Cubs Win Final Game Against Corfam

The yearling Cubs won their final game of the season on Thursday night by a score of 37-35, in a preliminary to the conference championship. This was quite a reversal from the previous three situations. Chicago showed quite a re- vamped form—more than it has shown throughout the season. The playing was very good, and the Cubs played very well in the second period, after a time-out was called. This showed the superiority of their team compared with that of Corfam. Coach Riley used his entire squad in the game this time. Mr. Yeats will be strengthened on his varsity squad next year by at least one of the conditioned members of the Freshman team. Kincaid, Baker and a few others will be fighting for a berth on next春天's varsity squad.

Mr. Penobscot, who gave Helen Morgan and Walter Huston and Montgomery "first shots on the screen" who were critically praised at the theater before becoming a producer. He says to "The New York Times," that any young actor who skycraps his way to Hollywood "wouldn't make the grade when they came back to the stage of life."

He explained; "It is easier to go before the microphone for short "takes" of a few seconds or minutes duration than it is to sustain a stage performance. The microphone amplifies so much that actors with little experience may appear to fill the movies, when in reality they would be pulling strings and telling lights.

The opposite role Miss Margaret Horton will play Deborah. It is expected that Edna Whitaker, famed for her characteristics in Ithaca College productions, and particularly for the role of the Enigma in "Drum Debby," will return to play the part in the graduate cast. Opposite him in the regular role will be Michael Tunes. Others who played in the first performances and who will be played again are Arthur Rowland, Sally Osborne, Frances Batterman Powers, John Brown, and Betty Robson.

This is the first day that a graduate cast has been used here, and it is hoped that it will prove both interesting and helpful to present students to whom it is now almost impossible.

The present dates set for the performances are April 22, 23, 24, and May 1. Mr. Chadwick has designed a setting based in some particular characteristic of the old design for the professional production. A Frosh Finds Himself

The idea prevalent in the Frosh-man class of drama students, that they are acting out what they come from, is, at least, what they expect. One of the Froshes, Charles G. Richards, of Augustana College, says: "I haven't learned one thing about acting," he continues, "yet I know that I have made decided progress. This is because I am to be true to my own observations. Personal insecurity is difficult because the knowledge gained is logically abstract and consequently not easy to use. If one can't take stock of himself, why not ask some friends (trend in dramatics is of course youthful) and try to find the answer.

There is also the complaint to the effect that we are told countless things to do, but are given nothing specific to work upon. This is true, but we must remember that our faults are in evidence and the qualities we lack are not. Would it be possible that someone could look up to us and recognize in us what we ought to become?

This brings us to another conclusion, that each must work out his own course of study and follow it as religiously as he would to his time-worn, time-honored customs, until the light dawns that we are not going to teach you. You have to learn it yourself, by watching others, by urging, instructing, filling your own bag of tricks, close observation—constantly watching and learning.

At the annual spring initiation the date for which has not yet been announced. At that time, Mr. Leon J. A. Sampols, of the faculty, will add a new member to the organization.

"Today men are not employed because they hold a college degree, and society has been forced to look for spiritual values in the character of educated men. Operetta Surpasses

Last Night's Cast Show Fineness

In last night's performance probably the outstanding characterization was contributed by Marlin Morette as Robin Oakapple. Morette has an unusual comedy sense and manner of delivering lines not often found in operetta. His character Robin was a wretched villainous in contrast to the more tender Robin, and carried his role, particularly in the singing, confidently and with an air of assurance that was exceptionally well done.

As Rose Maybud, Betty Keling showed tremendous improvement over her work in Purrense last year. It was at times, difficult to understand her lines, but her solo work was excellent, and worthy of comment.

As Mad Margaret as played by Laura Smeester was particularly mad, and expressive. Like Miss Kenney, in Wednesday's cast, Miss Smeester did her best work on the solo in the first act. With a little more experience she should be a valuable asset to any Ithaca College operetta.

Mary Margaret Ingalls as Daisa Hannah was fairly convincing, but at times, difficult to understand her experiences. Pauline Vroman displayed a clear soprano voice, not unpleasant to the ear, and did well with the few opportunities afforded her.

As in Wednesday's performance, the chorus work was especially superior, and lent definite background for the action of the operetta. Last night's cast will play again on Saturday night, and the performance will be one of the highlights of the season.
