11-11-2005

Concert: Ensemble X

Ensemble X

Chris Younghoon Kim

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.ithaca.edu/music_programs

Recommended Citation
http://digitalcommons.ithaca.edu/music_programs/1579

This Program is brought to you for free and open access by the Concert & Recital Programs at Digital Commons @ IC. It has been accepted for inclusion in All Concert & Recital Programs by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ IC.
ENSEMBLE X

Judith Kellock, soprano
Susan Waterbury, violin
Debra Moree, viola
Wendy Herbener Mehne, flute
Richard Faria, clarinet
Michael Galván, clarinet
Eric Callahan, bass clarinet
Elizabeth Simkin, cello
Lee Goodhew Romm, bassoon
Conrad Alexander, percussion
Nicholas Walker, bass
Chris Younghoon Kim, conductor
Xak Bjerken, piano and celesta
Steven Stucky, conductor

Hockett Family Recital Hall
Friday, November 11, 2005
8:15 p.m.
Rule, Britannia!

Kiss on Wood (1993)
James MacMillan
(b. 1959)

Linoi (1968)
Harrison Birtwistle
(b. 1934)

Seadrift (1992)
Julian Anderson
(b. 1967)

  I. Prelude
  II. Secco
  III. Lento desolato

INTERMISSION

Life Story (1993)
Thomas Adès
(b. 1971)

Bassoonova (2004)*
Colin Matthews
(b. 1946)

  I. Allegro
  II. Molto vivo
  III. Recitativo
  IV. Ostinato
  V. Allegretto

Octet (1979)
George Benjamin
(b. 1960)

* East Coast premiere
 Guest artists

For more information, please go to www.ensemblex.org
Seadrift

Once Paumanok,
When lilac-scent was in the air and fifth-month grass was growing,
Up the seashore in some briars,
Two feathered guests from Alabama, two together,
And every day the he-bird to and fro near at hand,
And every day the she-bird crouch’d on her nest, silent, with bright eyes,
And every day I, a curious boy, never too close, never disturbing them,
Cautiously peering, absorbing, translating,

Shine! Shine! Shine!
Pour down your warmth, great sun!
While we bask, we two together.

Two together...

...Winds blow south, or winds blow north,
Day come white, or night come black,
Home, or rivers and mountains from home,
Singing all the time, minding no time,
While we two keep together.

Blow! Blow! Blow!
Blow up sea-winds along Paumanok’s shore;
I wait and I wait till you blow my mate to me.

Soothe! Soothe! Soothe!
Close on its wave soothes the wave behind,
But my love soothes not me, not me.

I call to you my love.
Surely you know who is here, is here,
You must know who I am.

Hither my love!
Here I am! Here!
With this sustained note I announce myself to you,
We call together no more.
I call...

Walt Whitman (1819-1892)
Life Story

After you’ve been to bed together for the first time, without the advantage or disadvantage of any prior acquaintance, the other party very often says to you, Tell me about yourself, I want to know all about you, what’s your story? And you think that maybe they really and truly do sincerely want to know your life story, and so you light up a cigarette and begin to tell it to them, the two of you lying together in completely relaxed positions like a pair of rag dolls a bored child dropped on a bed.

You tell them your story, or as much of your story as time or a fair degree of prudence allows, and they say, Oh, oh, oh, oh, each time a little more faintly, until the oh is just an audible breath, and then of course there’s some interruption. Slow room service comes up with a bowl of melting ice cubes, or one of you rises to pee and gaze at himself with mild astonishment in the bathroom mirror. And then, the first thing you know, before you’ve had time to pick up where you left off with your enthralling life story, they’re telling you their life story, exactly as they’d intended to all along, and you’re saying, Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, each time a little more faintly, the vowel at last becoming no more than an audible sigh, as the elevator, halfway down the corridor and a turn to the left, draws one last, long, deep breath of exhaustion and stops breathing forever. Then?

Well, one of you falls asleep and the other one does likewise with a lighted cigarette in his mouth, and that’s how people burn to death in hotel rooms.

Tennessee Williams (1911-1983)