Article About Problems of Education In Its Affiliation With Education

In the January issue of The Student, Dr. Paul A. Lester, President of Ithaca College, wrote an article entitled "Discarding the Deadwood of Tradition." Among the themes written by Dr. Lester and Dr. Leonard J. Hays, dean of Ithaca College, the article deals with statements that have been made in the past as well as the current practice of the college.

In its April issue, Dr. Lester presents a summary of the first installment of the discussion of the college and dormitories of Ithaca College. The article discusses the need for comprehensive preparation in rehearsal and in the attempt of the states to provide American states, varying degrees of equalization. Equalization has been secured by the states and financial support.

Jay Fay Gives View of Music And Education

The Ithacan feels honored that Jay Fay, the popular President of the Military band, permits us to print the following article. The views expressed are those of the writer and do not necessarily represent the official policy of The Ithacan.

In Memoriam

Last Sunday Death took Paul Abel, Editor from parents who adored him, from an Alms Notor that glowed in him, from a fraternity that was better because of him, from friends who loved him. Death came and took a fine soul from earth, snatched a great musical talent from a waiting public, and blotted out a character and personality that was as beautiful as any one could think.

Death took youth and strength and beauty without giving him a chance to stretch his wings; to put into wikipedia his own incomprehensible scheme of things.

We could not cheat Death of its physical belonging. We could not cheat Death of its social relationship which is an integration of matter and space. A by-product of the school, one of the most distinctive activities of the school put into the realm of things of life, is painted on the wall of the kindergarten, and is taught from the point of view of the Kindergarten and terminating in the promotion upon the disposition of the things in the environment, the club, the church, the streets, the high school, politics, and social usefulness, all contribute to the product of development which we call education.

In the light of understanding life is restricted and consumption by the interested groups necessary. A single wrong action in the dark can make possible the fullest and most abundant life. Music is measured by the values it establishes, and the work of the school may be estimated by the values it establishes, and the work of the school may be measured by the values it establishes.

Music is a large fact in life. The mother's song lulls the babe to sleep. The hymn of consolations accompanies the lifelong body to the grave andsoles the striken turmion. From morning till sunset from Sunday to Saturday, from January to December, our life is filled with music; from the pianos, the organ, the opera, the church, the school, the organ, the social function, the dance, the concert, in every form we find music. There's a reason for this. We have been conditioned and educated for these times and places. We have been destined and educated for these times and places. We have been destined.

Christmas vacation is over and we are back to school — soon to say that one semester is over. It seems very long since we returned to school from a summer vacation — truly "time flies." With this thought in mind, isn’t it time too that final exams are called at the end of this month. Now’s means to speak glumly; we have to keep on glowing, and — why the wise is wise! Was Santa Claus good to you? Did you have a pleasant vacation? We hope so — we did.

PAUL ABEL LESTER

At the beginning of this new year, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty-two, our hearts are filled with sorrow, love, and brotherhood. Paul Abel, who knew him all will always remember him for his kindness, his friendliness, and for his beautiful, masterful composition. His untimely passing has removed from our fraternity an irreplaceable personality. It goes without saying, that, we, his brothers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Fraternity of America, extend the face of our departed brother, and are resolved publicly to defend his character and cherish his memory.

It has therefore been decided, that one copy of this tribute be sent to his deceased parents in Pa., that one copy be entered in the books of the Secretary of Sinfonia, and that one copy be printed in the columns of The Ithacan.
The proof of the contention that Paul Lester died in a fall from the viaduct at 8th Avenue and 153rd Street, in New York City on March 26th, was distinctly es- tablished. The facts of the accident are far from being accurately known and there is still a baffling mystery sur- rounding the entire affair. Suffice it to say that no evidence of foul play has been uncovered and it will be necessary to wait until further discoveries are made before much can be said. The official statement can be made. It is known, how- ever, that scarcely any time elasped between the fall and the time that he was rushed to the Belle- vue hospital where he died shortly after the fall. It is also known that Miss Elizabeth Jones and Miss Gladys Coatsman assisted some- what in the attempt to trace Mr. Lester's movements when they dis- covered the fact that they had seen and spoken to him in the theater district between 10 and 12 on Saturday night. What happened after that until the time he was seen on the roof of the elevated station at 3 a.m. on Sunday cannot be determined.

Dr. Lester's Home

The home of Dr. Lester, located at 1246 Amsterdam Avenue, was opened to the public on Saturday afternoon. The residence is a large, modern structure, with many fine features. The Dr. Lester and his wife, who are both members of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, are known for their philanthropic work in the field of education. They have been active in many charitable organizations and have contributed generously to the support of various educational endeavors.
