Ithaca College Cops First Place In International Debate Tourney

For the first time in its history, Ithaca College has taken first place in an intercollegiate debate tournament. The Ithaca College Forensic Association won three out of a possible four trophies at the Canadian-American Tournament sponsored by the Rochester Institute of Technology on Saturday, February 25.

The Forensic Association took home the first place team trophy, the revolting tournament trophy, and a best speaker trophy. Harvey Snyder, a junior majoring in speech at I.C., won the best affirmative speaker trophy with a total of 6 points. The speaker with the next highest score of 61 points was Gilbert Reid, of Toronto University, who took the best negative speaker award, the only tournament trophy not taken by I.C.

The team from Ithaca received a total of 8 points while the next highest team scored 6 points. The Ithaca team on the Revolting Tourney trophy included James Frederick Jagels, Senior; William MacDonald, Junior; Will Stark, Susan Rosenkoetter, Sophomore; and E. Martin King, Sophomore.

The Ithaca College negative beat McGill University, St. Andrew's Seminary, and Syracuse University.

U.S. Proposal Debated

The debate topic for the Canadian-American Tournament was resolved: that this house affirms the United States proposal for a total immediate stoppage toward concrete independence for trust and non-self-governing territories. The U.S. proposal in question was sponsored by forty-three Afro-Asian nations. The affirmative took the stand that all people have the right to self-determination and in consociational states must be taken to make self-determination possible for all people. A plan was proposed which would set up a U.N. touring committee to visit all areas of the world where the people do not now have self-determination. The proposed committee would recommend procedures leading toward economic, social, and political progress for these people. The committee would also supervise plebiscites in these areas by which the people would vote for independence for trust and non-self-governing territories. The U.N. General Assembly recently adopted the plan.

Ithaca College Wins Six Rounds

The four man squad from I.C. won six of the eight rounds in the tournament. The six winning rounds were against Brockport Community College, Canisius College, Hartwick College, Okanagan College, and the Canadian-American Tournament sponsored by the Rochester Institute of Technology.

The first round decision to the R.I.T. by 2 points was taken by the affirmative, sending affirmative 37, negative 42. The Ithaca affirmative won decisions over St. Michael's, James Frederick Jagels, Senior; William MacDonald, Junior; Will Stark, Susan Rosenkoetter, Sophomore; and E. Martin King, Sophomore.

The Ithaca negative beat McGill University, St. Andrew's Seminary, and Syracuse University.

Mr. Tague is the co-director of the Music Study in Europe Course sponsored by Ithaca College through the Study Abroad, Inc. of New York.
The Ithaca College Forensic Association's Debate Team, in its first year of competition, has participated in inter-collegiate debating at Carthage, Atlantic College, and the University of Buffalo.

Immediately the team won three out of four trophies awarded at the Canadian-American Tournament held in Rochester in competition with such schools as the University of Toronto, Syracuse University, and St. Andrew's Seminary.

Team members spend much of their time and efforts preparing for these tournaments, while still having to devote the usual amount of work to their academic studies.

The Ithaca extends congratulations to Coach James C. Skains and all of the debating team members for bringing this well-deserved recognition to themselves and to Ithaca College.

Editorial Policy

In recent weeks, the Ithacan has been accused of unnecessary bias, first one way and then the other concerning its publication of letters to the editor.

The "Letters to the Editor" column each week is devoted to letters which cross our desks weekly, we feel we have presented a fair cross section of student opinions.

We shall continue this editorial policy in regards to "Letters to the Editor," however, henceforth all letters must be accompanied by their author's signature.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor: Being an American citizen, I was appalled to read an article on admitting Red China to the U.N. The person who wrote under a mispronunciation is the author of that article.

We, as American cititizens, and the free people all over the world, are not living under the mispronunciation that Communist Russia is a huge, offensive, mean aggressor, a second glance could construe the United Nations and all of the debating team members for bringing this well-deserved recognition to themselves and to Ithaca College.

We construe the United Nations to be the organization dedicated to the unlimited advancement of our ideals. I feel this statement is a misrepresentation of the ideals of the U.N. Every college student knows or should know that the U.N. is dedicated to the ideals of the free peoples of the world, and the U.S.A. is one link in this fine chain.

As for admitting Red China, we as U.S. citizens should give full support to our government's stand on this question. Communism is out to destroy you, your country and the world. Communism's Hitler (or Stalin) is on his way in their movement. As for Red China representing the greatest number of people, please at how they maintain their representation, through oppression and tyranny.

In regards to the last sentence in the article on who is the aggressor, a second glance could show you bow the scale tip. It is time that the American people sat up and noted, for if they don't, we won't have the. freedom. I wish for all to be in vain. Very truly, John Steinbeck

Dear Editor: During the past week, I have been confronted by many students who have asked me if I wrote that letter in reply to Mr. Colonel in last week's Ithacan. I do not know if the person or persons responsible for that letter were aware of the reality of the misrepresentation that could have and did happen.

Since Mr. Colonel directed his letter at me, I feel that it is my responsibility to make the reply. At the time of this publication, Mr.

"Tempo"
by Jay Vernon

WICB-TV's February 26th production, "Tempo," is notable for the direction by the Ithaca Federation of Juvenile Clubs and appropriate for the viewing audience by director, Scottie Mandle.

The musical variety format was successfully achieved in an inspired young student cast, with each member being considerably less than professional talent and insubstantial script for the viewing audience.

A case in point was Joan Cassman who introduced the note. Miss Cassman would have received her cue from the bosom for she adressed the great above the floor and never descended much so as to glance into the camera.

IC STUDENT COUNCIL REPS ATTEND NSA CONFERENCE

During the weekend of February 17-19, five Student Council representatives attended the Pre-Regional Conference of the National Student Association at Rutgers University. One of these students is a graduate of Long Beach Long Island, and the other has attained nation-wide recognition in such positions as composer, conductor, and educator. In the educational realm he has advanced to the position of Supervisor of Music in the grade schools and junior and senior high schools of Long Beach Long Island, but still participates in the active phase of teaching through his direct involvement with the community orchestra and the presentation of a concert. Ithaca College Seal Charms

by Lois Chabor

Ithaca College was founded in 1852 as a Conservatory of Music, and although only one division of Ithaca College today, the School of Music has attained national-wide fame. The fact that many students have risen to prominence in the various fields of musical endeavor certainly has not detracted from this name.

The president of the American Broadcasters Association, Carlstrom Stewart, recognized his obligations. Ithaca College's extensive musical activities take in such positions as the past president of the National High School Band Association and Orchestra Association, the chairmanship of Region 2 National Conference, and the position of chairman of the Board of Directors for American Federation of Artists, and that of concert with Pat Conway's Professional Band, in his twenty-third year of conducting the Ithaca College Band. This broad field of study was offered in four separate sessions, each of which was studied by one or two of the members from Student Council.

Bombers Close Season Tonight Against R1T; Mueller, Burkel In Final Collegiate Contest

Coach "Carp" Wood's Varsity Basketballers will be looking toward ending their season on a winning note this evening. The Bombers play host to the Tigers of Rochester Institute of Technology in the Ithaca High Gym. The Bombers will be playing their second home game in two nights. They opposed the Stannas of Alfred last night.

Joe Hamilton's Prescott crew will tangle with the R.I.T. Freshmen in the 6:15 preliminary game. The Ithaca first-year men, who also faced Alfred last night, will end their season on Saturday, traveling to Syracuse to oppose the Syracuse University freshmen.

The Tigers from Rochester have proven to be somewhat less than Tigers, as they are tonight winding up the worst season in that school's history. They came into the game sporting a 5 and 17 record. Going into last night's game with Alfred, the Bombers were 8 and 16. Tonight's game will be televised over WICB-TV, cable channel 2.

The Ithaca College negative took the position that the U.N. reaction was vague, misleading, inconsistent, and self-contradictory. For example, Article 2 of the U.N. proposal stated that "all people have the right to self determination," but Article 5 calls for guarantees of power to native authorities "without any conditions or reservations.

From the negative point of view, this is a self-contradiction because the native authorities may not be expressive of the people's will and, in addition, the native authorities may not be capable of administration.

The Ithaca College Forensics Association has participated in inter-collegiate debates at Colgate, Amherst, the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Buffalo. The debaters have regularly increased the number of rounds won at these tournaments and their individual performance ratings. The winning before last, at the University of Buffalo, International Debate Tournament, Ithaca College teams composed of Jim Capins and Dan Bonick, affirmative, and Bob Shapiro and Joan Herman won four out of eight rounds of debate. On the basis of individual speaker points, the Ithaca College group ranked well above average.

Next weekend, the Ithaca College Forensics Association will send negative and affirmative teams to Hofstra College's Ober Memorial Debate Tournament. The debate topic will be Resolved: that the United States adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens.

Ithaca College debate coach James C. Skaine predicts that his team will win either seven or eight out of its ten matches at Hofstra.
