A LONG PULL FOR THE SENIORS!

After much hiding and postponement the Spring season is at last here and the one group to whom it means the most is the Class of 28. All the activities revolve around them and while we, too, may derive a great deal of pleasure from the various events we should make a sincere effort to make the last one a big one for our Seniors.

Next week, for instance, is the Senior Promenade. It will be the last big dance the Seniors will attend at the Con and it will only be by the efforts of us all that it can be made a memorable occasion for them.

Oh! There are all sorts of things scheduled. There's the I. S. P. E. Pageant, "Whom the Gods Love", on the 18th and 19th, there the Commencement play, "The Rivals", on the 22nd and 23rd, and then there's Class Day. Last year it was disappointing to see the small crowd of undergraduates who attended the exercises in the Little Theatre. A number of the Seniors' parents were present and we wonder what they must have thought.

It is only in a school like the Con where a number of Schools are affiliated that such a variety of entertainment could be so well presented. These we expect to be especially well done for the Senior Class. And even if we do not always take a spectacular part we can always lend our moral support.

While we're talking about the Seniors let's not forget the Senior Issue of the Once-A-Week. It is being published primarily, of course, for them but it should be desirable to everybody. The staff is doing its best to make it so. If you haven't yet ordered your copy do so at once. There's a booth this morning in the lobby. Or leave your money tomorrow with Marie Barton at Mu Phi Epsilon.

THE CONSERVATORY NEEDS A STUDY ROOM

The Conservatory should have a room to be used solely for studying. This room should be absolutely sound proof so that the voice of the band, a piano, some other musical instruments, or any other distracting sound could not penetrate into it. Stationary desks should be among its furnishings so that students who wish to write might have something other than a book and their lap to lean their writing on.

Very often the students have a vacant period, between classes or lessons which could be used very advantageously for studying. The periods are forty-five minutes long and with concentrated study quite a bit can be accomplished. The majority of the dormitories are at a distance, too far to travel in forty-five minutes and get a noticeable amount of studying done before having to return.

The girls who work in private homes for their room and board have, with the exceptions of evening, very little time while at home to study. Even in the evening it is usually after eight o'clock when they get their work completed and then they are too tired to study very much. Most of the private homes where the outside girls live are at a greater distance than that of the dormitories and, therefore, they can not go back and forth between classes.

In the case of reading books for school work which are not permitted to leave the school, the students should have a quiet room in which to read them without being disturbed.

It is true that the lobby is free for the use of students for studying but who can study there? People passing through making all sorts of disturbances, and students who do not care to study talking loudly and laughing!

It is, therefore, very evident that the Conservatory needs a room free from distractions where the students, who are interested enough in their work, might study.

Truesdell.

ANOTHER DORMITORY

With every advantage offered the colored student at the Conservatory, there is an accompanying disadvantage. From the mere fact that we're here shows that we are interested in the school; and that we have become interested through other colored students who have attended the school in previous years.

The contact with the other students in the classroom means much as far as it goes. It is there that we exchange ideas upon the different subjects presented to us. There is, however, a lack of contact among our own group which would be most beneficial. Coming as we do from the different sections of the country, bringing with us the ideas and customs of our particular section and locality, there is much we could learn from each other.

We are handicapped by our mode of living as we are scattered in the various sections

MISUNDERSTOOD: A FABLE

By Herbert E. Palmer

I wrote a little rime one day
 To help mean people on Life's way;
 I sang in lyric inspiration
 Of sacrifices for the Nation.

But, thriftless toil, I lost the verses,
 And sought them with impassioned curses;
 They had been stolen by a mouse
 Who'd used the sheet to line his house.

And strange result of art and craft—
 That mouse became supremely daft;
 His feeble head my lines so fired
 That he grew solemnly inspired.
 That he grew solemnly inspired.
 And there was none to guard the cheese

He mounted on my Sunday hat
 And preached plain duty to'ards the cat,
 "How lovely is self-sacrifice!"
 He squeaked to all his brother mice.

And soon (my tale is nearly ended)
 The cat grew shamefully distended.
 The watch-dog barked his indignation
 At so much squandered inspiration

LINCOLN'S REASONING

"A dog has four legs," said President Lincoln, in illustrating a point. "We will call his tail a leg, and how many legs has he now?" "Five," answered the man he was talking to. "No, you are wrong," answered the great war president. "Calling a tail a leg does not make it one. Always remember that. Calling something by some other name never makes the slightest difference with the actual fact. A hungry man is hungry, even if you show him a piece of bread and tell him he has eaten it."

of the city. One here—another there. Consequently, we have no common interest, whatever. Whereas the white students have their dormitories where they come into contact in a social way. They meet in the dining and living rooms and discuss problems that interest them. They also have the opportunity of studying together the different lessons assigned them. These privileges are not ours as we are living at a great distance from our friends. How much nicer it would be if the colored students had a place which they could call theirs—where they might feel at home. Most of us have never experienced real dormitory life. We hope that in the course of time the Board of Directors will see the absolute necessity of a school home for its colored students. This would undoubtedly be the means of bringing more colored students to the school. This a matter that deserves the consideration of all concerned. It may seem improbable now, but it is not at all impossible.

SINFONIA SILHOUETTES

The last and final Social appearance of the Brotherhood of Sinfonia takes place tonight. Preparations started two weeks ago for this great event, and under the dark hood of secrecy, mystic plans have been slowly forming into shape. When asked what his plans are for the general proceedings, the noble social chairman answers with an enigmatic smile that we'll know when the time comes.

The year draws to a close and with it the inevitable worry and search for jobs. Brother Fay Swift is already situated. Brother Ben Phillips has been besieged continuously with letters concerning positions far and near. We think he went away the first of the week to look into one, we don't know. No doubt the careful observer would note not a little guarded whispering among the 'trouper'. Brother Ray Moyer has a three day engagement in his home town in the very near future.

Mrs. Kate Bolden of Memphis tells Nature Magazine she was puzzled by the antics of a blue jay flying madly among the branches of a wide-spreading elm. She discovered the wise bird was taking advantage of a heavy dew the night before and busily knocking the moisture off the leaves and onto its wings, thus taking its morning bath.

Eugene Field was always a cheerful debtor and H. H. Kohlsaat tells the latest story of his cheeriness in this regard: William E. Curtis, of whom Field borrowed $150 some years before, came to Chicago from Washington. He called on the poet and reminded him of his debt. Next day Field printed this paragraph in his column: "William E. Curtis, the well-known correspondent of the Chicago Record, is in the city for a few days looking after some of his permanent investments."

FIRE CAUSED BY RAIN

Rain set fire to a lumber yard at Folkstone, England. A truck containing lime and lumber stood in the center of the yard. During a rainstorm the rain beat its way through a tarpaulin covering the lime. The water combining with the lime, generated heat, which set the timber on the truck on fire. This, in turn, set part of the lumber yard ablaze.

TOURNAMENT BEGINS TOMORROW

The annual Little Theatre contest, in which are included high schools in both New York and Pennsylvania, will begin tomorrow. Every year, this tournament is increasing in its bigness. There are more contesting this time than ever; both in the one-act plays, and the declamation contest. There has been more time and work put on them by the W. S. C. than in former years. In the art of preparation, we are excelling. The advertising has been bigger and better, and naturally the best there is, will be here. Any one having former experience, will tell you that this is an occasion of great moment.

We have, on the committee who is handling the affair, Dean Tallcott, Miss Evans, Bob deLany, Marshall Whitehead, Jean Lee Latham, Mrs. Genevieve Swarthout, and Don Foxe. These are people who know their stuff when it comes to co-operative work, and everything is expected to go off smoothly.

For the two best in the declamation contest, scholarships, of two hundred and one hundred dollars will be given. In regard to the one-act plays, the school presenting the best one, will receive a silver loving cup. And the person giving the best work of all participating, will be offered a scholarship of two hundred dollars. The competition is lively and close. Anyone may attend the preliminaries. The four best will be chosen and given Saturday night, to compete for the prize. Let's give 'em a good turn-out. It's worth your while, too.

FAREWELL PARTY AT NEWMAN

To show our appreciation to Mother Middaugh for all she has meant to us the Newman Hall girls gave a farewell party in her honor in the dining room Sunday night. We were very glad to have as a guest Mrs. Mulks, one of Mother Middy's closest friends.

In the soft glow of the candle light, after a light repast the girls sang songs appropriate to the occasion. Our House President, Mary Eddington then voiced our sentiments in a toast to which Mother Middaugh responded. The girls stood and sang "Till We Meet Again" and closed with the "Alma Mater".

Both Mrs. Smith and Miss Ward were most kind in giving us so much co-operation.

I heard a man
Explain the
Graduated demands
A girl makes
Through the years,
In what makes
An ideal
Man.

It's rather like the Seven ages of Man, or—
What have you—
At sixteen he Must be Tall, dark, with
Wavy hair,
Poetic eyes,
A very God,
Accomplished as a
Poet, soldier
And a millionaire
No less.

At twenty, she Demands an Athlete, not
So good looking,
Rather, masterful
The president of
His class, and what
Have you. At twenty-
Five, she wants him
Interesting, a man
Whose been around a
Bit, and knows the World. She'd rather
Have him—well, as
Tall as she—say
Five-foot-six or seven
Anyway. At thirty—
She would like him tolerant—
Ready to see her
Point of view—and
Just how much they
Have of this world's
Goods is not so hot.
At forty—all she says
Is just—"Wanted—
A HUSBAND—WHITE
PREFERRED." Which is Interesting if True—I
THANK YOU.

Man in Water—"Ha. Ha. I'm not coming out. I'm committing suicide."—Yellow Jacket.

Mother—Oswald, you should never do anything which you would be ashamed for the whole world to see.

Oswald—Horry! I won't have to take any more baths."

"WHOM THE GODS LOVE"

The myth of Cupid and Psyche is to be presented by the women of the Ithaca School of Physical Education in a dramatic pageant entitled "Whom the Gods Love" on the evening of May 18th and 19th., in the Little Theatre.

This production is the third annual project of the senior class in Pageantry, though all of the women of the school will participate. Natalie Shepard is cast as Cupid, Dorothy Hardy as Psyche, and Alva Ogsbury as Venus. How Venus resented the adoration bestowed upon the earth maiden; how she sought to be avenged, and how finally Jove himself interceded in behalf of Psyche, are women into the pageant in pantomime, music and dance.

Miss Elsie Hugger is directing the dances, which play a large part in the development of the theme. The pageant was written and is being directed by Mrs. Homer Chapman. The choice of theme was suggested by Mary Edington, and all of the senior women have assisted in its development.

DELTA PHI

Well, folks its been a long time since Delta Phi has broadcasted—so here goes with some news for last week.

First, we want to congratulate Gladys Barr because of her splendid work in the Gold Medal Contest. It really was a fine contest, wasn't it? We'll have to give all the performers a hand on it.

Now I must tell you about the mock wedding we had last Saturday. The beautiful day!!! lent its sympathy. In the first place the guests assembled and after some very appropriate hymns were played and the wedding march begun. In the rooms above where the bridal parties were dressing, you might have heard a terrible confusion had you been listening—where are my gloves!—my dear, I've lost the ring (which had been guaranteed at Kresges) It was finally found. The gorgeous thing! Ask someone to tell you about it. The party started for the lower floors. We arrived safely after having to stop several times to tie on the preacher's specks. The dear ol' soul! It was a very, very sad affair.

"Will you take Magnolia——"

"Will you take Romeo——"

This came floating to our ears. The sad event was progressing slowly so we found a new supply of handkerchieves would be needed. Finally after Romeo promised to take Magnolia to the movies and to dances, Magnolia promised to Go with him. Then the preacher pronounced them Man and Wife! The ceremony ends!!!

After the bridal party returned, ice cream and cake was served and they were entertained by the rest of the guests.

SPICY FLAVORS

There was an all-round good for nothing man who died, and at his funeral the minister delivered a most beautiful address, eulogizing the departed in the most glowing manner, praising his splendid qualities as a fine type of man, a good husband and kind parent.

About this time the widow, who was seated well up in front, spoke to her little daughter by her side, and said, "My dear, go look in the coffin and see if it is your father."

Mother: "No, Bobbie, absolutely no. For the third time I tell you that you can't have another chocolate."

Bobbie (in despair): "Oh, gee, I don't see where Dad gets the idea that you're always changing your mind."—The American Legion Weekly.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

"An absolutely certain way to solve the parking problems has been found: Pass a law allowing only those cars that are fully paid for to be left standing on the streets. If such a rule prevailed there certainly would be plenty of room."—Aurora Progress.

The stingiest man we know of is the one who gave his little girl a nickel not to eat any supper, who took the nickel away from her while she was asleep, and then refused to give her any breakfast because she lost it.—Annapolis Log.

Yes, "Jimmie" is still with us, and we want him to stay with us. We know now why Mrs. Spencer loves this doggie so—"Jimmie's" bark is a lot greater than his bite, so girls, when you come up to "Banks" and you hear these growls, remember its only "Jimmie" and its just his way of getting acquainted.

Something wonderful has happened. We all knew it by the grins (a mile wide) on "Prof. Parker's" face. After many questions we finally got the answer,—“My new mop—its grand!” Prof. Parker always does a good job tho.

Banks Hall was the scene of quite a "mixed crowd" last Tuesday nite. The "Cosmopolitan Club" had a dance Friday evening. Oh, girls the first queston, "Mother Ellsworth, may I present"; second; "How many girls?" Until all the boys had met the girls they were to take. (by—the—by) Dean Spencer was also a guest.

'Tis is all the news I have for Banks Hall, this time. Its going to be a great week-end for all of us, I be-lieve!

Oh, I almost forgot—"Gaga" caused us all to worry last Thursday. She left us from 7 A. M. until 7 P. M. I wonder why we missed "Gaga"?
