DINING HALL IS FILLED

by Mary Ellis Berry

The first card given this season by Amadars, held at Amadars, and Elig- ene, was attended by approximately fifty-five students and guests. The First Revel was in the form of a sketch given by Suzanne Borkowski. Mrs. R. A. Tallcott was most efficient and delightful as toastmaster. Miss Tallcott, Mrs. Sidney Landon, who with her other Amadars, and chairmen, met the hearty approval of the audience.

The Fourth Revel was in the form of a sketch given by Suzanne Borkowski, who chose to read a skit Bradford's "The Runaway Southerner" and selection from his book "Ole Miss Adam's Chinum," upon which the audience was in high rapture. Due to a lack of space in the dining hall, it was moved to a room of the same size, and continued until later in the evening.

The Sixth Revel was a series of greetings and addresses. Miss Mary Ellis Berry, as president of the freshman class in Cornell, read a series of greetings. She also read a telegram from Senator Wagner and a letter from Professor Whitney, as well as several very clever alter-egos. Miss Berry, in the course of a speech, introduced to the superintendent of the police of New York City, Mr. Grant.

The Seventh Revel was given by the American Student Association, with Eleanor Leonard, Arthur Neidick, Katherine Boyles Judway, and Margaret Malby. Miss Cleary, Marjorie Southby, Theodore Immans, who wrote concerning the initiation of the American Student Association. The event was held the first night of December.

SLEEP

Universally, it is accepted that the human body needs sleep. But do you know why? It seems some time ago that my life was filled with worry and stress, but I have now come to realize that sleeping is as important as eating. The brain in sleep can be controlled while the body sleeps. This action of the brain in sleep can be controlled and universally, it is agreed that_ the brain can center his mind and attention while his body is resting. Anyone who has learned to concentrate can control his mind and attention, while his body is resting. Anyone who has learned to concentrate can control his mind and attention, while his body is resting.

for emotionalism, the disciplined life he led last, and finally the dignity of his high office, all combined to keep him so apart from the rest of mankind that there was little manifestation of any inner stir.

Extract from January Speech

"For the year 1933, it seems to me that we need cooperation and charity. The resources of our country are sufficient to meet our requirements if we use them to help each other. We should cooperate to promote all kinds of business activity. We should do what we can in the way of charity. If all that is implied in these two words could be put into operation, not only would our economic condition begin steadily to improve but our determination would somehow assume real relief. I can think of no better resolution for the new year than to work in these directions."
