Critics Term Coad, Delta, Phi Mu Alpha, Gives All American Program In Theatre

Annual Concert Features "On the Truth" from the "Grand Sextet," Op. 111, by Smetana. The program was presented last Friday evening in the Music Hall and was attended by a large audience. Prague-born Professor Coad, a member of the State Conservatory staff at Prague, has been in this country for five years and has been teaching here actively during the past year. He has given several concerts in this city and has been heard in various other cities as well.

The program consisted of two parts. The first was devoted to early music and featured a performance of two early symphonies by Smetana, with the aid of several other musicians. The second part of the program was devoted to modern music and featured a performance of "The First Symphony," Op. 111, by Smetana, with the aid of several other musicians. The performance was well received by the audience, who gave a standing ovation at the conclusion of the concert.

The concert was organized by the Student Symphony Orchestra, which has been active in the city for several years. The orchestra consists of about 50 members, including several professional musicians. The conductor is a member of the State Conservatory staff and has been active in the city for several years. He has given several concerts in this city and has been heard in various other cities as well.

The concert was attended by a large audience, who gave a standing ovation at the conclusion of the concert. The performance was well received by the audience, who gave a standing ovation at the conclusion of the concert.

NOTES AND NOTIONS

by Bob DeLany, '30

Dear President Job:

You know, I had this little affair of "a l'affe" (it takes an alum to get away with that). You have had several conferences on the ways and means of improving the equipment of Ithaca College. As unofficial advisor and yours I often drop into give you some advice. Your gun broke in a recent hunting trip. All the shells are now cut down on the coal box, but your favorite pastimes. We all overdivided into three separate parts,

Now, for the past few days I’ve been gathering steam to visit you again. This morning I knocked on your door, and you invited me to find you too busy to see me. So I am writing to you.

FRATERNITY REPORTS

Kappa Gamma Phi
Thursday, March 3

Michael Franklin, John Kapkey, and John Lahnagin appeared on the radio recital last Tuesday.

On Thursday evening, Brothers Graham, Musser, Salvo, Em, Becker, Howard, Hubbard, and Shearer presented a program at Bequestean. The program was presented to a request by Brother Fraugh, who is supervisor of music in the public schools of this city.

On Saturday evening we entertained the pledges with a benediction dinner at La Gourmande. Following the dinner we held a social dance.

Phi Delta Pi
Friday night, Grace McNer, Polly Bassett, and V. Covel were objects of congratulation. May they have as many more equally as successful.

Belle State came up from Wellsville to pay us a visit last week. Belle has a job, isn’t she lucky?

We were happy to announce that the girls have accepted our invitation to become members of Phi Delta Pi: Dorothy Dinniman, June Booth, Ann Faek, Anne Mack, Margaret Pelouche and Doris Johnson. They were solemnly installed as special service on Monday evening.

With thoughts of Spring come thoughts of warm weather, and thoughts of warm weather cause warm wishes, all—how—house-cleaning; yes, and even sun-bathing. The Phi Dels girl is right in step with the weather.

Congratulations W. G. A. V. Appliance is due you for your splendid entertainment. Happy returns and best wishes were flying high and low at the triple-thousand party held after the dance.

The coming of the first warm day found me on the shores of Beebe Lake meditating on the vagaries of life. I was thinking of Biarritz, where I thought I would discover that my mind was working, but, most importantly of all, each man pulling together for the general good of his chapter. We may all be very proud in every sense of the word that Ithaca College is enabled to lay these three feet at the feet of King Spock.

For the team, we may say that a large group of young men are far from content with the way they were presented the college—with so few of them seeking to have their opinions heard. With a great many being neither on the team the students revealed some-what of good sportsmanship by applauding.

The college for its part, we may say that we are proud of the way in which the students backed the team. The students desired victories, 100 percent of the students were sure that their team would win, but to the extent that they resorted to being their own best cheerleaders, then a great number of them either team the students revealed some-what of good sportsmanship by applauding.
