Dear Editor:

The subject of the three weeks' test is a sore one—some students are in favor, but I believe the majority are against. The idea in itself is a good one but I do not believe that it is applicable to Ithaca College. Let us take the music department as an example. We have our academic work in addition to our music subjects. To top this we are expected to study two instruments. During the second semester some of us have a new job to perform—that is, to take part in the usual opera, Rehearsals for this production are at least four nights a week and at least two afternoons. We are willing to make the sacrifice but some might it not be "cricket" to have the faculty, administration, and management complicate the amount of work handed out by the faculty does not diminish with the advent of opera. In previous years we could slacken up on our work, but we managed to pull through. However, this year the three weeks' test demands that we perform our obligations as "per without opera, etc., as long as I have my pocketbook and the envelope in her pocket. And very carefully put her seven coins' change into the slot marked "Outgoing Mail." Before reaching off to her next class she was the victim of a slight executive so we were told. In case curiosity is getting the best of you just meet me—she's a Delta Phi. Further information will be gladly forwarded upon receipt of a self-addressed envelope.

We were indeed surprised to see the gym overflowing with jewelry, Persian rugs, and what have you, at Sigma Delta Phi formal a few weeks past. Everyone seemed to be having a marvelous time; even the couple occupying the sofa. Unfortunately the only outstanding event of the evening was the Big Apple rendition. Dr. Donanose and Mr. Moreau seemed anxious to participate but the better halves were present incidentally till girl from the Drummer Dept. can't really truck. Perhaps we shouldn't mention the following but it does seem necessary. In spite of all the "Good Times" at the dance, it was exceptionally interesting to see only one or two representatives from the Music or Drama departments. To us, upon thinking student support in I.C. is comparatively sad. The act that Phi Ed. students support other departmental activities cannot be denied. We feel that the students of the Music and Drama Dept's are not doing their bit, playing ball, or whatever you call to it. Merely keep the thought in mind kids and show a bit of cooperation next time.

News has reached us that "Everybody has been Passing" down at Westminster lately. Snapshots not portraits, incidentally. The man at the shop refused to open some of them too (this is just to rub the nose of "You're An Old Miasie") They can't even get the negatives for the prints they have. Interesting ... in fact extremely interesting.

Been a good deal of ... complaining (to put it mildly) about these three week's exams. Eh? Will anything come out of it? All we say is be a luck and keep your fingers crossed.

The weather has been lovely hasn't it, Gorgers? Nice for walking Saturday afternoons seem to be the popular time for I.C. students. This is undoubtedly a ticklish subject so we'll conclude this paragraph by stating—"null said.

The Juniors seem to be going to Mother Hubbard's perspective. The man at the shop refused to open some of them too (this is just to rub the nose of "You're An Old Miasie") They can't even get the negatives for the prints they have. Interesting ... in fact extremely interesting.

Spring training has the forlorn girls quite busy these days. Candy dreads looks mighty healthy, too, but she was injured in Scampers. ... Bucky will take care of that.

It seems that Saturday night following the Junior prom will be quite a gala evening. Plans are under way to make this an open house event. All frats are cooperating very nicely, and I hope all plans materialize if so . . . future weeks might draw a few of the old guard.

Have you heard Theta Alpha Phi is sponsoring a card party at the Delta Phi house on Saturday afternoon? Any game may be played... that is, if all concerns, accommodations be kept out of sight. Seriously though . . . this would be quite an appropriate time for a few of the girls to get together and forget things for a while.

It is said that the Queen and her seven little helpers are causing quite a row in Ithaca. They are poking fun at you . . . better see it ... it's educational . . . if you don't believe us ask Dobby . . . he steals the show without saying a word.

In conclusion—painted expressions are quite in vogue. Don't worry, dearies . . . everything turns out the best . . . so we told.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA
On the twenty-first of February, formal pledge service was held. Those taking the pledge were Sara Odendall, Martha Fred, Dorrece Alkon, Ruth Rosenve, Margaret Green, Kathryn Carter, and Agatha Hoene.

Thursday evening, the twenty-fourth of February, an informal dance was given to which the pledges were invited—and much fun was had by all.

S.A.I. is now making plans for its annual spring formal which is to be held the thirty-first of this month. Much preparation is going on for the formal initiation and banquet which will be held the last part of April.

Incidentally—a new feature has shown itself at the house in the form of a popcorn table—and its curious quite a racket.

SHE RISKS HER LIFE FOR THE MOVIES

ONE REED, Hollywood stunt girl, after a hazardous film, asked for a Camel. And she led us the situation: "Because I have definite reasons for preferring Camels to other cigarettes, Miss Reed?"

Ho! What a lot to know! And you, too, will find as others have, that it means smoke Camels—the cigarette that is made from finer, more expensive tobaccos. And Camels to other cigarettes, Miss Reed?"

DARING! Yes! Truthful? No! One Reed knows what she’s doing. And she smokes Camels, because, as she says: "It means a lot to know that one is not buying a substitute!"

Millions of other people find that Camels give them what they want in smoking!

Men and women in all walks of life say: "Camels agree with us!" If you are not now enjoying Camels, perhaps you, too, will find as others have, that it means a lot to smoke Camels—the cigarette that is made from finer, more expensive tobaccos, Turkish and Domestic.

Camels are a matching blend of fine, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic.

FOR RECREATION Miss Reed likes cooking...drawing...outdoor sports. And Camels! "Hollywood seems to prefer Camels," she says. "I notice so many of the stars smoking them."

HERE’S MISS REED’S ANSWER!: "Yes, I certainly have. Camels are different in so many ways. Going through my rooms recently I noticed there were so many healthy nerves. I smoke Camels all the time, and my nerves don’t feel the least bit frayed. Being so mild, Camels are gentle to my throat...after a week, your Camels—do dissipation’s sake. You see—so many ways, Camels agree with me!"

LEAPING bus car to locomotion. "I know what hard work is," Miss Reed says. "Many a time I’m thankful for the "Life of a Camel.""

"What cigarette do the tobacco growers smoke themselves?"

"Camels — by a large majority," says planters who know the kinds of tobacco bought by each popular cigarette brand.

T. W. Williams, well-known grower of Winchester, Kentucky, says: "A planter cannot afford to smoke Camels. My last crop was the best I ever had and the Camel people bought my best leaf tobacco. There isn’t any question but what the more expensive tobaccos go. They’re in Camel cigarettes!"

"I’m a planter," says W. Kermit Hatte, who has grown tobacco for 35 years. "Camel bought the best leaf tobaccos of my last crop. Paid a high price for my finest grades. I smoke Camels—because I know there isn’t any substitute for more expensive tobaccos."

Top prices, that’s what J. B. Jackson, successful planter, got from the Camel buyer last year. "Camel buyouts aren’t—buy just any tobacco — they pay more to get the best. That means finer tobaccos are used for Camels, I say quality hasn’t got to be proven in tobaccos. That’s why I smoke Camels."
