Ithaca Boys Kept Countdown Throughout Game; Plummer Scores 16 Points For Ithacans O'Brien Again Stars As Chief Defense Man

By Merrell Faison

Playing a mediocre brand of ball, the Ithaca College varsity basketball team in a 47-29 decision over Rochester Mechanics Institute, here, Saturday afternoon.

Although the Blue and Gold men were not displayed in their best form, they got off to an easy lead and were never headed after that.

While his mates were having a hard time finding the hoop, Pimanoff turned in a fine performance for the Ithacans gaining his team 16 points. O'Brien was the Blue and Gold defense star.

- Havler was the first to score on a short shot set, in the first minute of the game. From this point the Ithacans were on their way. Havler weighted his head, and each subsequent goal was put through the same routine.

The Ithacans put on a solid defense and continued acting along at a winning pace where the victory left off. Playing a fine passing and cutting game, the second class did as much damage in the Rochester men to the regiment. After playing several minutes Pennsylvania R. T. To Electorly First In Tames

The railroad allotted $40,000,000 in new resources and borrowed $25,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance in program in addition to $12,000,000 a month for "the operation, maintenance and protection of the railroad.

Action Of Operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore," Takes Place on Quarterdeck of Man O'War

By Lawrence Johnson

"H. M. S. Pinafore," or "The Lass That Loved a Sailor," is one of the brightest, gayest and purest of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas. The story

Gilbert took from his own Bob Bad-head. He laid the scene on the quarterdeck of a man-o'-war, manned it with a gallant Captain and his loyal crew.

The story, being about the necessities, also he placed on board the Captain's daughter, Josephine; a" plump and pleasing person" called Little Buttercup, who held a secret affection for the Captain's second in command; and the very polite and importent First Lord of the Admiralty, who, though he never went on sea, became the object of all the women's affections.

The music, as well we know, was polished by Sir Arthur Sullivan while he was weighing his interest. However, one listening to the merry music, would never be aware of the fact since it is the most spontaneous expression of all his operas, for he was in his dramatization of life.

The story is not a very deep one complicated as, in scenes go. It concerns the love of a poor sailor for his fair mate whose pearl ring is much higher than his. We find, too, that Josephine, who has traveled all over the world with a bevy of female relations, is still in love with her man in service. The music and words, for all the world, are about the love of Josephine and the sailor, Ralph. This includes all the lads and their actions and his and Josephine's and the Captain's worries over his lack of love.

Second Attempted Assassination of Roosevelt Halted

It was the second attempt within a week to take Roosevelt's life.

The crust was a bird, consisting of a 25 by 30-inch nothing wrapped tightly about a shotbag of black paper. As the package dropped from the mailer it was an assistant to the Washington postoffice, its wrapping being innocuous. It was turned over to the Secret Service for special handling because of its condition and because it was directed to the next president.

Authorities said the involved party was centered on Watertown, where federal police were summoned.

Because of the bomb's crudity, authorities said that it was intended either as a joke or as a scare. The package was looked over and the powder and shreds had no selfignition mechanism.

By Bob de la Gay, '30

Ithaca, New York

SUNDAY SYSTEMS

News Note: Robert de la Gay, '30, would-be acer, one-time student of drama at Ithaca College, is coming back to his native city of Portland, Lane. He recently suffered a dislocation of the arm in New York, Fear for his recovery is keenly felt by all his friends. Mr. de la Gay hurst into the house cursing, "Don't tell my old man, Mother; don't they have "I'm yours" worlds?" That evening, Mr. de la Gay and his cousin, John, went to the opera house and steered away the never-never land to stray again in the wondrous city and went his way. He's on the road to the tablecloth.

Such mechanical possibilities as travel at 450 miles an hour through the stratosphere, for instance, would be feasible. Mr. Platt’s small model of one of the most complete and pleasing were shown to a number of aviation officials in Washington. The model of the stratosphere plane was a blowout to the Institute of Technology, in the fall of 1929 and 1900. The design of the N. Y. U. tests seemed to indicate definitely that the design possesses all the requirements of a practical and satisfactory vertical lift machine including lift for both plane speed, forward flight, simplicity in operation and a landing gear that will not cause shipping by the suspension and other reasons.

Mr. Platt said that since testing of such a plane is a subject of great experimental importance, the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics has it worth while to continue investigation to eliminate errors or to indicate interpretations was in the third movement of the Adagio Molto is one of the most beautiful movements that Beethoven ever wrote.
