.

Coach Joe Hamilton's quintet built up an eight point advantage during the first half only to watch the Orangemen slice it and take it away in the second stanza. Orange County led by as much as seven points at one time, but the game, for the most part, was nip and tuck with the lead changing hands continuously throughout.

The win came via the foul line as Orange County threw in three more field goals. Although the winners only connected on 11 of 20 charity tosses, it proved enough as the losers only found the mark on four of 12 attempts.

The frosh will be after their fifth straight tomorrow night at Cornell. The following evening they host Brockport at the Ithaca high school at 6:30.

Broadwell's Grapplers To Face Syracuse Next Week

The Ithaca College varsity wrestling team, in the toughest part of its schedule, met Cortland last night in the grapplers home opener. However, results were not available in time for publication. Last Saturday Ithaca lost to Wilkes 20-10.

Coach Herb Broadwell's Bombers hit the road the next two weeks, traveling to Syracuse next Wednesday, then journeying to Lock Haven for a January 31st match against the strong team from Pennsylvania.

The matmen, after losing tight matches to Clarkson and Wilkes, hope for a change for the better against the highly ranked Orangemen. The feature match of the day will pit IC's undefeated Orlando Iacovelli against Syracuse star Sirota, a former Long Island champ, in the 157 pound bracket.

The Lockhaven match looms as the toughest of the season for the Bombers, and is led by two-time National 123 pound champion Gary Simons. Simons, a member of the 1960 Olympic squad and generally conceded to be the best wrestler in the United States, will shoot for his 75th consecutive collegiate victory against either Lou Ricks or Sam Harnsongharm.

The grapplers then return home for a match on February 2, to face the University of Buffalo, at 8:00 p.m. in the Seneca gym.

Coach Broadwell feels that personnel-wise, this is the best team that he has had in recent years. Yet, for some unexplained reason it is just not clicking as hoped for. "The potential is there, but so far we just have not been able to bring it out," he said. "When we do, and I'm sure we will, some of these teams better start watching out."

Varsity Cagers Host Brockport This Saturday

The Bombers will be seeking their sixth win of the season against three losses. They have beaten Lockhaven, Wilkes, Cortland, Roberts Wesleyan and Utica, while losing to Clarkson, St. Lawrence and the New York Athletic Club.

Last year Brockport trounced the Ithacans with high scoring Dick Craft leading the attack. This year Craft is not with them, but former teammate Bob Gumar is filling in where Craft left off. Last week's statistics placed Gumar as the second highest scorer in the nation in small college competition with a 32 point game average.

So far this season both schools have had only one common opponent—Cortland. The Red Dragons lost to Brockport by one and to the Bombers by three.

In seven college games this season, John Hewes is the leading scorer with 107 points, averaging a shade over 15 points a contest. Captain Jim Lockman is the only other player averaging in the double figure column. Jim has totaled 70 points for a ten point average. The captain leads the rebounding department with 90.

From the charity stripe, sophomore Bill Schutz has sunk 17 of 22 shots for a .77 average.

These statistics do not include the game with the New York Athletic Club (won by New York 110-78), as the team is not a college team and their results are not recorded with the NCAA.
