About the Program

Bernstein’s Mass was written for the opening of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. on September 8, 1971. Subtitled, “A Theater Piece for Singers, Players, and Dancers,” the 90-minute work is based on the Liturgy of the Roman Catholic Mass with additional texts by Stephen Schwartz and Leonard Bernstein. It called for a large pit orchestra, two choruses, boys choir, ballet company and cast plus a marching band and rock combo. Mass uses an eclectic mix of musical styles and reflects the turmoil of the era, being viewed by some as blasphemous and by others as politically subversive. However, in his program notes at the premiere, Bernstein states his intent “to communicate as directly and universally as I can a reaffirmation of faith.” Over the years it has become recognized as one of his greatest compositional achievements, as well as one of his most controversial.

Choral composer Franz Biebl’s best-known composition is Ave María. It was first published in 1964 in Germany for seven-part men’s voices and brought to the United States by the Cornell University Glee Club in 1970. The version used in this transcription, however, is the version for mixed choir selected because it better matches the registration of the band. This adaptation is a transcription rather than an arrangement in that every attempt has been made to preserve every possible detail of the original. The only editings that have been made are the addition of limited octave doublings and the addition of bar lines in order to facilitate performance of the freestyle chant sections.

El Camino Real (translated “The Royal Road or “The King’s Highway”) was commissioned by the 581st Air Force Band. It bears the subtitle, “A Latin Fantasy.” The music is based on a series of chord progressions common to countless generations of Spanish flamenco guitarists, whose fiery style and brilliant playing have captivated millions of music lovers throughout the world. These progressions and the resulting key relationships have become practically synonymous with what we feel to be the true Latin idiom. Together with the folk melodies they have underscored, in part derived by a procedure known to musicians as the “melodizing of harmony,” they have created a vast body of what most people would consider authentic Spanish music. The first section of the music is based upon the dance form known as the Jota, while the second, contrasting section is derived from the Fandango, but here altered considerably in both time and tempo. Overall, the music follows a traditional three part form of fast-slow-fast.

Symphonic Dance #3, subtitled “Fiesta,” is one of a group of five originally commissioned by the Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra. First performance of the complete set of dances was by that orchestra, conducted by the composer, in 1965. In refashioning the dances for symphonic band, composer Williams achieves a new dimension in sound and color and adds fresh excitement to the literature. “Fiesta” depicts the pageantry of Latin-American celebrations – street bands, bullfights, bright costumes, the colorful legacy of a proud people.

Hudson Noguiera was born in Itapetininga in rural Sao Paulo, Brazil. At an early age he began his musical studies and graduated from the Escola Superior de Musica Mozarteum in Sao Paulo. He became resident composer at the Conservatorio Dramatico e musical in Tatui, Sao Paulo in 1998. Even though schooled as a classical composer, Noguiera has never forgotten his passion for Brazilian/Latin popular music. This selection, translated as Brazilian Portraits programmatically describes specific regions in Brazil. The journey begins in the Amazon rainforest and includes an indigenous ritual, a wildfire, and the Amazon River itself. The tour continues with the hustle-bustle of traffic in urban Sao Paulo includes visits to local neighborhoods and the loneliness that can also be part of big city life. There is an homage to the African-Caribbean influence including the capoeira which is a Brazilian art form that combines martial arts with song and dance and the maracatu from northeastern Pernambuco. The work concludes with the sounds of Carnaval in the streets of Rio de Janeiro.
