Program Notes

"Awakened by Birds in Early Morning"

Inspired by personal experience, “Awakened by Birds in Early Morning” programmatically depicts someone waking up to the sound of birds. In the first movement, the birds slowly draw the person out of a deep sleep. By the second movement, the person is fully awake, listening to and marveling at the bright sound of the birds. The bird calls become increasingly dense and chaotic, until they reach a cacophonous din right before the sun rises. The final movement portrays the first, faint yet warm rays of sunlight streaming in the through the curtains, which gradually fill the room with light.

— Alyssa Rodriguez

Now in its second century, the Ithaca College School of Music affirms its fundamental belief that music and the arts are essential components of the human experience. The School of Music prepares students to be world-class professionals and the music leaders of tomorrow - ready to transform individuals and communities by advancing the art of music.
