Five Hundred Dollars Prize Money
To Be Offered To Dramatic Students

Ithaca Man Donor; to Be Given Members of Junior-Class for Best Improved Speech

An Ithaca business man, a friend of the college, and a past president of the Ithaca Teachers College, has announced his intention to establish in honor of President Job and the Board of Trustees a fund of fifty thousand dollars which will be offered to the students of the Junior class of the Department of Speech and Drama in the form of prize money. Each individual will be chosen by a plan which is now working out, in consultation with the President and members of the faculty. Each person winning recognition will receive a substantial prize, either in cash or in a valuable prize.

This gift of five hundred dollars will be the beginning in installments of one hundred dollars annually, for a period of five years. The title and the use under which these awards will be offered will be made public before the close of the spring meeting of the second semester. The first awards will be made at Commencement next June.

The Ithaca Canal is happy to be the medium for this gift, and this, the first of its kind to the college. Ithaca College is over four hundred years old, and in this, it has done a substantial piece of work for the other philanthropists of New York State and states contiguous to its borders.

Music, Drama and Physical Education are vitally a part of the life of all people, and all mankind. The dedication of Ithaca College is unique. This gift from a local business man, who sees the value of at least one part of our work, is indicative of what these other philanthropists will do in building the college into the future.

THIACA VARSITY FIVE HAVE THREE STRAIGHT WINS

Just before the Christmas vacation, the Ithaca College boys upset a fast traveling Springfield College five, some of the most exciting games ever witnessed at the Seneca Street gym. The game which started from beginning to end with neither team in the lead at any time, although the Ithacaans showed more skill in shooting points.

The hard fighting is deciding factor in winning the game. The true test is in the defensive work of Reitman and Dillon. The final score: Ithaca 35, Springfield 34.

Before an audience too small to hear, the second presentation of "The Magda" by the Ithaca Drama Club, was theatrically and realistically staged. Production of this play was the standpoint the play was an outstandingogue. Important characters. The set were developed greatly by the work of the play for which Sudermann had evolved a successful dramatic production. In the present production, it is an outstanding feature that a number of the arrangements have been made by Ithaca College people.

Concerning Pledging

All Freshman bids must be in the Dean's office Saturday noon, February 12.

In section one, article three, of the Inter-fraternity Council Constitution, there is a section that covers the bidding procedure. As the publication in the College paper all rules governing the pledging of Freshmen has been included.

Section 2. Pledge and Initiation Rights.

The rights of Freshman pledges are as follows: all rules governing the bidding, pledging, and initiation of all members of fraternities during the first semester. Organizational policies and bylaws, as well as the national constitutions of the fraternities, shall take precedence over the rules of the Inter-fraternity Council. The Council shall formulate policies and rules appropriate to the offense. Bids issued in violation of the rules shall be null and void. The organization issuing such bids in violation of the rules shall forfeit their bidding rights for the following the formal bidding period for that organization. Change in rules may be made to extend or disregard the rules for any organization that may change its national constitution.

Rushing shall be conducted by vote of the majority of the members of the Council. The vote to admit a pledge must be made at any time by a vote of a majority of all members of the Council. The vote to confine the adoption of the Constitution until such time as the pledge shall be given to the Council by vote of the majority of all members of the Council.

Bidding. All bids shall be in written form. Bids shall be addressed, sealed, and stamped for mailing, and shall be submitted to the Dean of Women by Saturday noon, February 12.

Deferred Bidding shall be conducted by vote of the majority of the members of the Council. All bids shall be received by the Dean of Women shall be placed in the mail box in the Dean's office on the Sunday which immediately preceeds the Thursday on which the Council shall meet. All bids shall be sealed, and stamped for mailing, and shall be submitted to the Dean of Women by Saturday noon, February 12.

Dear Mister Editor,

I was very surprised and not altogether pleased to see my picture in the last issue of your admirable paper, The Ithaca which you are reading as I do. The Lord Hallow Hendonahl which hasn't missed a mail in 40 years) has much of a hand to complain Misters Editor and I were very happy of you to print your picture but that particular picture don't do me justice. They kind of got me in an off moment if you know what I mean. Besides I look a lot better than that now on account of I got all my teeth and I have some nice glasses which makes my hair lay down and stay put. I am an interesting Mister Editor and I am not blaming you because I kind of figure my roommate was responsible for your getting it which just goes to show that you should never trust nobody too much especially a room-mate—but I kind of wish you'd tell our public about that picture because it might hurt nobody at all.

Mister Editor I don't know just how to say this because I don't want people to talk about themselves but I don't know just how you're going to get ahead if you don't tell people just a little bit to give it a slight to you don't make you say one more word of conversation. Well anyway this is what I'm getting at—I'm kind of a very serious Mister Editor and I have been told I don't seem to write so much maybe this some words which would be good enough to print in your paper. Very respectfully yours, Cephus Statley.

Cephus Statley,

Bidding. If a member group has been guilty of violating the rules herein enumerated or rules of its constitution, the pledging, and initiating may be accused by any member organization or by other recognized agencies on the campus. There may be proof of such violation. Accusations may be presented to the President of the Council whose duty it shall be to present the case to the Council for consideration and action.

b. Pledges. If a member group accepts a bid and assumes the pledge of a fraternity before the set date, he shall give up this pledge and declare in writing a letter to the Inter-fraternity Council in the Council of the President of the College. After a student accepts a bid he shall be available for membership in any other fraternal organization that may choose to give him a bid except the group that has violated the above rules. He shall not be eligible for a new bid from the offending organization until the next school year has elapsed.

The Dutch Reformed church at Engraf Je'd etc. It is running at the Booth Theatre to celebrate the occasion and for Strauss' tone poems, "Till Eulenspiegel" and "Death and Transfiguration."

It is the occasion of Grandma's birthday. Evie's two younger sisters are to celebrate the occasion and for Grandma, it is an occasion, as well.

Grandma all but rules the place, and would rule but for the powerful personality and the tactful nature of Evie. The daughter, Alex, has two lovers, much to the disgust of Grandma; one the son of a dramatic actress, the other a part-gypsy, and give her immediate fame. The other suitor, with whom Alex "has lived" surreptitiously, is a writer of sensation. He has a contract with a Hollywood film公司. The principal romance engulfs these three, with a final decision in favor of Hollywood. The secondary romance involves one of Evie's sisters, who is the common law wife of an advertising man. She is about to leave him, but he follows her to Grandma's birthday party with the announcement that he has obtained separation papers from his famous wife and wishes to marry the common-law wife, in the midst of much good comedy.

Grandma Venables is probably 70 years old in the play, but her character is that of a young woman of 22, who has a definite flair for character acting. Grandma is a character in every sense, voice, spirit and makeup. Evie dominates the party, quite the family, frowns the family, the family, without argument yields her daughter into right choice but her sister into reasonable decisions. She lets Grandma cry a little personality known to a few but effective when and in combination with a personality in a woman. She's Thurlow is one of those English women knighthood for their work in the drama. The heroine came to be about four years ago. In her early twenties, she evolved a gem that one might judge her to have been created for the footlights. Her mother was a cavboy. She is the United States, and she likes our audience. She is an enjoyment for beautiful speech. She is the mother of four grown children, and her greatest son the year was her absence from them at Christmas time. Her husband was away, and he read to ten days of her and compensates, in a sense, for her separation from her "world."

Rain From Heaven

The second play of importance was "Rain From Heaven," by E. N. Behrman, author of "The Second Fiddle," "Moon," and "Biography." In this, Jane Cowl and John Halliday are starred. The play is excellently written, it is a little too "vulcan," but Jane Cowl, whose beauty is as rare as the actress and John Halliday's act is unique."

Forerunners of Many

"Marry Me Roll Along" is an imager drama in that it plays back-ward. The first scene is in 1936, the second in 1932, the third in 1926. It is a story of three acts, three scenes in each act, each duchess back, each year in each scene until the close which is set in 1916. It follows, the story of a successful playwright who could not connect up success and cleaning thought, though he started out to make a living at dramatic writing. The son and daughter-in-law of Myra Forster broke, were in the cast. Forster has frequently visited our campus.

Did you ever notice...in a roomful of people...the difference between one cigarette and another...and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette...the kind of tobacco they are made of...the way the tobacco are blended...the quality of the cigarette paper.

It takes good things to make good things.
Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that’s right.
But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos...tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and rife.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that’s different from other cigarettes.
