CONCERNING ENDOWMENT PLEDGES

It's only a couple of months now until most of us will realize that one year of our student endowment pledge is up and time for a second payment has come. The first glamour of getting together and raising the money has worn off and many of us have neglected to put aside our two and a half or three quarters of a cent a day.

Although enthusiasm over helping the endowment may not run so high today as it did the day of that memorable assembly last year we nevertheless shall feel that a big step has been accomplished when this year's part of the five year pledge has been paid. So be thinking about it and try to have it ready when the day comes. Promptness in this may prove a good credit insurance.

AROUND THE "CON"

When old Father Time ushered in the New Year, most of us made resolutions only to find them broken in a few days time. To the majority of people the year 1927 remains but a memory of successes and failures which are to be erased by the brilliant accomplishments to be made in 1928. I dare not say whether or not the philosophy of Will Durant or that of the old Persian tentmaker Omar would advocate the making of New Year's resolutions. But of this much I am certain. Resolutions should be made when they seem most appropriate and if it is necessary to recall unpleasant associations of last year in order to make this year more beneficial, we should not be afraid to do it. That, dear readers, is my purpose in writing this article.

It was nearly a month ago that Mr. Leon Sampaix, master teacher of the piano department, gave his recital for the benefit of the Endowment Fund we hear so much about in chapel. The price, to all outsiders was one dollar per capita but the student tickets were sold at fifty cents. Most of us who were there well remember that night. We were thrilled by the fine musicianship shown by that man on the platform and we were happy in the thought that he belongs to us. He is the "Con's". But in glancing over the audience, one could not help but notice that, although the crowd was appreciative, it was small in number. Most of the people were from Ithaca, local residents. More than half of the others were pupils of Sampaix' who would not think of missing one of his recitals if it were at all possible to go. Just about two or three people from the Dramatic Department were there. The rest did not deem it worthwhile to leave home and part with a perfectly good half "buck" to hear a mere piano recital. Yet when a dramatic production is booked half the school stands in line to get tickets. But it isn't fair to pick on the Dramatic Students alone when those from the Music Department are also at fault. There were not many brave enough to sacrifice fifty cents to hear a "Con" affair: perhaps some of them have been to see "Good News" and have come to the conclusion that "the best things in life are free." The Phy Eds. probably did have too much home work to do for we must admit that their schedule is a heavy one. But Music does have the power to "sooth the savage breast" and too much routine makes a man anything but versatile. We are always happy to hear that the band is slated for a Sunday afternoon concert and we usually go. At least some of us do. About six band students gave up their night of practice, study or what have you to hear someone who knows how to "tickle the ivories". Freshman, you are at fault for missing the opportunity of hearing something good. To the girls, I might say that "Con" affairs do not count as permissions. Let me also mention to the boys that the Strand isn't always as "hot" as it looks. If you stay in Ithaca very long you will soon find that out. But the Freshman can scarcely be chastised when the upperclassmen themselves set such a poor example of school spirit. As for the members of the Faculty, they should be ashamed of themselves. There were, I believe, about six of the Faculty members there. With the Faculty, of course, it is a little different because most of them have heard Sampaix many times over. But I ask you, how can we ever hope to attain a University of Fine Arts if we do not ALL "Carry on"?

It is not the intention of the author of this editorial to unduly or unjustly criticize the students or those who are in a position of higher authority. Neither does she wish to make this a treatise on "How I would Run I. C. M." But, my friends, I trust you will agree with me when I say that gripeing to some people about some other people is never as effective as gripeing to the people themselves about themselves, especially when some good can be gleaned from the evil thereof.

Murder will out and these thoughts have lain dormant for weeks arising to be written in the hope that they would be taken seriously and as constructive rather than destructive criticism. I realize that every one does not always have the money to attend all of the plays, etc., given as benefit performances. But is our money always put in the proper places? The hall was crowded when we gave "The Six Student Scampers" and although it was a splendid production it was nothing more than high class vaudeville. Many stretched the almighty dollar to hear Kochanski's violin recital in Baily Hall just before Christmas vacation but few realized that our own conservatory has nearly as great a master although in a different line of art.

When William Edward Hickman was at large there were probably a few hundred guilty consciences among the criminals. Altho they knew they hadn't murdered Marian Parker, the case recalled criminal acts of their own for which they might at any time be "strung up". Now I know we haven't any criminals at the "Con", but the principle applies very well. This desertation may not effect you, but it may remind you of the fine play you missed or of the Phy. Ed. Exhibition that you should have seen and didn't. We never miss a good umbrella until it starts to rain, and we shan't miss the opportunities afforded us here in school until we get out.

Let us not stand in the lobby and scoff at the idea of a campus on South Hill SOME-DAY. Let us not bemoan the fact that we cannot hear Mr. Sopkin's recital in New York NEXT WEEK. Let us give our attention to the affairs of TODAY and when we find something good coming along, let's not miss it. And if we find ourselves slipping, let's remind ourselves of Oliver Cromwell's "Acres of Diamonds".

Marie Louise Barton.

ON THE JOB

Carpenter—"Didn't I tell you to notice when the glue boiled over?"

Assistant—"I did. It was a quarter past ten."

Tommy was meandering homeward much later than his usual supper time. A friend of the family who happened to meet him said: "Why Tommy, aren't you afraid you'll be late for supper?"

"Nope, replied Tommy, I've got the meat."

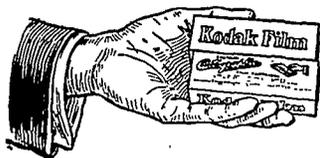

Wife of New Minister—"Now Angus, you must look after the church better than this, or we'll have to think about getting a new sexton."

Angus (sexton of long standing)—"Mistress Dewar, we whiles changes oor minister, but we never changes oor sexton."

PHI MU ALPHA PHILINGS

On January second the House on the gorge gradually awoke to the fact Christmas vacation was coming to an end. With each train which slid into town came from one to a half dozen more to fill the rooms once more and relieve brothers Beeler, Cannon, McEuen, and pledgee Newel of their heavy duty of holding down the house during vacation. Be it known however that these brothers participating in the well known jazz Band of fame operated by Wes Thomas preceded by several the great incoming body of returning Sinfonians.

The House of Sinfonia welcomes into its folds for the coming term the following pledges: Spear, Lewis, Razz, Chester and Charles Robb. With the addition of these men the population of the House on the Gorge has grown to the great total of thirty-two or thereabouts. Great shall be the racket of the household.

If we clip from other papers they say we are too lazy to write. If we stay in the office we ought to be out hunting up news. If we hunt up news, we are not tending to business in the office. ## "KICK IN" SCORES HIT

"Kick In", presented Friday and Saturday, Jan. 6 and 7 by the students of the dramatic department of the Williams School of Expression, has been spoken of repeatedly as one of the most successful student productions of the year.

The story, quite a different type of thing from the usual run of comedies, was a mystery play, calling for deeper interpretations, and broader character work, than is usually attempted by young performers.

Each member of the cast did his part to hold the play to the exceptionally high standard of production, and the success was plainly shown in the enthusiastic applause of the audience. Beryl Jourdan and Marshall Whitehead carried off the leads while "Charlie the Dope", played by Bob de Lany, "Memphis Bessie" played by Katherine Boyles, and "Myrtle", played by Mary Leib, got "hands" for the splendid portrayal of the difficult character roles, and the spat between "Mrs. Halloran" and "Daisy", her daughter, played by Helen Rodgers and Elsie Waters, was good for a laugh a line. While space does not permit personal mention of the entire cast, the thing especially commendable, and commented upon, is the fact that it was the team work of the entire cast that contributed so much to the enjoyment of the play.

Between acts an orchestra under the direction of Anne Zeigler furnished music that added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

FRESHMAN TAKES A BOLD STEP

It was the afternoon of December twenty-eighth, nineteen twenty-seven. The shivering shaking little blonde stumbeled in out of the swirling traffic of Fifth Avenue. She found herself in the lobby of one of New York's innumerable tall buildings. The Elevator operator yelled "Going Up" out of a crooked mouth. "Tt-t-twelfth floor, please" said our S. S. L. B. as she tripped over the threshold of the moving room, and gaspingly leaned against the wall. After being shot up to her destination, she gropingly made her way to the check room and deposited her hat and coat with the man in charge. Then a very kind lady took her by the hand, and led her to a glass enclosed room. Five minutes later, she was gulpingly preparing to awaken the world to her talent. And, if you please, she did! For twenty minutes, she remained, in the glass case, and at the end of that time, she made a graceful exit, slingthly out of breath, but calm and composed, for her ears had been filled with congratulations and praise.

It was Miss Ruth Broedel, broadcasting from station WJZ, the second largest broadcasting station in the country. How's that for a Freshman? Now we ask you!

NEWS OF THE PREPARATORY AND INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENTS

When one chances to pass through Conservatory Hall on Saturday mornings about ten o'clock he is impressed by the active group of young musicians engaged in their weekly recital under the supervision of Miss Louise Tewksbury. These are pupils in the Preparatory and Intermediate Department who have organized themselves into the Junior Musical Club with the following officers.

Jean Chase . . . . . President
 Elnora Hopper . . . . . Vice-President
 Elizabeth Ludlow . . . . . Secretary
 Ruth Holland . . . . . Treasurer

The first Saurday of each month the club has a regular meeting. Every other Saturday morning at ten o'clock there is an informal recital to which the general public is invited.

The Club has been particularly active this Fall. An evening recital was given on Friday, October 28. On Saturday, October 29, they celebrated with a large Hallowe'en masquerade in the gymnasium.

Two Christmas evening recitals were given on Friday and Saturday, December 16 and 17. After the Saturday evening recital presents were given to the pupils of the preparatory and intermediate departments by the officers of the Junior Musical Club.

These departments are a very active and important part of the Conservatory. Let's have more news of them!

Jim—"I understand you accused me of being dishonest."

Phill—"I never said anything of the sort. What I did say was that if you hadn't helped me look for that dollar I lost the other day, I might have found it."

The toast—"Long live our teachers" had just been drunk. A new teacher was called on to make the response.

Blushingly he got to his feet and said, "What on?"

"Out in the country where I spent my vacation they gave be one of those 3 season beds." "Never heard of them."

"No spring!"

MR. LAUTNER'S ENGAGEMENTS

On Tuesday afternoon, January 3rd, Mr. Joseph Lautner of the Voice Faculty of the Ithaca Institution of Public School Music sang with the American Orchestral Society in New York City under the direction of Chalmers Clifton, the well-known conductor. The Concert was given under distinguished patronage. On February 5th Mr. Lautner appears as soloist with the People's Symphony Orchestra of Boston and in March with the Womans' Symphony Orchestra of Chicago, Ethel Leginska conducting.

During a recent western tour Mr. Lautner received a telegram requesting immediate appearance in New York to interview the Arthur Judson Management relative to his singing the role Don Jose in "Carmen" with the American Opera Company, now playing in that city, and with which Company Mr. Lautner had successful appearances during last year. Mr. Lautner could not accept the engagement on account of the conflict with his work at the Conservatory. He is booked for a Schubert recital in the Little Theatre sometime during January.

I HEAR IN THE MOON—

That Miss Kimble will play on January 16, a new work of Dr. Reiggers, "Blue Voyage" which is in the form of a short fantasy for piano, based on Conrad Aiken's book of that title. This will be the first performance of the composition which was written last summer.

That Dr. Ott has been in New Jersey to hold two lecture engagements.

That Marian Waite '26 is now associated in an executive capacity with the Church and Drama Association of New York.

That Mr. Sopkin is to give a concert in New York City January 20th.

That Leslie Wentzel '26 is head of the Voice Department at the University of Iowa.

That Amy Ellerman is to give a concert in Elmira on Thursday, January 19th.

That S. A. I. is to have a formal dance January 13th.

That Nell Rutter '26 is playing with the Countess Maritza Co. in Chicago.

That Miss Stanton of Corning paid the Mu Phi's a short visit.

That Alma Sweet '23, violinist, is broadcasting from WBZ, Springfield.

That Knox Dunlop was in Ithaca last week end.

SIGMA SIDELIGHTS

Sigma Alpha Iota was Delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Bates, one of our Patronesses, Thursday evening, Dec. 5. The Delta Delta Deltas of Cornell were also in the party. They put on a very attractive program which showed their ability as actresses, singers and dancers. A social hour and refreshments were enjoyed. The two sororities appreciated the advantage of knowing each other socially and proclaimed Mrs. Bates a very capable hostess.

A pledging service was held for Thelma Enos Sunday afternoon. We are very glad to welcome Thelma into our Sisterhood.

Miss Nell Rudder '26, is now playing with the Countess Maritza Company in Chicago. We wish Nell the greatest success.

PUTTING A PADDLE INTO EVERLASTING USE- FULNESS

CLARENCE J. STRAIGHT, JR.

What an unpleasant thing a paddle can be. No matter how tired you may be of carrying it, you dare not throw it away or lay it aside in some handy place for future reference. When a command to carry a paddle is made, it is really more pleasant to carry it than not to carry it. I learned from the world's best teacher, Experience.

Oh yes, I know, you will say, "What an inconvenience it is!" Why, if you have an armful of books and cannot possibly carry the paddle too, you have to leave a few books so as to carry the paddle.

You don't have to leave the books in preference to the paddle's company but, if you don't carry it, it will be necessary for you to "assume the angle". On the other hand if you do carry it and someone happens to think that he needs a little batting practice you have to "bend the frame" so as to make the "posterior antennae" the sole target of his assault.

After all, the first hundred "cracks" are the hardest and the last hundred the sorest. About the best thing to do is to endure all until the end of "paddling days".

Then when all is said and done, and, while your "lifelong" injuries are slowly healing, about the best possible thing to do is to think. Think of something to occupy your long, long hours of standing until you can once more sit in peace and comfort.

The most fascinating thing you could do is to go around to all your friends (??) who sought to give you a "warm" reception and ask them to kindly autograph this "thing".

Apply two coats of shellac to the autographed paddle. Then tie a green ribbon in a neat bow around the handle lest you forget your unsophisticatedness when you were a verdant freshman pledgee.

All in all it will make a extremely novel reminiscent of your early college days.

And Ten Years From Tomorrow---

Columbus, O., Jan. 13, Mayor Howard Nettleton and Mrs. Nettleton today entertained at a buffet luncheon at their beautiful suburban home in honor of Dean Albert Edmund Brown and Dr. Edward Amherst Ott of Ithaca, N. Y. Both Mayor and Mrs. Nettleton are graduates of the Ithaca Conservatory of which two departments are under the supervision of Dr. Ott and Dean Brown. These two distinguished guests are passing through Columbus on their way to Los Angeles, where they will hold a civic institute.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 13, Students at the Ithaca School of Physical Education had classes in the new Gym on South Hill today for the first time. The Phy Ed students are about the most outstanding group at the University of Fine Arts. They seem to have more "pep" when it comes to hiking over town.

Greer, S. C., Jan 13, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Minus of S. Main Street, have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stagg, and children of Ithaca, N. Y. Mrs. Stagg was formerly Miss Martha Minus of Greer. She is an alumna of the Ithaca Conservatory.

New York City, Jan. 13, Jean Lee Latham's new mystery play "Lost", opens here tonight at the Theatre Guild. John Nash and Mary Louise Berkebile will play the leading roles.

Plymouth, Pa., Jan. 13. Mr. Elwyn Swarouth, principal of Plymouth High, announced in assembly today that he and Mrs. Swarouth, his assistant, will tolerate no more run away marriages among students in the Senior class. "Punishment hereafter will be expulsion," said Mr. Swarouth. "We feel responsible for you and we want you to make no rash mistakes which you may later regret."

ALUMNI NEWS

Mrs. E. F. Burnham, a former student of this school, has written to the same of her success in her chosen work. She is affiliated with the Balatka Academy of Musical Art, and every Tuesday night, from the Webster Hotel, Chicago, station WORD she broadcasts several readings. The last ones given were: "The Cremation of Sam McGee, and "The Christmas Anthem". Mrs. Burnham is teaching at her studio and is producing plays for the Emerson Settlement House, and also the Phillip-Burnham Studio. This month she is putting on a childrens play for the studio at Lyon and Healty building, and a valentine entertainment at St. Simon's Church. Some of her former work has been reading for the Juniors Allied Arts Salon at the home of Miss Francis Rochlitz, in Glencoe, Ill., a suburb, where she was the honor guest. Soon she hopes to start her Shakespeare classes, probably about the first of the year. Everyone in the school joins us congratulating Mrs. Burnham for the way she is carrying off honors. We are certainly proud that she is an Alumnus of our school.

When the Irish contractor got his first big contract he hired a thousand men. In getting them together, he addressed them as follows:

"Now min, you're all gonna work for me. I want you to know what is what. I can lick any man in the gang."

One big brawny chap stepped out and said "You can't lick me."

"Oh, can't I?" said the contractor.

"No," said the man.

"Go to the office and get your pay. I will have no man that I can't lick working for me."

"WHERE BETTER THINGS COST LESS"

Little Jane was severely reprimanded by her mother for saying Devil.

The following Sunday when the little Miss returned from Sunday School her mother said, "What was the lesson about today?"

"Why mother," said Jane. "It was about our Lord being tempted by—by—by—the gentleman that keeps Hell."

RUBBING IT IN

A handsome limousine was purring calmly along at 40 miles an hour when there came a disturbing toot from behind. Glancing back the owner saw an insignificant little two-seater coming up to pass them. He directed his chauffeur to put on speed, which was done but the small car was not to be shaken off. A few more toots and it drew up level and, to complete the limousine owner's humiliation, the driver of the flivver leaned over the side and shouted to the chauffeur, "I say! You don't happen to have a spare plug, do you? I'm travelling on three."

Passenger after the first night on board ship. "What's become of all my clothes?"

Steward. "Where did you put them last night?"

Passenger. "I hung them in that cupboard over there. The one with the little round glass dore on it."

Steward. "That isn't the cupboard. That's the port-hole."

"Sure," said Smith. "Would you rather have an old five or a new one?"

"A new one of course," said Jones.

"Here is the one," said Smith. "I'm four dollars ahead."

An honest speeder had just hit a dog and had returned to settle the damages if possible. He looked at the dog a moment and then addressed the man with the gun.

"Looks as if I'd killed your dog?"

"Certainly looks that way."

"Very valuable dog?"

"Not very."

"Will five dollars be enough?"

"Well—I guess so."

"Sorry to have broken up your hunt," said the motorist pleasantly as he handed the owner a crisp five dollar bill.

"I wasn't going hunting—just going out in the woods to shoot the dog."
