Dr. Martin Talks To Class On Graphic Art

One of the fine traditions of Ithaca College Faculty Interests Appreciation Class With Authoritative Lectures From Fine Arts 5th Collection.

Dr. Frederick Martin, host of the Martin School for Speech Correction, was the guest speaker at the Faculty Interests Appreciation class and their guests. This was the last of the series, held Tuesday afternoon, January 16, and the subject was graphic art. Dr. Martin is very well versed in this subject and owns a rare collection of manuscripts, wood carvings, paintings and illuminated manuscripts. In fact he is an artist himself. It is a privilege for students to have the opportunity of hearing Dr. Martin and of seeing his many works of art. Dr. Martin explained that graphic art is an art which is not new, but has been renewed in recent years, in the belief that all schools of art grow up wherever people learn to use tools. The methods of wood working, the illuminating of manuscripts, and the illumination of manuscripts were demonstrated to the lecturer who had many fine drawings made for the class. Dr. Martin's work was especially fine, as he was given the nomination of the man who did his work, and it was a subject of fine selection. He is a true representative of the fine arts and his many exhibits are exhibited on the stage. It is true that representatives of the fine arts are given to the students and members who have responded to the suggestions for meetings are making arrangements for such an event. It is to be held on February 14th, at the Martin home, the lecture to be given by Bob Opitz and his orchestra.

The play was given on Monday evening by the Drama Club and was a preview of an act which will be given at the Keuka College playhouse on January 20th. The play was taken to Keuka College and was given twice during the week, the second performance being given on Friday night. The cast consisted of twenty-one students of the Ithaca College Drama Club, and was directed by Bert Coleman, chairman. The production was well received by the audience and was considered a great success.

E. Stroudsburg vs. Ithaca College

In football last Saturday afternoon, the E. Stroudsburg College football team went against the Blue and Gold of Ithaca College. The game was played in found at the college playing field and was a very exciting game. The Stroudsburg team was led by Coach C. M. Drake, and the Ithaca team was coached by Coach W. H. Baker. The game was a close one and the final score was 10-10. The Ithaca team, however, was the winner of the game, and the Blue and Gold team took the championship of the conference.

The Ithaca College Band Program Brings Fine Ensemble Playing To Listeners

Again, the concert Band appeared in an encore of its popular Sunday afternoon concert given in Little Theatre. In addition to the usual members of the program, several new members were invited to participate. Two vocal works, sung by a local chorus, were chosen to finish the program. The audience was particularly delighted with the band selections, foretelling a season of musical beauty for the upcoming fall.

Prominent Organists: A Call to Program Direction

A service for the dedication of the new organ at the First Methodist Church was held Sunday afternoon, January 14, at 4:45 p.m. Four prominent Ithaca organists participated in the service. The organ is a two-manual instrument, and its construction was built by the Volkman Company, of New York. The entire organ was extensively used, and all the organists performed. Several organists were present, including Miss Alice Drayton, Miss Louise Titcomb and Mr. John Johnston, who were particularly delightful. The band music was performed by the usual program of instrumental numbers, and the audience requested a repeat of the last number. The band was composed of thirty-four students, and the program was given for the benefit of the Ithaca College Choral Club.

Ithaca College Students

A. Basketball Team:...I. C. Band Program Brings Fine Ensemble Playing To Listeners

Three Ithaca College students are members of the Composer's Club. The three newly elected members are Richard Otto, President, and Mary Ann Smith, Secretary. The Club has adopted a new program of music, and has made plans for the next semester. The names of the students who do not help to join the Club were prevented from the Executive Committee of the Club, and the names of the students who do not help to join the Club were prevented from the Executive Committee of the Club.
Ithaca College Basketball team is scheduled to play Syracuse University within a few weeks. This is not only a matter of school, and will furnish a most interesting experience for the Ithacan and a game which will set a new record in basketball, to meet athletes of Ithaca College.

We can believe that our basketball team is not without its difficulties in the matter of personnel. It is not that we have no one to play for us, but the number of those who are available to play the game is not large enough to fill the need. However, the team is being prepared and the entire preparatory work is being done in the manner most suitable to the circumstances at hand.

To those who have seen Katherine Hepburn's splendid acting in the screen version of Alcott's "Little Women," it is interesting to note how much laurel she gathered from her stage acting in the "Man of the Hour?" After a very strange seclusion, she has returned to the hearth and have found her voice was a great success. For she has returned to the legitimate stage. Jack Brown wants to sing the lead in the "Little Women," it is interesting to note that the only one that can sing the lead in the "Man of the Hour?" is the Man of the Hour? ... There dancing out at Pop's? If he hasn't, his hat is good for a lot of peanuts. Noth­...

Plays Fine Ensemble

Composed by Richard Ono, first movement, was the closing number of the program.

"Capriccio Espagnole" by Rimsky-Korsakov was particularly effective. Decidedly Oriental in flavor, the rhythmic and dynamic effects achieved by the players held the audience's whole attention.

For their beauty, however, the An- dante from Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, was the high spot of the afternoon. Technical problems suf- ficiently overcome, the band delivered the spirit and the meaning of the music in a way which, in the last analysis, is always the test of the per- formance.

Episode—In Which Grandma Finds Her Self-Respect
And Bill—A Dinner

By Catherine Jones

The front door closed and Grand- ma Wilkins was left alone to the pri- vacy of her thoughts, which, we must confess, were not as serene as one might suppose the thought of a child- little old white-haired lady to be. In fact, at that precise moment they were most unruly, for Grandma Wil- kins was rather upset.

"The very idea," she stormed at Peter, the well-fed, self-satisfied fe- tish stretched out in the chair, "you thinkin' someone had to stay with me while they was gone for the day?" Thud! Me scared—scared to stay alone in this house—me who bring up seven boys on a buck woods farm with bob cats and prowlin' thieves and not a neighbor nearer's six mil- ne afraid?" and she nodded her head so violently that Peter opened one wary eye to see what unusual pro- ceedings might be taking place.

"Tain't only this time," she con- tinued heavily, "it's always, "How another, don't do this and don't do that, let me do it for you." Or maybe that's too much for you to try to make the bed, if you don't come. Or again, "No, I don't need your help—just go and sit down somewhere and rest.' Rest—yes, rest—that's all she did—that's all she was good for! Had- I老太太。 Those who poured were Mrs. James Fred, Mrs. Alexander Banker, Mrs. Irene Belling, and Mrs. Ed- ward Amberst Orr. Several girls from Sigma Alpha Iota assisted in the dining room. Miss Elsie Eddy, Catherine James, Margaret Smith, and Mary Irene Coonover.

It's she unceremonious Helen telling that Mrs. What's-Her-Name, that Eze- let's sammer was 'such a care, and that she was so afraid she'd fall and break her hip or something, and that she was always trying to do more than she strength permitted? Bah! She'd show 'em yet that she couldn't wear her up in lavender as tightly as. Why her mother lived to be ninety, and if they thought—..." but here Grandma's indignation simmered down and a bit of histrionic self-pity took its place. A suspicious moisture collected in her eyes and she took out her homemade linens handkerchief.

"That's just it," she informed the proceedings might be taking place. and she nodded her head so violently that Peter opened one wary eye to see what unusual pro- ceedings might be taking place.

It means something that Chesterfield has a modern up-to-date Tobacco Factory in far-off historic Smyrna

So important is the handling of Turkish tobacco in mak- ing Chesterfield cigarettes that Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., maintains this specially equipped plant right in the heart of the famous Smyrna tobacco section. It is the largest and most modern tobacco factory in the Near East.

Turkish tobacco, you know, is the best "seasoning" there is for cigare- ttes. At all times Chesterfield has storage—at this plant and in America—about 350,000 bales of the best kinds of Turkish tobacco.
