Baseball Gets Under Way At Percy Field

With the coming of warmer weather the Ithaca Varsity Baseball team took to Percy Field. The squad this year shows up better than ever for the games, and because of the addition of many promising freshmen last year's veterans include, George Onesto, at short stop, Carp Wood, at second base, Duey Proched, at third base, Gene Bonn, at right field, Lee Barton, in center field, Tom Andrews in left field, Whitby Blakely, pitcher, has Ronnie Ryan and James Eaton pitchers. And the freshmen, in reserve infielder and outfielder respectively. The graduation of Aske, regular first baseman, and Claude Grace, regular catcher left base positions to fill. The most likely candidates for these positions are Whitby Blakely, Dennis Hesten, Ken Felts, and Ray Ry cottage, playing first base. Jack Ingerson and Jack Linker for first baseman job. Nowadays, showing promise this year in the outfield are Bud Fenton as shortstop, Tom Andrews as left field and Bob Mcagoon as right fielder. The varsity at second.

The outfirst is more of this order and fortunate individuals of Tom Tarbell and Tom Carney make up the infield. The chief feature of this year's team is the abundance of technique and mastery of the bat, but at all times in a rich and flowing style which the beautiful grouping characteristics of her instrumentation. The finest incorporated in the performance, resulting in an superior performance.

Mrs. Mann's playing of Widmage by Popper was the moving performance heard in the Little Theatre for quite some time and in itself was worth any book-store sacrificed.

Throughout the performance, it was evident that Miss Mann and her fine ensemble were on the verge of achieving the highest possible standard in artistic beauty as opposed to virtuosity.

There was a reception for Miss Mann in the Green Room by the Sigma Alpha Iota following the recital.

1938-939 Edition

The Junior Prom is but a memory now, and yet there is much discussion pertaining to a highly successful, worthwhile event that those who enjoyed the festivities saw with both eyes and imagination accomplish. The intense desire to provide an interesting weekend resulted in a colorful Prom, and some very entertaining dances held in various Fraternity houses throughout the celebration. The Ithacan expresses the thought of Ithaca College students in extending to the Junior Class congratulations.

The characterization of most importance was that of Emile Zola; the drama played was not too vigorous, coming too much distracting emotion. The play has a beautifully dramatic setting which has been developed and one of the finest presented in a long time.

We can wait for your tuition—no hurry for it—R. D.
The powder ball that our quizzing professors threw at us. Prodigal child goes home—hello Ma, hello Pa, look what I've got. (Last notice—to pay) so be it.

Why doesn't the Senior Class in-Yitation committee patronize our advertisers—in-vitations may cost more, but why lose a good thing—stick to the Corner Bookstore. Overheard in the Ithaca Hotel to the Corner Bookstore. What, no Lobby?

A student from the hill: "I see where I. C. is giving a dance tonight."

Another student: "What can they put on, they haven't got any money."

An old Ithaca Grad: "Well, if they had it they wouldn't be throwing it away." At least there are a few who think that the school is worth talking about.

By the way he was an old grad from the Phy. Ed. Dept. He only rated 240 and carried it on a 6 ft. 3 in. frame—so you see he was rather convincing.

Success seems to be shining its rays upon our dept. We not only have the largest enrollment, but also a few leaders. The Junior Prom showed it—the Queen—a Phy. Ed.

I couldn't understand how cute little Rita was missed by a Phy Ed. Grain.
