DISTRRACTFOLD

Since its debut in 2011, Distractfold has established itself as a fresh, strong and daring voice in the UK music community. The group specialises in instrumental, acousmatic and hybrid music of the 21st century written by composers of the new generation. We have established productive collaborative links with the Architectural Association in London (resulting in concerts in London, Madrid and the Lisbon Architectural Triennial in 2013 and in New York, Berlin and Barcelona in 2014) and the International Anthony Burgess Foundation where the ensemble holds a quarterly residence of self-produced concerts including guests such as the Mivos Quartet, the Noise Upstairs and Le Quan Ninh. In 2014 the group will be in residence at University of Leeds, University of Huddersfield and Brunel University. Distractfold is one of the ensembles invited to perform at the 47th Darmstadt Summer Course, will be ensemble in residence at La Bruit de la Musique 2014 festival in Creuse, France and will perform in International Institute for New Music Basel 2014-15 series.

Program Notes

Postcard- Felipe Lara

Postcard was commissioned by the New York Miniaturist Ensemble with the condition that it had to be comprised of 100 notes or less. The urge to cheat was such that I immediately started to wonder "what is a note?" A note is a symbol on the score, not a sound after all. I then came up with several loops, repeats, and aleatoric boxes where the performers get to choose how long they stay in each section, thus allowing the chosen hundred notes to breathe and get more millage. The work can last anywhere between 3 and 8 minutes depending on how long the performers choose to stay inside these loops.

The title refers to three aspects of the piece:

- 1) The unpretentious dimensions and character of the work (not a novel, a postcard)
- 2) That the instruments are to be separated on the stage or hall to portray a necessary distance between the sender and the receiver of the postcard.
- 3) That it musically tries to depict the idea of having both an image and a message. I approached the images by presenting static clarinet multiphonics as they are, without ornamenting them at all. The violin simply reinforces some areas of the clarinet's timbre. The messages, however, are more melodic manipulations of the clarinet's timbre that are presented in more cantabile fashion by both instruments. There are 3 images and 3 messages in total.

Persona with Parabens- Pablo Santiago Chin

This piece was commissioned by cellist Katinka Kleijn for the Chicago Humanities Festival Of 2010. It is inspired by the "repeated scene" of Ingmar Bergman's film Persona. Both versions of the scene show a still close-up of one of the two characters, one speaking, the other listening. The inflections of the Swedish language informs (intuitively) the quarter-tone inflections of the melodic lines, while the harmonics and timbral changes are fantasies on coloring the black and white film.

Rapture- Anna Clyne

Rapture was composed for Australian clarinetist, Eileen Mack and was premiered at Symphony Space in New York City with live visuals created by Joshue Ott and his custom program, superDraw.

In performance, the live clarinetist is processed in real time with a combination of effects often associated with electric guitars; namely distortion and reverb. The transformed sound of the clarinet is supported with an intense tape part that comprises vocal recordings and recordings of Mack playing sounds, which range from sustained tones to multiphonics. In a similar process to painting, these recordings were then spliced, manipulated and layered to create the music of the tape part.

Appears in Anna Clyne's Blue Moth (2012 Tzadik Records).

Its Fleece Electrostatic- Mauricio Pauly In this work the pure violin sounds and their processed counterpart are visually integrated through the mechanics evident in their performance. To the listener/viewer it is clear when --and to some degree, how-- the violinist is activating the equipment surrounding her. Because the technology is integrated into the physical performance, the artifice is exclusively within the music as it unfolds over time.

“Mary had a little lamb, its fleece electrostatic / And everywhere Mary went, the lights became erratic.”

David Foster Wallace, Infinite Jest

Far-off- Santiago Díez-Fischer

This work is intended to be designed with gestures. That is to say, there is no decisive rhythmic importance, even if in sections with traditional notation the rhythm must be respected, it is not essential. In any case, we must pay attention to what we might call the “general rhythmic gesture”. This gesture is the general rhythmic movement is the movement produced usually among the instruments, in the “comings” and “goings” by the “Tail piece”, in the dynamics, pressure in the arc, and so on. It is very important to respect the flautati and pressure. The “flautati” will search a sonorous lightness sensation. The pressure, which vary according to the dynamics required, will aim to find a color rustic sound. The pressure shall never “cut” the sound. The work is based on a simple idea ... converting the rustic sound in an organic element. How can we fell that a “harsh” sound, a “raw” comes about naturally?

Biographies

Pedro Álvarez

My work is mainly focused on the creation of contemporary chamber music that challenges traditional aesthetic ideals of processual fluency and development. Instead I aim at new forms of musical experience based on contemplative approaches to static ‘objectivised’ situations, radically contrasting brutal formal simplicity with highly detailed textures.

I completed a PhD at University of Huddersfield under Liza Lim, obtaining the “Vice-Chancellor’s Award for an outstanding Research Degree Thesis”, having also taken editorial responsibility of issue 4 of the CeReNeM Journal. Previous degrees include MPhil from University of London, MA and Licentiate from Universidad de Chile, both awarded with ‘maximum distinction’. Besides formal studies, in 2006 a Chilean Arts Council scholarship allowed me to study composition privately with James Dillon in London.

My music is being widely performed by established specialised ensembles and a younger generation of exceptionally talented musicians, featuring in international festivals such as the Wittener Tage für neue Kammermusik, Connect Festival in Malmö, Huddersfield Contemporary Music Festival, ME_MMIX in Mallorca, Marathon V in Vienna, ISCM World Music Days in Ghent and Lange Musik at Dampfzentrale Bern. During the Spring 2014, I am 'Composer in Residence' of the city of Vienna, appointed by the Austrian Government and KulturKontakt Austria.

Pablo Chin

The music of Pablo Chin, a Costa Rican composer based in Chicago, engages with self-designed methods that aid in generating sophisticated polyphony, and that reveal unforeseen musical trajectories. These methods derive from the composer's concerns with the role of calculation and intuition in his work. Recent works draw inspiration from the narratives of film and literature, phonetic structures in text, and the exploration of iconic Latin rhythms and metrical spaces.

Chin's music has been performed in 11 countries and across the U.S. states. He has been commissioned by Ensemble Recherche, International Contemporary Ensemble, members of the Anubis Quartet, the MAVERick Ensemble, Chicago Humanities Festival, Latino Music Festival of Chicago, Claremont Concert Orchestra and ensemble dal niente among others. His music has also been performed by artists including Ostravská Banda, Donatienne Michel-Dansac, Pierre-Stéphane Meugé, Marino Formenti, Claire Chase, Eric Lamb, Gan Lev and Marcus Weiss.

Chin earned his doctoral degree in composition from Northwestern University, where he has been awarded the Cacavas Award, William T. Faricy Award, and William Karlins Award. There he studied with Hans Thomalla, Jay Alan Yim, and Aaron Cassidy. In master classes he has worked with Richard Barrett, Oliver Knussen, Chaya Czernowin, and Kaija Saariaho among others. His music has been commissioned for and performed in prestigious international festivals of new music, including the 45th and 46th Summer Courses for New Music in Darmstadt, Ostrava Days 2009, and Centre Acanthes 2011. Currently Chin teaches theory, aural skills and composition at Saint Xavier University, and is co-founder and artistic director of Fonema Consort. Chin was recently awarded the Dotacion Musical from Costa Rica's ACAM, to fund the production of his first album, to be released in the Spring of 2014.

Anna Clyne

London-born Anna Clyne is a composer of acoustic and electro-acoustic music, combining resonant soundscapes with propelling textures that weave, morph, and collide in dramatic explosions. Her work, described as “dazzlingly inventive” by Time Out New York, often includes collaborations with cutting edge choreographers, visual artists, film-makers, and musicians worldwide.

In August 2013, Clyne's Masquerade, a BBC Radio 3 commission, had its world premiere on the famed Last Night of the Proms by the BBC Symphony Orchestra under Marin Alsop. Other recent premieres include The Violin, a multimedia collaboration with artist Josh Dorman and violinists Cornelius Dufallo and Amy Kauffman, The Lost Thought, performed by Trio Mediæval with conductor Julian Wachner, and A Wonderful Day for the Bang on a Can All-Stars. Recently, Clyne served as Composer-in-Residence for 21c Liederabend, a biennial New York event highlighting contemporary art song, and has also been featured as a resident composer at the Cabrillo Festival of Contemporary Music.

Other commissions include works for the American Composers Orchestra, Carnegie Hall, Houston Ballet, London Sinfonietta, Los Angeles Philharmonic, Metropolis Ensemble, Orpheus Chamber Orchestra and the Southbank Centre among others. Clyne's work has been championed by some of the world's finest conductors, including Marin Alsop, Pablo Heras-Casado, George Manahan, Jeffrey Milarsky, Riccardo Muti, Leonard Slatkin, Alan Pierson, Andre de Ridder, Esa-Pekka Salonen, and Osmo Vänskä. Her work has been performed in venues ranging in diversity from New York's (Le) Poisson Rouge to Carnegie Hall—and hosts of concert halls and alternative venues across the globe.

Appointed by Music Director Riccardo Muti, Clyne is currently the Chicago Symphony's Mead Composer-in-Residence through the 2014-15 season. She is the recipient of several prestigious awards including a Charles Ives Fellowship from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, awards from Meet the Composer, the American Music Center, the Foundation for Contemporary Arts, the Jerome Foundation, and prizes from ASCAP and SEAMUS. She was recently nominated for the 2014 Times Breakthrough Award (UK).

Clyne holds a first-class Bachelor of Music degree with honors from Edinburgh University and a Master of Music degree from the Manhattan School of Music where she studied with Marjan Mozetich, Marina Adamia, Julia Wolfe, and Nils Vigeland.

In 2012, Tzadik Records released a full album of Clyne's music, titled Blue Moth, showcasing a diverse range of her instrumental and ensemble with tape pieces, including Roulette, fits + starts and Steelworks.
