Slater System To Be Replaced By Wes and Gus Dining Service

by Joanie Hoogey

After many fine years of loyal and devoted service to the students of Ithaca College, we are about to lose the services of The Slater System.

It was announced today that the Wes McLean and Gus Stratskos Diner System would be the replacement for the Slater Food System. After a recent merger of the two Diner Systems of Ithaca, there was a bid by several merchants for the privilege of serving Ithaca College students. After a bitterly contested season the two Wes and Gus Diner Systems won out over all competitors for the "right." The loss of "Slater" probably will be most felt by juniors and seniors of Ithaca College. After four and five years of getting used to Slater food, their digestive systems now will have to contend with the gums and tenements of a stranger's unfamiliarly prepared food plates. Others (rebels in the student body) suggest that they have been feeling the pangs and torments of unfamiliarly prepared food plates for years.

For most students, the era of Slater will be felt as the freeing of their taste buds from the confines the Slater menus and plates. But some, however, rebels in the student body) will find farewell salutations not so hard to express. Immediately following the bidding in the winter term, the new system plans to put into effect at the start of the new semester were announced. There will be two alternatives for Ithaca College students in the new system: 1. A $2 plan for dishes and silverware. In addition, the new Diner System will employ some of the methods of sterilization by employing "Screwfast" to ensure that students have crisp, clean and appetizing plates served by Hebrew National.

After many fine years of loyal and devoted service to the students of Ithaca College, the Slater System will feel the pangs and torments of unfamiliarly prepared food plates and dishes and silverware. In addition the new Diner System will employ some of the methods of sterilization by employing "Screwfast" to ensure that students have crisp, clean and appetizing plates served by Hebrew National.

The loss of "Slater" probably will be most felt by juniors and seniors of Ithaca College. After four and five years of getting used to Slater food, their digestive systems now will have to contend with the gums and tenements of a stranger’s unfamiliarly prepared food plates. Others (rebels in the student body) suggest that they have been feeling the pangs and torments of unfamiliarly prepared food plates for years.

For most students, the era of Slater will be felt as the freeing of their taste buds from the confines the Slater menus and plates. But some, however, rebels in the student body) will find farewell salutations not so hard to express. Immediately following the bidding in the winter term, the new system plans to put into effect at the start of the new semester were announced. There will be two alternatives for Ithaca College students in the new system: 1. A $2 plan for dishes and silverware. In addition, the new Diner System will employ some of the methods of sterilization by employing "Screwfast" to ensure that students have crisp, clean and appetizing plates served by Hebrew National.
During the past few years The Ithacan established a tradition of reserving its final edition of the first semester for reporting completely false and bizarre news stories. This year — after a lengthy discussion with the Board of Directors — The Ithacan editors decided against "relegating" any of its editions to false reporting.

We feel that the students rate an apology as many have looked forward to this issue, thinking it would be false and bizarre. The editors are sorry that due to an increase in overhead and a decrease in advertising clients, this year will not be published this year.

To the Board of Directors — The Ithacan staff, 8:00 p.m.

```
Dear Editor:

I have never seen a worse journalistic effort on the part of any college newspaper in this country. The news story titled "The Ithacan's final edition for its newsworthy efforts towards the publication of a fine upstanding newspaper." The energy expended on this weekly publication is immeasurable and commendation is especially deserved by the Staff. The feature staff, their timly, factual, entertaining, and overwhelmingly bizarre reporting never fail to bring a happy smile to my face. In an overburdened schedule, each semester it increases an increasingly my interest. A.S. AR 3-1112.

Sincerely,
Susan Lurer '63.
```
Not since the 1960 production of "Two on an Island" has there been the publicity and community interest that has followed this year's "Skin of Our Teeth." The opening night audience, startled at first by the absence of life in the Ithaca College Theater, quickly settled down to an evening of fun and surprises and from Sabrina's first speech, expected and accepted mediocrity. Sabrina is a memorable character inadequately portrayed by Barbara Campbell. A riff with director Bardwell during rehearsals prompted Miss Campbell from giving the world's hottest performance thus far. This proved to be very irritating to the audience as she began ranting about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.") Sabrina then proved once and for all that temperament has no place in the theater. Her portrayal of Mr. Wilder's symbol for "The Skin of Our Teeth" could have been a shambles. The cast and company ad-libbing was perhaps the most entertaining moment of the show and had the audience as well as her biting remarks about the play itself ("...that was worse than anything I've ever seen in my life.").
College Cagers Win Bid To Annual NCAA Turnney

CRICKET ADDED TO COLLEGE'S ANNUAL ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The faculty of the Ithaca College Physical Education Department announced last Saturday evening that the Spring festival of Sports will, for the first time, include cricket. “With all the baseball talent we have at this institution it is a sin that we haven’t done this before,” commented Bucky Freeman, the coach of the IC Nine.

During a transatlantic phone call with the director of Athletic Events in Oxford, Sir John Treutman was quoted as saying, “I respect the Colony’s attempt at the game, however. I wish to give them a really good smashing in due time.”

To initiate this program, the College will give 1½ at Scenic Hill Campus area to construct practice and playing fields. In addition, the near future holds for Ithaca College a cricket stadium designed by the late Frank Lloyd Wright. The stadium will hold 12,000 seating capacity.

All students interested in trying out for this new sport 1) must be fully acquainted with English 2) and maintain a 1.5 average.

The date for try-outs will be announced.

"Go Bombers" Dropped As Students Name New Mascot

Ithaca College has a new mascot. Tired of the old “Go Bombers,” students resolved and demanded a new nickname for the College team. The mascot was picked in a general election last Thursday.

The teams were nickname “the Bombers” by the students in 1924 when all I.C. teams were defeated in every contest. As the war came the name was dropped and glorified meaning—and BOMBER stood.

For the last few years however there has been an increase in dissatisfaction with the name over the name. Feelings, pro and con, over the name became so strong that several “yes Bombers” and “no Bombers” factions were militantly formed on campus.

Emotions erupted into open warfare in an infamous riot, sometimes mis-named for the town in which it was staged, Newport, Rhode Island. Thereafter, the College banned the pro and con societies, forbidding a group of students to study the problem. The results of their study prompted the recent election.

The ballot contained 5 nominations:
1. Three-toed sloth; 2. Duck; 3. Platypus; 4. Oldmobile; and 5. Venuses Fly Trap. But students exerting their independence overwhelmed in a lively contest the candidates. The mascot will be purchased by the Student Council from Animals Incorporated, New York City. It will be introduced at the opening football game next season.

I.C. students will have for the next few years to keep up for their and our eyes of "Go Ithaca Pit Vipers" will resound through the hills.

Summer Jobs in Europe

Write to American Student Information Service, 22, Ave. De L’Ubere, Luxemburg

Rock’ Coming to IC Music School; Eddy Joins Staff

Ithaca College’s Music Department is planning the purchase of an entirely new instrument budget will be used in purchasing 17 Fender Bass Guitars. The purchase was made necessary by the formation of a new rock band for the I.C. campus. Also under the baton of Question Eddy—recently appointed musical instructor—Mr. Eddy will be introduced at a degree at Roulette Recital Room of Music School and was a traveling musician before coming to I.C. to teach. He explained how a concert party will be necessary in a well-rounded school of music, and that the unusual purchase of instruments was a necessity. “I want my boys to have the best,” he quoted.

Pro Mentor Joins "Marauder" Staff to Assist Wilde

The Physical Education Department announced yesterday, the signing of Mr. Henry M. Pro Coach of the Marauders. Head Coach of the Marauders, Al Wilde, commented, “We have been trying to persuade Buster to come to Ithaca College for quite some time. Many legal papers have been filed to obtain the rights from the Buffalo Bills and finally through perseverance we got the Bills to relinquish his services.”

Barney, a former All-Star aticky U. expressed these sentiments, “It will be great getting back to College Ball. Those Pro boys are big and tough but there’s nothing like college football.”

The band recording will only be part of a larger series intended to promote high cultural trends in the United States. The department will play their share in this program.

The recording sessions will cover the entire week of the 23rd through the 29th of January. Although none of the final details have been worked out as of yet, the band recording will probably be entitled "Blind Alley" and "The IC Pride." During such notable standards as "Tip Toe Through The Tulips," and "You Are My Sunshine," a special portion of the tour will be devoted to a medley of "Never On Sunday." In this same altruistic vein, a new plan for inter-school unity and understanding is being worked out at this time. Dean McGinnity and Dean Morgan have begun a series of conferences to discuss future plans for a more tightly-knit coordination between the School of Music and the School of Physical Education. Their discussions so far have resulted in the decision that all music students be required to participate in a one-credit course, "Cultural Music." Students taking this course at 8:00 a.m. will have this course scheduled at 7:30, those taking Theory at 9:00 a.m. will be scheduled for 8:30, and so forth.

In addition, the physical education curriculum will be rearranged so as to include one semester of Conducting with Professor Walter Beeler for the purpose of strengthening arm, hand and finger muscles and improving general co-ordination.

Both deans are extremely satisfied with the tenor of the talks so far and feel a strong confidence in the reciprocal benefits to be incurred by the new program.

Hickey’s Music Store has announced the improvement of a green stamp plan to be initiated beginning February 1. A special redemption center is being constructed on State Street so that students will be able to bring their coupons and receive cash or stamps for a year’s supply of three-hole manuscript paper, reed-making kits, etc.

In addition to their monthly activity, the Ithaca College M.N.C. chapter is planning to attend a Music Educator’s Conference at East Podunk University on Wednesday, January 25. The members will spend the day attending various workshops and panel discussions. The program will begin with a very general workshop—“Teaching Aids in the High School Level—Preparation of Materials.” This workshop will include various lectures and demonstrations on topics such as the art of rhinestones, the importance of the ear plug and first aid kit, etc.

I discuss once more the different language that corresponds in the Music School because it was precipitated by an article in the student’s weekly, the brothers of Phi Nu, the Ithaca fraternity sent a committee down the hill to Kappa Gamma Piti to present a formal protestation, however, on the way, they encountered a delegation from Kappa Gamma Piti that was on his way to demand an apology for the suggested "insult" they believed to have been prepared between the brothers of Phi Nu and the writers of the Ithaca. As a consequence, all further action was delayed until proper negotiations could be arranged. Due to excellent communications facilitated by the mediation activities of the sister of S.A.I., a meeting in the College Club for last Sunday evening was arranged. After convening with the brothers of Phi Nu, the fraternity sent a written letter to the brothers of Phi Nu on the issue of an inability to accept the issue of an inability to agree on semantics. This writer expresses sincere regrets for the above-mentioned disagreement and hopes that the renewal of negotiations will be first expressed to the students involved in discussing the error made in last week’s column. Steve Brown is not a member of Kappa Gamma Piti. He is a member of Phi Epsilon Kappa.

Ithaca College Seal Charms

M.J. Music

In conjunction with the approaching band recording session that I discussed last week, I would like to point out the fact that this outside activity is not being restricted to merely one facet of the School of Music.

The band recording will only be part of a larger series intended to promote high cultural trends in the United States. The department will play a part in this program.

The recording sessions will cover the entire week of the 23rd through the 29th of January. Although none of the final details have been worked out as of yet, the band recording will probably be entitled "Never On Sunday." In this same altruistic vein, a new plan for inter-school unity and understanding is being worked out at this time. Dean McGinnity and Dean Morgan have begun a series of conferences to discuss future plans for a more tightly-knit coordination between the School of Music and the School of Physical Education. Their discussions so far have resulted in the decision that all music students be required to participate in a one-credit course, "Cultural Music." Students taking this course at 8:00 a.m. will have this course scheduled at 7:30, those taking Theory at 9:00 a.m. will be scheduled for 8:30, and so forth.

In addition, the physical education curriculum will be rearranged so as to include one semester of Conducting with Professor Walter Beeler for the purpose of strengthening arm, hand and finger muscles and improving general co-ordination.

Both deans are extremely satisfied with the tenor of the talks so far and feel a strong confidence in the reciprocal benefits to be incurred by the new program.

Hickey’s Music Store has announced the improvement of a green stamp plan to be initiated beginning February 1. A special redemption center is being constructed on State Street so that students will be able to bring their coupons and receive cash or stamps for a year’s supply of three-hole manuscript paper, reed-making kits, etc.

In addition to their monthly activity, the Ithaca College M.N.C. chapter is planning to attend a Music Educator’s Conference at East Podunk University on Wednesday, January 25. The members will spend the day attending various workshops and panel discussions. The program will begin with a very general workshop—“Teaching Aids in the High School Level—Preparation of Materials.” This workshop will include various lectures and demonstrations on topics such as the art of rhinestones, the importance of the ear plug and first aid kit, etc.

I discuss once more the different language that corresponds in the Music School because it was precipitated by an article in the student’s weekly, the brothers of Phi Nu, the Ithaca fraternity sent a committee down the hill to Kappa Gamma Piti to present a formal protestation, however, on the way, they encountered a delegation from Kappa Gamma Piti that was on his way to demand an apology for the suggested "insult" they believed to have been prepared between the brothers of Phi Nu and the writers of the Ithaca. As a consequence, all further action was delayed until proper negotiations could be arranged. Due to excellent communications facilitated by the mediation activities of the sister of S.A.I., a meeting in the College Club for last Sunday evening was arranged. After convening with the brothers of Phi Nu, the fraternity sent a written letter to the brothers of Phi Nu on the issue of an inability to agree on semantics. This writer expresses sincere regrets for the above-mentioned disagreement and hopes that the renewal of negotiations will be first expressed to the students involved in discussing the error made in last week’s column. Steve Brown is not a member of Kappa Gamma Piti. He is a member of Phi Epsilon Kappa.

Ithaca College Seal Charms

8. CHANDLER’S

Jewelers

202 E. STATE ST.
FIRST NATL. BANK BUILDING

WASH ‘N SHOP

204 W. SENECA STREET

"Closest coin operated 24 hr. a day LAUNDERMAT to Ithaca College" 7 hr. service on DRY CLEANING AND LAUNDRY

Squibb Special

Vitamin Tablets

100 thimberlodge pkg. $9.45

Now $7.45

SAVE $2.00

KLINE’S PHARMACY

"Your family drug store away from home"