NOTES AND NOTATIONS

Bob Delany, '30

This is the last column. The length of the year and the lose of all years. From now on I intend to let writers alone. My best wishes and I hope to hear from you regularly. May you continue your association with the Student Council and come to this world ready to turn up your gifts. I hope to see you and take it from me. We'll have to learn to scramble. The world is a never ending road set full of unforeseen circumstances.

What is Sure for You at 65?
Most men look forward to a time when they can retire, say, "That's all and spend their saved years between a golf course, a book, and a good pipe. This is not the dream, however, those are people who make definite plans for it. A troubles are shown that are an apparent enigma of your dependence as others. You have made plans for an independent old age. Perhaps you didn't know that your insurance can make the possible. It's an insurance obligation.

Boiler and Roberts to Unite Efforts in Producing "The Purifiers" by Aeschylus

The Department of Speech and Drama is planning a fall production of "The Purifiers" by Aeschylus. Plans are under way as to the size and time of the production, but already the interest and enthusiasm are the plans being made by Walter Boley, head of the Band School, and Walter Roberts, director of Dramatic activities, for a production of the Greek classic, "The Purifiers." If Aeschylus is planed for the fall, the time may be the hour in which the famous college, for three thousand years, to be used.

The first play of the season will be the deferred production of Sardou's satirical comedy "The Napoleon of 1832," "Madame Sans-Gene," with Selby Osher and Rosalind Buxton alternating in the title role. Professor Charles D.pornois has recently com- pleted the second act, which is an exact copy of Napoleon's library at Compiègne. The play also contains one of his beautiful settings for the procession of the College of Saint Louis in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," for which Padre Charles is known, and an orchestra of Mendelssohn's music.

Other plays which are under consideration for the coming year are Henri Sermont's "Magda," Sir James Lyman's "Their Idol" and Noel Coward's "Hot Fever."

The sponsors are catching onto the idea of republicans governing. The Spanish cabinet has decided to spend $500,000 for the next election. This is one of members' fourteen automobiles.

The way it looks now, the old wing seeks the buyers and the buyers all sell.

IT'S astonishing to observe what sensation it creates when a profession of diplomat says something that sounds like common sense.

realistic as you can imagine. Soldiers blown to bits in front of the camera, hand to hand bayonet battles, frenzied scenes, and less like a police pup. Touch of ball about her, and a trace of good nature.
